Dr. Talmage on the Temptations to Which They Are Subject.

SCHOOL AND COLLEGE DAYS.

In This Discourse Is Described the Behaviour of a Young Man Away From Home, With Practical Suggestions for People of Every Age and Class.

Washington, Oct. 14.-Dr. Talmage stayed in London to occupy the famous Wesley pulpit in the City Road chapel, where he has preached several times before, always receiving a hearty welcome. Thence he went to Ireland, preaching in Belfast and Dublin. The discourse he has sent this week describes the behavior of a young man away from home and suggests practical lessons for people of every age and class. The teat is Daniel i, 5: "And the king appointed them a daily provision of the king's meat and of the wine which he drank; so nourishing them . three years, that at the end thereof they might stand before the king."

My text opens the door of a college in Babylon and introduces to you a young student 17 years of age, Daniel by name. Be not surprised if in the college you find many hilari-ties. Put a hundred young men together and they are sure to have a There is no harm in God does not write out the trees and the grass and the blossoms in dull prose. The old robin does not sit moping in the nest because of the chirpings and the lively adventures of the fledgelings that have just begun to fly. Do not come into an orchard looking for winter apples on a May morning.

But Daniel of the text is far from being gay. What oppressive thoughts ave come over him as he remembered that he was a captive in a strange land! The music that came into his study window was not the song of Zion, but the sound of flute, sackbut and dulcimer in the worship of the heathen god. More over, he had no hope of ever getting back home again and meeting those who had missed him long and missed him bitterly, wondering if he. were still alive and finding many a luxury tasteless because they did not know out Daniel might be lacking bread.

When you and I were in school of college and the vacation approached we were full of bright anticipation, and we could not study the last day, and we could not study the last The lexicon and the philosophical apparatus were transparent, so we could see right through them into the meadows and the orchards Not so with poor Daniel. He did not know that he should ever escape from captivity, or escaping, he did He did not know but when he got home the loved ones would be dead, and he would go wandering and weeping among the sepulchers of his fathers. Besides that the king tried to make him forget his home and forget his for that purpose actually changed his name. The king wanted him to be a prodigy in personal appearance, and so he ordered meat and ne sent from his own table to Daniel, but Daniel refuses all this and puts himself upon the humblest diet, the poorest of all herbs, called pulse, and plain water. His attendants cry out against this and tell him he will perish under such a diet. "Nd," he says, "you try us for ten days, and if at the end of that time we are not full cheeked and robust as any, it will be surprising." Ten days pass along and the students come up for examination, and all declare that none are so ruddy and robust as Daniel and his fellow captives. The days of industrious pupilage and the years pass by, and the day of graduation has come, and Daniel gets his diploma, signed by the king and reading as follows: "In all matters of wisdom and understanding that the king inquired of thenk-he found them ten times better than all the magicians and astrologers that were in all his realm." And so Daniel took the first honor, and here the story ends, for Daniel the student hereafter will be Daniel the prime minister. The first thought suggested to me by this subject is that young men may be carried into captivity their enemies. There is a captivity more galling than the one in which Daniel was transported; it is the captivity of evil habit. Men do not go into that wittingly. Slyly and imperceptibly are the chains forged upon them, and one day they wake up to find themselves away down in Babylon. Cyrus afterward consented that some of his captives should return, and 50,000 of them accepted the opportunity, but tell me what evil habit ever consented to let a man go. Ten plagues made Pharaoh consent to the departure of God's people, but tell me what Pharaoh of evil habit ever cheerfully consented to let any of its victims go. Men talk of evil habits as though they were light and trivial, but they are scorpion whips that tear the flesh; they are spikes more bloody than the path of a Brahman; they make the poisonous robe of Nessus; they are the sepulchers in which millions are buried alive.

The young are in more peril bethey are unsuspecting. The and when a ship's company makes y is when the watchman is off tard. When a spider wast time ward. When a spider meets a t does not say, "Go down with to the place where I murder in-No: it says, "Come and take bright morning walk with me on his suspension bridge of glittering cossamer." Oh, there is a difference etween the sparkle of a serpent's eye and the crush of its slimy folds. There is a difference between the bear's paw toying with a kid and bear's paw toying with the crackling of the bones in the terrific hug. Pike's Peak looks beautiful in the distance, but ask the starved travelers by the roadside. what they think of Pike's Peak. Are there those around whom suspicious companions are gathered? . Do their jests and their entertainments make the hours go blithely by when you are with them? Have you taken a sip from their cup of sin or gone with them in one path of unright-eousness? Turn back. From Babylon they came and to Babylon they would carry you. If so many plague stricken men would like to enter your companionship, before any one is allowed to pass into the intimacy of your heart put on them severest quarantine. My subject also impresses me with the fact that early impressions are almost ineffaceable. Daniel had religious bringing up. From the good meaning of his name I know he had pious parentage. But as soon as he comes into the possession of king his name is changed, all his surroundings are changed and now, you say, will begin the demoraliza-tion of his character. Before his name was Daniel, which means "God; my judge:" now, his name is to be Belteshazzar, which means "the treasurer of the god Bel." Now you expect to see him overthrown amid all these changed circumstances. Oh, no! Daniel started right, and he keeps on right. When I find what Daniel is in Jerusalem, I am not surprised to find what he is in Babylon. I wish I could write upon all parents' hearts the fact that early impressions are well nigh ineffaceable. loseph, a pious lad in the house of his father Jacob I am not surprised to see him acting so nobly down in Egypt. When I find Samuel, a pious lad, in the house of his mother Hannah, I am not surprised that he gives a terrible smiting to idolatry s soon as he comes to manhood David planned the temple at Jersalem and gathered the materials for its building, but Solomon, the son, came and put up the structure, and that goes in all ages. The father plans the character of the child and its destiny for time and eternty then the son completes the structure. You might as well put down foundation ten feet by five and expect to rear on it a great cathedral as to put down a contracted character in a child's soul and yet rear, upon it something extensively

