Painleve Forming a Cabinet to Include Caillaux

Miners' Conference Adjourns to Await Wolvin's Arrival--John Sargent, Noted Painter Dies Suddenly--Besco Directors Meet in Montreal.

EMPIRE UNDERTAKES TO FORM A CABINET.
PARIS, April 15. Painleve to-day definitely formed a cabinet in succession to the Herriot Ministry.

WAITING FOR WOLVIN.
HALIFAX, N.S., April 15. This afternoon's adjournment of the conference called by E. H. Armstrong in an endeavor to bring about a settlement of the wage dispute between the British Empire Steel Corporation and United Mine Workers of America, representing its 12,000 colliery workers, the Premier issued the following statement: The conference has been in session for two days discussing certain suggestions made by the Premier looking toward an immediate termination of the strike. Both sides have given thoughtful consideration to the suggestions and the discussion has now reached a stage where it is deemed advisable to await the arrival of Mr. Roy M. Wolvin, President of the British Empire Steel Corporation, Ltd., who is expected Friday morning. In consideration of the coming of Mr. Wolvin, Mr. John L. CAILLAUX COMES BACK.
PARIS, April 15. Joseph Caillaux's acceptance in the cabinet now being formed by Paul Painleve, overshadowed all other developments in France's political crisis to-day. The return to power at the head of one of the most important ministries of a man who five years ago was regarded as politically dead for all time, has caused varied but strong emotions in the French political world, accustomed as it is to spectacular coups and dramatic ups and downs of its statesmen. M. Painleve informed President Doumergue to-night that he would present his ministry to the President late to-morrow afternoon.

CONFERENCE YESTERDAY MORNING.

McLurg of Besco and International President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America, adjourned to-day at noon after a two hours' session to meet again this afternoon. Nothing was given out following this morning's adjournment that would in any way indicate what had happened behind the closed and guarded doors of the conference room.

is believed to have been due to an apopleptic seizure.

Bright Days

LORD MORRIS AND IRELAND'S FUTURE.
Lord Morris, K.C.M.G., a former Prime Minister of Newfoundland, was the principal guest at the annual dinner of the Irish Society of Sheffield and district, held at the Grand Hotel, Sheffield, St. Patrick's night. Responding to the toast of "Ireland," he said, the desire for self government had been consistently maintained in that country for 700 years. To-day, he said, they had in Ireland a full fledged Constitution. They had the highest form of Dominion self-government, and for centuries the people of Ireland did not want half that. They wanted merely the right to manage their local affairs, but that could not be granted to them. There was a general idea that the whole Home Rule movement was merely maintained by a lot of Roman Catholics and Southern Irish people. As a matter of fact the Home Rule movement, going back from Parnell and Redmond, through the whole of the 700 years, was an effort principally by Protestants. People who had been driven out of Ireland were now ruling New York, Chicago, and other great communities. No one could read the history of Ireland without feeling that Irishmen had done a great deal in attaining the liberties which we enjoyed in this country to-day. He was happy to say that now there was a brighter day in store for Ireland, and many of her economic possibilities were about to be developed. Ireland now only wanted a chance. Nature had been kind to her in many ways. If she had had the same chance as England and Scotland, and had not been molested and interfered with, she would now have had probably a population equal to half that of England. It might seem strange to suggest that a country without coal and without any mineral development might become a great manufacturing country, but time would show. He believed Ireland possessed all the possibilities of one day becoming a great industrial country. The toast to which Lord Morris responded was proposed by the Rev. Brother James, who urged that Irishmen should put aside all rivalries and jealousies and become one people, one in aim, one in action, and one in resolution.—Sheffield Telegraph.

A Fellow Feeling
They found him at a cross-road sign, Where several ways did part; He had four bullets in his brain; A dagger through his heart. The Coroner sat; the case was heard, The Jury, all of them, Inclined to a six-letter word Beginning with an M. Till up and spoke a cross-eyed bloke, And on the Book he swore: "You corpse within had once a bin A Cross-Word Editor." At once the Jury all concurred, And thus their verdict ran; They took a fine eight-letter word, Which with an H began. To this they set an epithet; Eleven its letters be The primal two were J and U, The final, L and E.
