THE TRUE WITNESS AND CATHOLIC CHRONICLE.

HE TRAVELS ON A PULLMAN SLEEPER WITH HIS PA AND MA, CHANGES THE BERTH NUMBERS, CAUSES HIS PA'S ARREST AND HAS MUCH FUN OVER IT.

"Has nibs come down to breakfast yet? asked the bad boy of a clerk in a Washington hotel, as he leaned up against the counter with his elbows on the marble slab, and took a handful of toothpicks and put them in his vest pocket.

Whose nibs?" said the clerk, as he gave the boy a look that would have frozen him in any other climate. "I do not know of any Nibs stopping at this house. What do you mean and what do you want?"

"My pa. Don't you know pa?" and the bad boy looked at the clerk as though he must be poorly posted on great men if he didn't know pa. "Don't you know pa. Pa is that big dufler in room 40, with ma, and 1 sleep with the help. You must have seen pa. His nose is red, and kind of italic; it slants sideways so, and he looks frightened all the time, as though he expected something was going to drop on him.

"O, yes, I know him," said the clerk, "I thought he was a western senator, he seemed to have such a great weight on his mind. He was setting in the office last night, thinking, and he put up his elbow every little while, as though to ward off something. I thought he had the whole country in his mind, So your pais no statesman? "Naw!" said the boy, with a contemptuous our of the lip. "Pa is no statesman. He was never even an alderman. He is just down here for fun, and he is having it. It is not the country he has on his mind. It is me. We came down on a sleeper from Chicago, and pa got into the worse fix you ever see. You see he had a lower herth, and I had the one over him, and ma had a lower one next to our sec-They have a card with the number of the berth hung on the curtain and I thought what trouble it would make if acmebody was mean enough to change the numuers on the curtains. Pa got up in the night to go out to the back end of the car to see if the porter was going to black his boots, and while he was gone I thought it wouldn't do any hurt to change pa's number to ma's terth. There isn't no harm in a man's getting into bed with his own wife, is there? It I had been mean I would have changed the number and out it I would have changed the number and put it on the berth occupied by an old maid and a rat terrier next to ours on the other side, but I didn't want no atrange woman scratching pa, and didn't want no dog chewing pa's shirt in the night, so I just changed it on to ma's berth. Well, you'd a died if you had been there. Pa came waltzing down the aisle, balancing himself against the berth, and the cars was going offul fast. He looked at the cards until he found number eight, and he parted the curtains and sat down, pulled off his siippers and rolled in. Ma was dreaming she was an angel, and when she felt crowded she woke up, and then she found a man there. Pa at the same moment found there was a woman in there, and he thought he had got in with the old maid. Pa was just going to apologize and say it would not occur again, when ma screamed and braced herself against the back of the berth, and kicked pa out on the floor. She thought pa was the porter, or some total stranger, and she was mad, and she called him names. Her screams brought the rorter and the conductor, and they took pa out into the wash-room and told him he was an old villain, and he admitted that he was, and one held him while the other went Mr. Gladstone in resp use telegraphed :in the car and told me to keep quiet, as she was in luck that she was not cobbed and murdered, as the man who had insulted her was one of the worst looking villains they had ever seen, and a regular sleeping-car robber, and they were going to hold him until they got to Pittsburg and turn him over to the authorities. Pa sat down on a marble wash-stand and sighed He said he knew he was a wretch, and ought to die, and was issued a circular to the powers, in which it willing to, but he asked as a special points out that the present strained pointical favor that they bring him his pants. All the male passengers got up and dressed themselves and went in the wash-room to see the robber, and he was explaining to them that it was all a mistake, and that he had got in the wrong berth. It was now getting daylight, and everybody got up and had their borths made, and pa insisted on going to the car and apologizing to the woman he had got in bed with, and they let him. He walked up to the old maid, and told her that when he got in bed with her he had no idea that ironclads and six gunboats. Saven Turkish she was in his borth, and asked her if she ironclads are cruising in the vicinity of Predidn't know any better than to go prowling around in other iolk's bads, and that she was old enough to know better. Well, she screamed and said, "take the lunatic away," and then ma, who was sitting two seats ahead, saw it was pa who had got into the birth with her, and she told the man not to bother pa, as he had a perfect right to get into any berth that he paid for, and there was no use making any more fuss about it. See said she acreamed and kicked pa out of hed because she had a right to, and that she often did so at home, that pa enjoyed it. This set things all right again, and pa and ma sat down togother and had quite a visit. Pa sat and thought quite a while, and then he whispered to ma, and ma called me to her and asked me if I had changed the cards on the curtains, and I said, 'mother, I cannot tella lie, I did.' And then she said 'don't let it occur again,' and I said I will never do it again, 'cause I now realize how a little thing like that is liable to make trouble. I think it is wrong to lie. Ah! Here comes his nibs and her nobs, down the elevator to breakfast. Don't pa look like a senator, though?" and the bad boy and his pa and may went off together apparently as happy as any trio in Washington, while the clerk said to the cashier, "If that was my boy I would kill him."

