There are 2500 yachts owned in the United States, about ten per cent, steam. The sailing yachts are valued at $2,000,000, and the steam vessels at $1,000,000. The Quirk-Warwick race to have taken place to day on the exhibition grounds, is off, Quirk, who strained his leg recently at exercise, paying forfeit. Another match will probably be made.

Jim Lennox says next week's trotting at Woodbine park will be great. He has already received a number of entries for each event, and the named race, he thinks, will turn out a score or more.

—Ann Hanley, by imp. Yorkshire, died recently at Belle Meade. She was the dam of Mr. O. B. Sheppard's Repeater, better known as brother to Turfman. Rysdyk's Hambletonian got 1330 colts. His stud fees amounted to $205,750. He, first stood at $25. The service increased from that until it reached $500. Abdallah, his sire, died of starvation in November, 1854, he having been turned out to die.

In reply to the challenge in yesterday's Mail from James Hurst, Harry Gilmore says he will box that individual ten rounds either for a purse in private or for the receipts of the house; the winner to take everything. Harry thinks ten three-minute rounds will afford a sufficient test both of science and endurance.

Toronto v. Hamilton Thistles. An annual match was played yesterday on the Adelaide street rink between the Toronto and Hamilton Thistle curling clubs. The ice was in splendid condition, and much interest was taken in the contest, which resulted as follows: TORONTO. HAMILTON THISTLES. Rink No. 1.

In acc rd. ce with h s decision, one but owing to the depth of the snow the run proved very unfavorable to both the munt-er and the hunted. When time was called for the first fox to be brought forth Mr. Cockburn appeared on the scene with one of the "wildest foxes in America," and rey-nard was evidently aware it was "Suntan" nard was evidently aware it was a "put up" job, in which it was intended that he should come out second best. As soon as he was let loose he made straight for the nearest bush, and but a short time had elapsed ere he was beyond the reach of vision, and after a fruitless following of his trail the dogs returned without their in-tended victim. Seeing that the quantity of snow prevented a satisfactory match, Mr. Harris thought it most advisable to keep the remaining animals for some future date, when, to what remains, he intends adding a number of others.

Meet of the Hunt Club.

It is an exceptionally rare thing for a newspaper to purposely give two insertions to a report of any event, but the intelligent compositor made such a horible mess of yesterday's account of the hunt club meet that he was invited to reset it, and here is the result of his second attempt :-

The first meet of this popular club took place on Saturday at 3 o'clock at the "Guns" in the park, when the members and their friends assembled for a drive, as has been their-enstom for years past when sleighing permits. The scene in the park was a very permits. The scene in the park was a very lively one, and at the time appointed by the worthy master of the hounds, thirty sleighs moved off to his lead with the graceful pair of thoroughbreds he had in hand. Following the master was Mr. W. H. Beatty driving his spanking four-inhand, and in the sleigh with him he had his honor the lieutenaut-governor, his his honor the lieutenant-governor, his worship the mayor, and two other notable citizens. Mr. Fred. Worts, Mr. W. A. Murray and several other members of the club followed with their tandems. The double horse sleighs were very numerous, among the most conspicuous being Mr. George Torrance, Mr. J. A. Donaldson and Mr. Taylor, who with their friend, Mr. G. N. Morrison, sat behind Gold Leaf and her stable companion, who looked as the saddle. The single steighs were even more numerous, Messrs. Myles and Coxtaking the lead in this respect. The town was through the park westerly to Spadina avenue to King street. Along King street at the corners many persons were assembled to witness the imposing sight, for such it was. Parliament street was struck and continued until Wellesley street was reached, and by way of Carleton street the tour was continued to the end, occupying about two hours' time. The drive was a very enjoyable one, but compared with those two hours' time. The drive was a very enjoyable one, but compared with those given by the late master, Mr. J. G. Worts, when the meeting was at Lindenwold, where refreshments were served, and winding up with a dinner at some country village, it was considered tame. In this respect the worthy master will see there is room for improvement.

old sport. He had just been commenting upon the disgraceful scene that had occurred between Slade and the police force.

"Mitchell wanted to fight, but the Slade party backed out," continued the old sport. "It is a funny story, it shows that the Slade party, including Sullivan, intended to take the fight whether or not it was won.

to take the fight whether or not it was won.

When Mitchell and Madden were in Colorado the latter learned that it was intended to import a whole army of New York and Boston toughs, who would witness the fight, and who, if things did not go right, were to break down the ropes, stop the fight and bulldoze the referee into giving the money to Slade. Sullivan was to superintend the job, assisted by his favorite knockers.

"Madden laid his plans at once, First, he made the Slade men agree that if the authorities of Missouri or Kansas interfered, which he was sure they would do, the fight should occur either in Colorado or New Mexico. He knew this to be safe seground, and was sure of fair play. If fact, he made sure that his man should have an equal show. Among Madden's friends in this section are Wyatt Earp, Bat Masterson, Doe Holliday and others, who have no equals in the quick and effective handling it as a royal remedy for all affections of the lungs and chest, and benestition in recommending it as a royal remedy for all affections of the lungs and chest, and breaked constitutions."

Poor people go to the theatre to enjoy the play. They never get up what are called theatre parties to gabble with and disturb the peace of an audience.

"I believe I'll go out and stretch my legs a little," said the tall gentleman, as the train stopped at the Austin station. "Oh do that Joon't stretch those legs any more. They are too long already."

Ten of us will stand off as many sluggers as they can get together.' The histories of the men who volunteered their assistance will satisfy any one that the assertion made was a true one. Assured of such protection, Madden and Mitchell felt safe, and were anxious that the mill should occur as arranged for.

"And it never occurred. Slade and his backers heard of the arrangement and would not come to time. They caused delays and misunderstandings until Mitchell, tiring of the whole affair, went to New York. Slade was caught up on his own game."—Denver Express.

We find that this sensible reform, so long delayed, was suggested many years ago by Coursing at West Toronto Junction.

A coursing match under the management of Mr. R. Harris and Mr. C. Cockburn, came off yesterday, Jan. 14, at the Toronto Junction hotel. Mr. Harris, the proprietor, had been busily engaged during the previous week in hunting animals for the occasion, and was amply rewarded for his labors, having trapped several wild foxes and a great number of rabbits and
