Financial Juggling.

Continuing our observations on the Speech from the Throne, we come now to the financial condition of the Colony as discussed in the address, and it will be plainly discernible to every reader that, in the estimation of the Government, it was not deemed worth while to devote as much space or time to the preparation of this statement, which is the most vital and interesting of all, as was found necessary to excuse the Government for the plunging of the country into the throes of a general election at such an unsuitable season as they propose. A bare paragraph suffices to acquaint the taxpayers that there was a surplus of revenue for the past fiscal year. Good news indeed, if true, (for this is an age of paper balances), and we do not yet know just how many hundred thousand dollars were spent, on the authority of Minutes of Council, which the Auditor General refused to sanction, and which had to be carried along by the Bank with the Government business is done, until the expenditure is legalized by Act of the Legislature, which will not be done at the present session, and is apparently one of the reasons why the party in power so anxiously desires a "snap" verdict from the electoral jury, in order that they may "cover up" the huge sums spent unauthoritously, by legislation, as it would be fatal at present for the actual amount to become known. When the monies so spent are deducted from the paper surplus which the speech announces, it will leave the actual surplus so microscopic as to be invisible to the human eye. The Country is further told that a surplus revenue for the current fiscal year, ending June 30th, may also be anticipated, which is a very interesting statement, in view of the fact that the eight years months ending February 28th last, showing an increase of one million, four hundred and fifty two thousand, six hundred and twenty three dollars over the receipts for the same period, viz., July 1st, 1917 to February 28th, 1918, last fiscal year. This would be extremely gratifying if on the other hand the expenditure for the same two periods were given, and indeed, if it were, it is beyond the shadow of a doubt that the expenditure, authorized and unauthorized would show a corresponding increase for the last period therefore, the boasted surplus is purely fictitious. It is often urged in argument that figures do not lie, but—they may be so manipulated as to deceive even the expert, and to make a good pre-election showing and to deceive the people into the belief that Newfoundland is pre-eminent sound, financially, the manipulators have been at work at their favorite pastime of juggling, to such good purpose that they make credit balances show where none really exist. This is known as high finance, and among its chief exponents are the members of the National Government of this Dominion.

Nothing could be further from the purpose of the Government than that the real condition of the Dominion's affairs should be publicly known at the precise moment. It would kill the few, very few, chances its candidates have of winning. Hence they, or rather the Prime Minister, who on Wednesday declared in the House that the official speech from the throne was his, have by a copious use of verbose language, concealed from the public the true facts, and have presented for consumption a statement filled with subtleties and evasions, a statement which carries on its face popular discredit, and a statement which could only be expected from a Bolshevik administration, such as at present controls and strangles the promise of Newfoundland's future.

Observed at the House.

The late censor looked rather out of it yesterday, but perhaps he was even then mentally censoring some of the Opposition speeches, forgetting in his absentmindedness that he himself is to be censured at the polling booth in Carbonear.

The brevity and wit of the Junior member for Ferryland, was extremely remarkable yesterday. We note, however, that he spent considerable time in writing, and maybe he was calculating how much the next plumb- ing job for the Government would be worth. But boy, no more plumb- ing jobs in the next decade.

Mr. Currie, in his remarks yesterday, reiterated the words of the Premier that "the people know the Government." It could be said with more truth that the Government know the chest better, in fact the latter is what has made the present conglomeration so notorious in our political annals. When Mr. Currie's questions on ex- penditure are answered, the people will be more eager than ever to give voice to their opinion in getting clear of the need travellers.

The Premier and others of the Government spoke of the need of better- ing the railway service, but we pre- sume, from past data, that whatever is in view will be embodied in the "manifesto of promises."

Mr. Morine, as usual, spoke in his racy style, and we assert that the Government are fearful of what may really come from the member for Bonavista as the session advances.

There was one exception to be noted to the general expression of care seen on the Governmental features, and that was in the case of the gen- eral Minister of Public Works. He was as cheerful as ever, and we hazard the guess that perhaps he contem- plates another term if his expectations of a permanency are not fulfilled. (M.P.)