Let me say to those Christian parents who are doing their best in the education of their children: Take good heart; your sons this morning nay be far away from you and in a distant city, but God, to whom you dedicated them, will look after them. The God of Daniel will take care of them far away in Babylon. Train up a child in the way he go, and when he is old he should vill not depart from it." He may vander away for awhile and fall into sin and break your heart, but before he is done with this life. aving commended him to God, will come back again, for I put the mphasis in the right place and on the word "old" when I repeat that assage and say, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." May you all have the glorious satisfaction of seeing your children walk in paths of righteousness and One with them on earth, nay you be one with them in hea-

Let I learn also from this subject

e beauty of Christian sobriety. The eat and the wine that were to come o Daniel's table were to come from

he king's table. Well, Daniel had right to take that food. The ing was a heathen and, like all the neathen, was accustomed to ask a lessing before he partook of food, that blessing they always and in dedicated the food to the gods. Sc. that if Daniel had taken this food e would have broken the law which forbade the taking of Good dedicated to idols. He chose pulse. I was a miracle that he did not dwindle way. There is nothing in pulse, such a poor herb, to make a man nd healthful. Some people alk as though they were a kind of liet which would make a man swarthy and competent to do the duties of this life. That is not the lesson at all. But for a positive miracle Daniel would have dwindled away, and when God for his self denial puts upon him this benediction he outs a benediction upon all Christian sobriety. I would not have you class your preacher among those who would put unnecessary restraints upon lawful appetites. There are those in this day who dispute the grant which God gove to man for animal food, and they make a religion of their hunger as the Pharisees expected heaven for their fast-Daniel did not always live or ulse. He was not a Grahamite; he was not a vegetarian. He went through that self denial because the food offered him was idilatrous food. When I see God filling the earth with all varieties of food. I have not much confidence in the teaching of those who would put us on severe regimen. There are parents who, with a wrong theory in this respect, deny their children all harmless luxuries and without sufficient inquiry send them out to boarding schools where their intellects are cultured to the disadvantage of their starved bodies, so that from many a boarding school class of 20 will graduate, 19 them ghosts. Now, when I see the angels eating the calf which Abraham slew and when I find Christ eating broiled fish even after his resurrection I come to the conclusion that the theories of the vegetarian are not from a religious standpoint well founded. Are you fond of pictures? Here is one drawn by Soloman: "Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow? Who hath Who hath wounds without cause? that go to seek mixed wine. they that go to seek mixed wine. Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it moveth itself aright in the cup. At the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder."

"Do you know what you are do-ing?" said a mother who had broken into a restaurant, the door locked against her, her son inside. came up to the counter and saw the cup for her own son. intoxicating she said to the man behind the counter, "Do you know what you are doing?" "No," said he, "I don't." "You are fattening grave

Says she,

I was told at Des Moines of a train of cars going through a very stormy night over one of the western prairies. The young man was present told us the story. night there was a little child in the sleeping car, fretful and worrying and crying hour after hour. man on the opposite side of the car lost his patience and said, "Either make that child shut up or take it to its mother." Then another man on the opposite side of the sleeping car-a man with a broken heartpushed back the curtain and looked out and said, "Young man, that child's mother is dead in the bagcar, and the little thing is Then the man wailing for her." who had committed the affront rose and offered his services for the night and took care of the child until morning, and all the passengers in the car were broken down with emotion. Oh, if the cry of one child could arouse so many sympathizers, what ought to be the effect of the what thousand voiced shrick of orphanage and widowhood from inebriate's grave? God save this country from the perils of strong

I think the most thrilling passage of a young man's life is when he leaves home to make his fortune. The novelty and the romance of the thing may keep him from any keen sorrow, but the old people who have seen the destruction of so many who started with high hope cannot help but be anxious. As long as he was in his father's house his waywardness was kindly chided, and although sometimes he thought the restraint rather bitter and rather severs his calmer moments he acknowledged salutary and righteous.