· A SERIOUS FAILURE. TORONTO, Jan. 87.—Business circles were considerably excited to day when it became known that Peter Ryan, the well known trade auctioneer, had become financially embarrased Several months ago Ryan gave up his auctioneer business and bought out the Joseph Hall Manufacturing Works, Oshawa. Recently he left for England with a traction engine, which he intended pushing there, and returned a f w days ago. During his absence he left Mr F. W. Glen, the former proprietor of the Oshawa works in charge of the same. Mr. Glen b ught a heavy stock, amounting to about $50,000, and Mr. Ryan on his return was confronted with an urly array of paper calling for an immediate settlement. This he was unable to accomplish and he had to throw himself on the generosity of his creditors. The liabilities are placed at $100,000 to $125,000 It is understood Mr. Ryan will offer his creditors 50 sents on the dollar in the liquidation of his claims. One of the worst features of the affair is that Mr.
Ryan's misfortune will seriously affect several other concerns, some of them of considerable

GLADSTONE'S ADVICE TO GREECE-MOVE-MENTS OF THE BRITISH AND GREEK FLEETS.

LONDON, Jan. 26. - The people of Athens through a committe have telegraphed to Mr. Gladstone as follows:—" We place in your hands the Hellenic cause with the firm hope that it will find in you a generous champion.' Considering the authority attaching to the action of the powers, both on general grounds and by reason of their intervention in the formation of the Greek kingdom, I carnestly hope Greece will pause before placing herself on this occasion in conflict with their deliberate and united recommendation."

THE PORTE'S COMPLAINT C NSTANTINOPLE, J.n. 26 -The Porte has situation is unbearable. It says that Tuckey, though not to blame for this state of affairs, is compelled to maintain a huge army on a war tooting at a ruinous expense, which will empty her treasury unless the powers effect a speedy settlement of the question.

THE GREEK PLEET MOVES
ATHENS, Jun. 26. -The Greek fleet has departed from the Pirans to avoid being blockaded by the British fleet. The Greek fleet comprises thirty-three ships, including two vesa Epirus, on the north side of the entrance to the Gulf of Arta.

REPLY TO MR. CHAPLEAU. A pamphlet, entitled, "Riel, a Reply to Mr. has just been issued by L'Union of St. Hyacinthe, and promises to command a big sale. It is in the form of a reply to the letter addressed by the Hon. Mr. Chapleau to his electors of Terrebonne, and tends to completely demolish the manifesto preCARE OF ANIMALS IN WINTER.

The American Humane Association offers the following suggestions relative to fowls, horses, and cattle to persons having these in charge, in the Northern latitudes, during the winter months: .-

Do not compel domestic fewls to roost in trees. A ide from danger of being captured by owls and other enemies, the swaying of the branches upon which they are sitting will prevent them from getting rest; while in the severely cold weather, thus exposed, seet and combs are frozen and the bird is so benumbed as to make it impossible for it to be of much profit on the farm. Securely sheltered from wind and storm, and allowed to sit on a broad roost, feet are thus kept warm, refreshing rest is obtained and the fowl is much stronger, healthier and more profitable to its owner. Do not clip horses during the winter months. With the same propriety we might cut the hair from a dog or shear a sheep at this season of the year. The argument in b half of the practice is that the horse in perspiration will dry more quickly if the hair is short. If the animal is thoroughly blanketed and kept in a sheltered or warm place, after being driven, no danger results from perspiration, whatever the length of hair; while the horse that has been de-prived of its coat in the winter time suffers perpetually while being exposed to the cold.

It is a cruelty inflicted upon beautiful carringe horses for the purpose of style. Blessed is the ordinary work horse, in the winter time, for, however much it may perspire, it is allowed to carry its full growth of hair during the cold weather.

Do not leave cattle to stand shivering, while ex remities of on freeze, in the snow storms and severe winds of winter, when a little time would suffice to construct, of boards, rails or poles, a support upon and around which may be placed hay, straw or weeds, thus making a shelter that may comfortably protect them. Cattle kept in fairly warm condition throughout the winter will, as milkers, give a larger and hetter yield of milk, and as beeves will take on flesh much more rapidly than if left exposed to inclement weather,

Aside from a question of humanity, the more attention and care that is bestowed upon animals, with a view to their comfort, the more will they be of service and a source of profit to their owners.
