

EDUCATION.—Every child should have his head, his heart, and his hand educated : let this truth never be forgotten. By the proper education of his head he will be taught what is good, and what is evil ; what is wise, and what is foolish ; what is right, and what is wrong. By the proper education of his heart he will be taught to love what is good, wise, and right ; and to hate what is evil, foolish, and wrong ; and by the proper education of his hand, he will be enabled to supply his wants ; to add to his comforts, and to assist those that are around him. The highest objects of a good education are to reverence and obey God and to love and serve mankind ; everything that helps us in attaining these objects is of great value, and everything that hinders us is, comparatively, worthless. When wisdom reigns in the head, and love in the heart the hand is ever ready to do good : order and peace smile around, and sin and sorrow are almost unknown.

There is nothing purer than honesty ; nothing sweeter than charity ; nothing warmer than love ; nothing richer than wisdom ; nothing brighter than virtue ; and nothing more steadfast than faith. These united in one mind, form the purest, the sweetest, the warmest, the richest, the brightest and most steadfast happiness.

TIME.—Spend your time in nothing which you know must be repented of.—Spend it in nothing on which you might not pray for the blessing of God. Spend it in nothing which you could not review with a quiet conscience on your dying bed.—Spend it in nothing which you might not safely and properly be found doing if death should surprise you in the act.

We ought to eat and drink to live, not live to eat and drink.

You may sooner expect a favour from him who has done you one already, than from him to whom you have done it.

A man who gives his children a habit of industry provides for them better than by giving them a stock of money.

Those who possess any real excellence, think and say the least about it.

The active only have the true relish of life.

Love all, trust few, do wrong to none.
