

POLICEMAN KILLS MAN IN STREET ROW

Off Duty, Becomes Involved in Altercation With Wedding Guests.

New York, Sept. 6.—On Avenue A wedding party broke up in the early morning and some of the guests gathered at the avenue and Eighty-fifth street. An altercation started. Policeman Richard Graham of the East Sixty-seventh street station, off duty and in plain clothes, became involved. When three policemen arrived on the scene they found Graham holding two prisoners and a third man lying mortally wounded on the sidewalk. Graham said he shot the man after he himself had been attacked. The policeman had been badly beaten that he required the attention of a doctor from Flower Hospital. The wounded man died at the hospital. He was John Slattery, 30 years old, a chauffeur, of 428 West Fifty-second street. The two prisoners were booked as George Gallagher, 35, a chauffeur, and Edward Schaefer, 28. They were charged with felonious assault. Graham, after being questioned by Captain John J. Noonan, went home on sick leave. He is reported to have told his superior that he had been visiting some friends in the neighborhood and that he was merely doing his duty in trying to stop an altercation. He had fired two shots after the men had attacked him, "to drive them off" and "to bring help."

Graham was not in the Harlem Court when the two prisoners were arraigned before Magistrate Corrigan. The Magistrate expressed surprise that Graham had not been held. "There are too many people being killed by the police," it seems to me," was his comment. According to the story told in court, Graham was about to enter a taxicab, when three men attempted to drag him out of it. In the fight that followed Graham fired twice, both shots striking Slattery in the abdomen. Mrs. Slattery, carrying her six-month-old daughter, Rose, was with the men.

"The police have got this all balled up," Gallagher said in court. The wedding had been held at his home, he said, and he took no part in the affair, but ran into the street when he heard the shots. He said he found Graham alone and lying on the sidewalk, drunk.

Detective Cordes denied that Graham was intoxicated. He said the police surgeon who examined him found he was "fit for duty."

Gallagher said a policeman who arrived told him to go back into the house, and he did so. Later, he said, he returned to accompany Schaefer to the station house and was arrested by order of Graham, who said: "I'll make charges against him, too."

The prisoners were held in $1,000 bail each for examination. Policeman Graham has been on the force four years and has borne an excellent record, it was said. He lives with his wife at 214 West 199th street.
