"Billy" must have fallen asleep, exhausted by his labors in the interests of Canada, when those infamous resolutions were introduced. Otherwise he would have had to be bound in chains and have had to be bound in chains and strong cords, like another Sampson to prevent his tearing down the pil-lars and wrecking the house. Perhaps he has become tired watching the switch and being called a lot of polite names for his trouble. Perhaps, also, instead of watching, the switch and throwing over the danger signal he deliberately decided to let the two party machines in the house whenever he attempted to ring up a public grievance, or attempted to get the eye of the Speaker, that it is not difficult to even imagine him smills.

DISSOLUTION IN OCTOBER BALFOUR'S LIKELY COURSE

Convinced of Hopelessness of Attempting Another Session - Lulled Into False Confidence.

London, July 22—It is understood that Premier Balfour has decided to remain in office until the end of the session and to dissolve parliament in October. No authoritative statement, however, will be made until Monday, and in the interval this decision may be modified.

The crisis has assumed a serious aspect owing more to the circumstances attending the defeat of the government. Thursday night on the vote for the support of the Irish land commission than the intrinsic importance of the vote itself. The vote was actually due to the slackness, or rather, to the indifference of the government's own supporters, who, despite the strongest possible whip enforcing the necessity of their attendance on that particular night, allowed themselves to be lulled into a false confidence by the ruse of the Liberals and Nationalists in keeping their men in the background until the critical moment arrived.

That this was allowed to happen immediately after Mr. Balfour had called a meeting of his party to impress upon his supporters the need of their absolute loyalty seems to convince Mr. Balfour of the uselessness of attempting to face another session of parliament; but as the holding of elections in August on account of the harvest and for other reasons would be most inconvenient to the country, he decided to wait until the autumn before dissolving parliament.

Premier Balfour's audience of King Edward yesterday lasted only 10 minutes and ft is supposed that he intit majest was an expension to this majesty.