Through the influence of metropolitan friends the father has obtained a situation for his son in the city. The comrades of the young man come the night before his departure to bid farewell to the adventurer. The morning of his going away he walks around the place to take a last look at things - perhaps comes upon some object that starts a tear, some offd familiar place, but no one sees the tear. The trunk is put upon the wagon, the young man is off for the city. He is set down amid excitenents and amid associates who are not overcareful about their words and thoughts and actions. Morning comes. No family altar. Sabbath comes. No rural quiet. The sanctuary comes, but all the faces are stranger and no one cores what her had ments and amid associates who are strange, and no one cares whether he comes to church or does not come. On his way home from the store he sees a placard announcing a rare and vivacious amusement, He has no vivacious amusement, greeting at the door of the boarding house. He has no appetite for the food. No one cares whether he eats or does not eat — rather he would not eat-it is cheaper! After the tea he goes into the parlor, takes up a book, finds it dull, no sister to look over it with him. Goes upstairs to his room in the third story, finds it cold and uninviting, and in despair he rushes out, caring for nothing but to get something to make stop thinking. He is caught in the first whirl of sin. He has start ed out on the dark sea where the gleam of joy is the flashing of the pit and the laughter is the creaking of the gate of the lost. Oh, how many graves there are in the country churchyard which, if they could speak, would tell of young men who went off with high hopes and came back blasted and crushed to disgrace the sepulcher of their fathers! And yet this exodus must go on

To-morrow morning on all the thoroughfares, in every steamboat and in every rail car will be young men going forth to seek their fortunes in our great towns. O Lord God of Daniel, help them to be as faithful in Babylon as they were in Jerusalem! Forget not, O my young friend, in the great seaports the moral and religious principles inculcated by parental solicitude, and if to-day seated in the house of God you feel the advantage of early Christian culture forget not those to whom you are most indebted and pray God that as old age comes upon them and the shadow of death the hope of heaven may beam through the darkness. God forbid that any of us through our misconduct should bring disgrace upon a father's name or prove re creant to the love of a mother. The dramatist made no exaggeration when he exclaimed, "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child!" Oh, that God would help you as parents and as young people to take to heart the lessons of this important subject, and if we shall learn that there is danger of being carried fato captivity, and that early impressions are almost inthat early impressions are almost ineffaceable, and that there is something beautiful in Christian sobriety, and that there is great attractiveness in plety away from home
—then it will be to you and to me a matter of everlasting congratulation that we considered how Daniel behaved when he became a college student at Babylon. student at Babylon.

THE STORY OF A WOMAN'S RES-CUE FROM GREAT SUFFERING.

for Years Her Life Was One of Misery-Her Feet and Limbs Would Swell Frightfully and She Became Unable to do Her Household Work:

From the Enterprise, Bridgewater, N. S.

It is appaling to think of the num It is appaling to think of the number of women throughout the country who day after day live a life almost of martyrdom; suffering but too frequently in silent, almost hopeless despair. To such sufferers the story of Mrs. Joshua Wile, will come as a beacon of hope. Mrs. Wile lives about two miles from the town of Bridgewater, N. S., and is respected and esteemed by all who know her. While in one of the local drug stores not long ago, Mrs. Wile noticed a While in one of the local drug stores not long ago, Mrs. Wile noticed a number of boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the show case, and remarked to the proprietor "If ever there was a friend to woman, it is those pills." She was asked why he would be strongly about the pills. those pills." She was asked why she spoke so strongly about the pills, and in reply told of the misery from which they had rescued her. The druggist suggested that she should make known her cure for the benefit of the thousands of similar sufferers. Mrs. Wile replied that while averse to publicity yet she would gladly to publicity, yet she would gladly tell of her cure if it would benefit anyone else, and she gave the following statement with permission for its publication:—/ "My life for some years was one of weakness, pain and misery, until I obtained relief through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. From some cause, I know not what exactly, I became so afflicted with uterine trouble that I was obliged to undergo two operations. A part only of the trouble was removed, and a terrible weakness and miserable, nervous con-dition ensued, which the physician told me I would never get clear of.

I tried other doctors, but all with the same result—no betterment of my condition. The pains finally attacked my back and kidneys. My legs and feet became frightfully swollen, and I cannot describe the tired, sinking, deathly feeling that at times came over my whole body. I became able to do my household work, lost all hope of recovery. Be this stage in m yillness I had I became unthis stage in m yillness I had been advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but like thousands of other women, thought there could be the control of the co women, thought there could be no good in using them when the medical men were unable to cure me. At last, in desperation, I made up my mind to try them, but really without any faith in the result. To my great surprise I obtained some benefit from the first box. I then bought six boxes more, which I took according to directions, and am happy to say was raised up by them from a weak, sick, despondent, useless con-dition, to my present state of health and happiness. Every year now in the spring and fall I take a box or two, and find them an excellent thing at the change of the season. Other benefits I might mention, but suffice it to say I would strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all ailing women." ailing women.'

The value of dwarf pears consists largely in their early bearing. For ease of growth and for the rich ness of its returns the grape is hardly excelled by any fruit.

Perfect planting of a tree consists in placing it as nearly as possible in the same condition as that in which it was before removal. It is claimed that grapes grown in clayey soil are darker and more glossy than those grown on gravelly land, but the sweetest and richest tasting grapes are grown on gravelly soil.
