

Brooke's English Saddle

miles a day is often ridden by Cyclists. To insure good speed and easy travel insist upon having fitted on your WHEEL, as it is positively the best and most desirable. Light and Lasting, Concussion with Comfort, Speed with Safety.

BROOKE'S ENGLISH SADDLE

See it or send for descriptive Catalogue.

THE H. P. DAVIES CO. 81 YONGE-ST. TORONTO.

MR. SEAGRAW'S $1000 PRIZE

A RACEHORSE AS A PRIZE FOR CLASS 2 RIDERS.

Important Meeting of the Canadian Wheelman's Association Committee—L.A.W. Will Recognize C.W.A. Suspension—Dr. Doolittle's Sign Board Scheme—May Meet on May 25.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Canadian Wheelman's Association was held yesterday afternoon in the Racing Room, President Dr. Doolittle, G. H. Orr, E. B. Ryckman and R. A. Robertson being present. An important letter was read from Chairman of the L.A.W. He stated that all C.W.A. rulings would be recognized, and suggested that the C.W.A. open its tracks for two weeks' racing in the L.A.W. district, to open in Toronto Aug. 15, and close at about Sept. 1. Hamilton, London, Waterloo and Sarnia will be included in the list of districts.

The committee decided to go carefully over the whole constitution and revise where necessary. It is likely that the location of the annual meet will hereafter be determined by a vote of the delegates instead of by the board. Also a mail vote will be allowed where it is impracticable for clubs to send representatives.

Dr. Doolittle's sign board scheme was explained. The chief concern will appoint members in the different districts, who will figure out the positions for the marks. One thousand boards have already been contracted for. Boards will be put up at cross-roads, and will tell the distances to Toronto, London, Kingston, Hamilton and other cities. R. A. Robertson, chairman of the Membership Committee, will go to Hamilton country with the intention of having the membership as it should be done.

A letter was read from Joseph E. Seagrave of Waterloo, offering a $1000 thoroughbred horse as a prize for competition for the class B five-mile championship at the annual meet. The racing board will likely waive the rule that permits only one horse to be offered, and accept the popular turfman's magnanimous offer.

The board wants the class B 25-mile championship race, and Sarnia and the Wanderers will the 10-mile event.

Handers from the interest taken dates, Aug. 21, Sept. 2 and 7, one of which will be sanctioned for their own pleasure.

Peterboro wants three meets, on June 8, Aug. 15 and Sept. 3. The Hamilton board will be on the 15th. The L.A.W. sanctioned races at Brantford, St. Thomas, Strathroy, Ottawa and Woodstock on May 24.

St. Albans Bicycle Club.

The annual meeting of the St. Albans Bicycle Club, held last evening, was very largely attended. The reports of the captain and secretary for the past year were very interesting. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Frank Slattery; vice-president, Thomas McDonald; secretary, treasurer, S. P. Grant; George Thompson, first lieutenant; E. Legge; bugler, T. W. Slattery; with Messrs. O'Donoghue, Grant and Slattery delegates to the Inter-Club Association.

The meeting was a very enthusiastic one, and judging from the interest in the proceedings, a very bright season is before the club. The first official run will be held on Saturday, leaving the club house at 2 p.m., for Weston.

Bicycling Briefs.

Frank Rowley of the London, Ont. Bicycle Club, has been entered for the Martin road race in Buffalo on Memorial Day.

The Royal Toronto Cycling Club held its annual meeting last night (Friday) at the Humber. Arrangements have been made for a good time, and members and friends should try and make it a point to be at the club house at 7.45 p.m.

Rogers Challenges Gaudreau.

Saratoga, N.Y., April 25.—Edward D. Rogers, of Saratoga, County, has issued the following card: "I hereby challenge J. G. Gaudreau of Orleans, Ont. to a race on a three-mile oval, on the boat race for the championship of America and $1000 a side. The place to be mutually agreed upon or by the greatest victory." Edward Rogers, Saratoga Springs, April 25, 1895.

Football Kicks.

The senior Riverside and Hurons will play a practice match at the baseball grounds on Saturday at 4 p.m.

The Riverside and Hurons play their Intermediate League match on the baseball grounds on Saturday at 4.30 p.m.

The following will compose the Riverside team: Goal, Small; backs, Russell, Brooks; halves, Barnes, Bongard, Sargeant; forwards, Nash, Wilson, Walker, S. Snow, Hayes.

