The wheat in the North and East certainly are not first-rate. From North Yorkshire we learn that there is a thin and defective plant on the heavy soils; in the West Riding the corn cannot be an average. In North Lincolnshire the wheats are reported to promise less than an average; and in South Lincolnshire and the Great Fen Level the crop may be an average, but will certainly be late. In Cambridgeshire wheat looks tolerably well; but the same is true in Norfolk and Suffolk, but on the light lands poor.

In the southern counties the wheat is earing three weeks later than last year, and it is reported doubtful if a full average can be attained. And the middle counties do not promise more than an average wheat crop, even with the best weather. The prospects of barley are equally unsatisfactory, the weather having been cold for producing heavy crops. In Norfolk and Suffolk the barleys look well on the highly farmed lands, but on thin soils are undoubtedly defective, backward and yellow. Oats, beans, and peas tell a more favorable tale. The potatoes come up irregularly, and have to some extent thrown out super-tubers instead of putting up a vigorous top.

As far as probabilities strike us now, we anticipate a rather late harvest—that is three weeks or a month later than last year—and a yield of wheat and barley somewhat below an average; an average, however, being possible if we should have a settled, sunny July.
