POISON IN THE WINE? One Dead, Two Nearly Dead and An-

other a Fugitive From Justice. VANCOUVER, Nov. 7.—(Special.)— Louis lanknersy is dead, Emil Delas-dier and Henri Cochett are in the General Hospital and J. Demar is either dead or a fugitive from the police, as the result of a drinking bout in Vancouver early this morning, in which poison is said to have figured.

The four Frenchmen met in a house on Fairview, and among the drinks consumed was a bottle of port wine, which is believed by the police to have contained strychnine. When the po-lice were called to the house they found the dead body of lanknersy, and Delasdier and Cochett were no nearly dead that it was at first thought little could be done for them at the hospital. They are now, however, out of danger. Demar was missing when the police searched the house, and a general call has been sent out for his arrest, the police believing he is still alive.

OFF FOR LONDON.

This pictorial fancy of the cartoonist adorned the menu card at the banquet of Robins Limited, given by F. B. Robins in the King Edward Hotel last night. The event pictured in the lighter vein by the artist is the departure from Toronto of Robins' representatives for London, England, where offices will be opened and a work national in scope will be undertaken. Robins Limited are entering into a campaign for a greater Toronto, a greater Hamilton and a greater Montreal, by going over to the old land and encouraging ambitious people from the British Isles to come over to Canada and settle on market gardens and in the beautiful suburban properties of Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal.

The banquet, which was a great success, was given partly as a farewell to the young men who are going to take a liner across the Atlantic on Nov. 12 to conduct this work for Robins Limited. The event was attended by from suffocation of three children of A. Todd, farmer, living a few miles from here, place the neighbors in a very ballight.