Athletic and General Notes.

The Brantford Lawn Tennis Club has re-organized with Dr. Yates as president and G. M. Miles secretary.

The Dovercourt and Stanley Grounds will host a team match, six or seven men a side, at the Stanley Grounds, Dovercourt, on Saturday afternoon. Showing will commence at 2.30.

The pigeon shooting match between Messrs. Hawkesworth and Clayton, at Launceston Mills, 15 birds, resulted in a victory for the former by 13 to 12.

Meach distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother's Worm Expeller gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a try and be convinced.

SPRING Business and Office Scotch Tweed Suits $22.50.

The goods were bought for $10.00 by Mr. Scott in Europe and are of exceptional value.

Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron.

For families visiting the city, or for those who wish to stay in a comfortable and convenient place, the Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron, is the best place to stay. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service.

Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron.

For families visiting the city, or for those who wish to stay in a comfortable and convenient place, the Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron, is the best place to stay. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service.

Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron.

For families visiting the city, or for those who wish to stay in a comfortable and convenient place, the Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron, is the best place to stay. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service.

Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron.

For families visiting the city, or for those who wish to stay in a comfortable and convenient place, the Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron, is the best place to stay. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service.

Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron.

For families visiting the city, or for those who wish to stay in a comfortable and convenient place, the Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron, is the best place to stay. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service.

Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron.

For families visiting the city, or for those who wish to stay in a comfortable and convenient place, the Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron, is the best place to stay. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service.

Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron.

For families visiting the city, or for those who wish to stay in a comfortable and convenient place, the Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron, is the best place to stay. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service.

Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron.

For families visiting the city, or for those who wish to stay in a comfortable and convenient place, the Hotel, Cor. Wellington and Huron, is the best place to stay. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service. It is a first-class hotel, with comfortable rooms, good food, and excellent service.

THE UNKNOWN MAN IDENTIFIED.

That He Lives Down Town.

When charged at the Police Court yesterday with the larceny of a shirt and a pair of shoes from John Waterhouse, 211 Queen-street west, Charles Roach, sprung the old gag that he had bought the articles from a man down town. "What is his name?" asked the Magistrate. "Smith," said Roach, amid the laughter of the court. Roach was given four months in the Central Prison.

To be at St. Asaph.

First race, 3.4 mile—Elliott 77, Foundling 106, Pontiac 106, High Point 106, 102, South Side, Phoenix, St. Vincent 101, Las. Bittora, Ontario 96.

Second race, 1.2 mile—Rhododendron, Hertie 108, Laura Davis, The Kite, Conemaugh, Muriel, Peliche, Tyranus, Lou Jones, May Peters, Charma, Jackie, Old Ago 105.

Third race, mile—Chaparral 101, Equity, Sandoway 107, Frig. Buckrose 106, 102, right 105.

Fourth race, 3.4 mile—Elliott 77, Stanley 106, Flying Seal 95, before 98, Welcome 99, Turquoise 101, Tolosa 101, Victoria 101, Ontario 101, Lotis, Bonville 106, Jerome 107, Can. 108.

Fifth race, 6.12 furlongs—Ben Lombard 116, Long Brook, Chickie 115, Hamme 113, Rockbarren 108, Virago 103, West. 101, Bomby 101, Ontario 101.

Sixth race, 3.4 mile—Paladin, Integrity, Peter the Great, Appomattox, Westraat, Stowaway, Clara, Wheeler 105.

The Winners Yesterday.

Alexander Island, Conoma, 1 to 2, Woodchopper 8 to 5, Nimrod as any to 1, Gallop King 7 to 5, Fin. water even, Rama 12 to 1.

Roly. Welcome 2 to 1, Mandolina 4 to 1, Character 10 to 1, Freddy L. 15 to 1, Limore 6 to 5.

Memphis, Barney Aaron Jim 7 to 1, Col. Barnett 10 to 1, Haystack 8 to 1, Honey, 2 to 1, Jim Henry 5 to 1.

Nashville, Necon 8 to 1, Xeno 6 to 1, Bruva Wood 2 to 1, Signora 8 to 1, Pittsburg even.

Turf Gossip.

The Cariboo horse race at Healdsburg, Germany, for purple, was won by Bahiole; Surpassa was second and Gateau third.

