I want to say that according to his own expressed intrepetation of the British North America act over 10 years ago, he deliberately violated the constitution of this country. That is a strong statement to make but 1 challenge him to deny it and I will prove it out of his own mouth. Str. Wilfrid in 1896 had said:

"I charge here against him and his party (Sir Charles Tupper) that insofar as the senate of Canada is concerned they have all along for the last 13 years disragered the constitution of Canada in regard to the appointments which they have made to that branch of the legislature. It was one of the real understood principles at Confederation that if the senate was not elective and if it was to be appointed by the crown, then both political parties should be represented on the floor of the senate. The honorable gentleman has forgotten that rule in practice, although it may not have escaped his memory."

has forgotten that rule in practice, although it may not have escaped his memory."

"That was his conception," proceeded in Borden, "and I ask him to point out where from the day he came into office from 1896 until he went out of power in 1911, he fulfilled his duty to the constitution as interpreted by him in his words fust quoted. He cannot name one single instance."

Complains of Senate.

Dealing with the recent development in connection with naval matters, Mr. Borden said:

"The announcement by the government of the United Kingdom were called upon to pay for three Dreadnoughts which are to be laid down in place of those which would have been furnished, by Canada, under provisions of the Naval Aid Act, is a matter for serious and earnest consideration. In the first place the action of the British government, according to my conception, shatters every argument and contention on the part of those who serious and earnest consideration. In the first place the action of the British government, according to my conception, shatters every argument and contention on the part of those who have said over and over again in this house that there is no emergency. My right honorable friend is ready to give a guarantee of the peace of the world. There was no need of any further provision for the mayal defence of the empire. He was in the secrets of all the chancelleries of the world. He was thoroughly aware of all their pacific intentions and could answer for canada and the empire that we might distarm. This was more irresponsible vaporing, as the right honorable genticman must have known himself, and the list and most convincing answer to it is the action that the British government is placed by the unfortunate ill-advice given to the senate at his dictation. Now the position in which the government is placed by the unfortunate ill-advice given to the senate following his counsel is immensely humiliating to the people of the both of the condition of the Devoir, device the vast majority of this people are not only willing, but desirous of undertaking. A partizan Press Despatch.

"It prevents Canada at the present time from undertaking a duty which the vest majority of this people are not only willing, but desirous of undertaking. It prevents the people of change from undertaking that duty. However, it appears from the press despatches—and I have no official communication on the subject—that the British government has undertaken the duty which I think ought to have been discharged by Canada et sits.
