An event on Saturday was Mrs. A. P. Gorman's luncheon for her guest, Miss Clara Gorman, who wore yellow tulle.

Mrs. Gorman was in orchid crepe. Mrs. P. J. Elward, in Burgundy velvet, assisted her daughter. Covers were laid for fourteen, and the decorations were of Richmond roses, in a cut glass vase.

The spring meeting of the Ontario Jockey Club, which opened on Saturday afternoon in perfect weather, was magnificently attended. The race track was so congested with motors that it took an hour to drive to the first gate, even taking the lower end of the way. The mounted and foot police looked decidedly hot, and the foot passenger was nowhere, the few trying to get across the street looking as if they were taking their lives in their hands as they were.

All the street cars, empty black west of the Woodbine, many of the motors doing the same, some of the shoes of the fine ladies looking as if too full of feet for perfect comfort in walking so far in such a crowd.

The traffic was so bad for their excellencies' guard of honor to pass up from the lower road, followed by the state landau, with four horses, the outriders in the royal livery of scarlet and gold, with gold-laced hats. The cortege drove up the course to the gate of the members' lawn, where Col. William Hendrie, Mrs. Hendrie, and the directors met the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire. They descended from the carriage, and Mrs. Hendrie presented her excellency with a magnificent bouquet of roses, surrounded with shades of red mauve orchid sweet peas, and tied with orchid ribbon.

Captain the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire, Lord Richard Nevill and Capt. Balfour were in attendance, and Lady Blanche Balfour accompanied her excellency. His honor the Lieutenant-governor was attended by Col. Fraser. Mrs. Clarke was preceded with large bouquet, shaded pink orchid sweet peas and Ward roses, tied with ribbon to match the roses, and was accompanied by Miss Clarke. Her excellency wore an accented pleated black chamois frock, with deep embroidery of Paisley design and coloring, purple green and gold predominating, the colors being repeated in the small black hat she wore.