Re-Establishment School

Last night the Re-Establishment Night School for Sailors and Soldiers was opened, when some eighteen men were enrolled for various courses. The Vocational Officer was present and made a brief address on the im- portance of education to the men as- sembled. There were also present Mr. A. H. Whitman, Principal of the School and three assistants who have quite recently cast aside the Khaki, namely: Messrs. Victor Curtis, Hubert Greenland and Patrick Hearn.

The men who had assembled were an earnest crowd, bent on getting the best value possible out of the School with a view of increasing their chances of promotion in their several walks of life.

It is the intention of the Civil Re- establishment Department to make the day school—a thoroughly efficient instrument. In the Day School there are over sixty men enrolled. The men are divided into small classes and the work is of an intensive charac- ter; each man being taken individual- ly. The progress of most of the students is most encouraging.

The same intensive methods that are used in the Day School will like- wise be used in the Night School and the Staff will be increased from time to time as occasion demands, so that the individual needs and circumstan- ces of each man will be dealt with with as little waste of time as possi- ble.

In addition to fundamental subjects special facilities will be afforded for commercial and industrial subjects. It is planned to organize a class for mechanical drawing for the good of mechanics of every kind as well as a class for the generation and con- trol and application to industries, of electricity. This class will be par- ticularly useful to men who are en- gaged in motor engines of every kind that depends upon the electric spark for ignition, to electrical engineers and to all who are employing electri- city in connection with power and motion. The Night School will be open on Monday, Tuesdays, Thurs- day and Friday of each week until further notice.

It is planned to open a work shop in the course of the next few days where the Internal Combustion Engine will be made a speciality. As soon as the arrangements for the opening of this work shop are completed, public notice will be issued. In con- nection with the Re-Establishment Day School a wood work shop is to be opened. The Department has hap- pily been able to secure the Manual Training School controlled by the Superintendent of Education (Method- ist). Every class attending the Re- Establishment Day School will have an opportunity of taking a course in woodworking during the afternoons. The mornings will be devoted in the woodwork shop to the men who are to be placed in the Orthopedic Hos- pital attached to the Empire Barracks.

It is hoped by means of this work shop and by the use of suitable exer- cises, specially prescribed by the doc- tors, to restore strength and useful- ness to many an injured limb.

S. A. Maternity Hospital

A representative meeting of the Maternity Hospital Committee, con- sisting of ladies and gentlemen, was held in the Board of Trade Rooms this forenoon. The meeting was most enthusiastic over the work al- ready accomplished and important plans were decided upon, and as a delegation the committee will meet the Prime Minister and Executive Committee by appointment to-morrow, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in connection with the Hospital move- ment.

Personal Mention.

Mr. Frank Pike, of Port aux Basques, is in the city and registered at the Crosbie.

Mrs. Margaret Dowden, 15 Howe Place, received a message from Ot- tawa, stating that her son, No. 2075615 Pte. William Dowden, was discharged from hospital on March 12th.

From the Sealers.

The sealing news for the past few days has been scanty, and it is safe to infer that little is being done by the steamers now out.

The Thetis managed to pick up 300 yesterday and the Neptune 100. There was no report from the others except that the Ranger had picked up a few pelts.

Women Workers.
It was a woman of Italy who first devised the special kind of gas mask which was officially adopted by the Italian government and distributed to the soldiers of that country and the Allied countries. Women committees manufactured hundreds of thousands of these masks.
Women's divisions of the United States employment service, depart- ment of labor, are receiving aid from the council of national defence in placing woman war workers.
Clarendon, Va., boasts of being the birthplace of the first woman's fire department.
An economic battle is being waged in London, England over the 1,500,000 unemployed women of the country as munitions workers during the war. Some English newspapers and com- mentors are asking if a sex war is one of the sinister possibilities. They point out that the situation is more dangerous than when the Suffragettes smashed windows and terrorized the London police because the women did not then know the full measure of their power.
Since the armistice was signed it has become more and more apparant that the 1,500,000 women workers would have to return to private life to give employment for returning sol- diers. But they have answered the challenge of the economic condition by strong organizations to protect woman's position in industry.

Willard to Get $10,000.
Archer, Willard's manager, was in New York recently, and mentioned casually that Willard is anxious to make a side bet of $10,000 with Dempsey, but Dempsey would be foolish to accept such a proposition, since if he bets Willard it must be an even money proposition, and if he puts his money into the open market he may be able to get as high as 2 1/2 to 1.