Surpassa, one of the most noted park horses in this country, died yesterday in New York city. She was owned by W. S. Hobbs of California and was worth and herself worth $8500. Surpassa was Canadian bred.

The Commercial League.

The Executive Committee of the Toronto Commercial Baseball League met last evening at Brown's Hotel, with the president, Mr. A. McDonald, in the chair. They adopted their code of rules for the coming season, subject to the approval of the general meeting on Monday evening next at the club house. There being still a vacancy, any firm wishing to enter the league must be represented at the next meeting of the league, where the schedule will be drawn up. The Garrett League ball has been adopted by the Commercial League.

National League Results.

At New York . . . 00020000-2 5 3
New York . . . 00000000-0 0 0
Boston . . . 00000000-0 0 0
At Baltimore . . . 00010002-3 10 5
Baltimore . . . 00010000-3 10 5
Brooklyn . . . 00010002-3 10 5
At Washington . . . 00010001-12 12 4
Washington . . . 00040100-15 13 4
At Philadelphia . . . 00000000-0 0 0
Philadelphia . . . 00000000-0 0 0
At Cincinnati . . . 00000000-0 0 0
Cincinnati . . . 00000000-0 0 0
At Louisville . . . 00010044-15 19 5
Louisville . . . 00000000-0 0 0
At St. Louis . . . 00000000-0 0 0
St. Louis . . . 00000000-0 0 0
At Cleveland . . . 00000000-0 0 0
Cleveland . . . 00000000-0 0 0
At Chicago . . . 00000000-0 0 0
Chicago . . . 00000000-0 0 0
At Detroit . . . 00000000-0 0 0
Detroit . . . 00000000-0 0 0

Baseball Briefs.

A first-class pitcher can secure a situation in the city by sending acceptable recommendations to this office.

The Young Nationals are open to receive challenge for 15 yards. Address W. Moore, secretary, 2 Cedar Howell-place.

The Diamond request a full attendance of all signed players at the meeting to-night (Friday). They would like to sign a good pitcher.

Baseball will revive considerably of the old-time popularity this summer. Clubs are already being organized throughout the city—Kingston News.

The Toronto's next game will be their opening championship one at Springfield. They were to play Waterbury and McGill. On this week, but these clubs could not keep the engagement and Macdonald's men will confine themselves to practice at Springfield.

If each member of the Nashua baseball team develops as rapidly as Downs and Stokes the team will be a hard one to beat in the game with the Harrisons on the Kingston-Keegan grounds. Saturday these two players each did great work and led the team by far. Stokes at short had eight catches and got all in a first-class manner. Downs was one of the prettiest stops ever seen, and both acted well—Nashua Telegraph.

On the Toronto Baseball grounds on Saturday, May 4, two amateur baseball games are scheduled to be played, in which four of Toronto's strongest aggregations will participate. The first game will be battled for between the Green and Athletic clubs of the Western League and Manager John J. Ward's Parkdale team. The second game will be between the Champion Wilmos and the famous Dukes, ex-champions.

An Art Center.

She snuffed the atmosphere scornfully, did this fair Chicago maiden. "Huh," she ejaculated, "huh."

"What is it?" inquired the man.

"They say Paris is the greatest art center in the world," she responded with a look of scorn and doubt.

"And isn't it?"

"Well, not hardly, I guess. The authorities there have just condemned four brands of American hard as impure."

FEATS OF MEMORY.

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

FEATS OF MEMORY.

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

THE ANCIENT WERE NO BETTER THAN US MODERNS.

Just to Prove It, a Professor Imposes a Task on One of His Pupils, Who Gave an Accurate Narration of American History Equal in Length to the Illad.

A distinguished professor in a New York institution of learning favored a Sun reporter with some interesting ideas upon the power of the memory, bearing especially on the opinion recently given by Dr. Max Muller, "that the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

"I would like with Muller," said the New York professor, "in the belief that the memorizing capacity of a man has degenerated in the last five or four thousand years. It is true that the Illad of Homer was kept in existence for ages of tradition, and was memorized by many Greeks. It is true that the Kalevala, the great national epic of Finland, which is as long a work as the Illad, was kept in existence by the same means, and was memorized by the Finns. The facts given by the memory of our own has become something totally different from what it was in ancient times, when reading and writing were unknown."

</