NEW OPERA HOUSE PLAY ENJOYED

House of Glass is Well Presented by the Carroll Players.

"The House of Glass," a drama in four acts, is the offering of the F. James Carroll for this week. As a good play, well acted. The bulk of the work falls on the shoulders of Miss Nancy Duncan. Last night she was given rounds of applause, and in scenes held the audience in gripping attention. It was some seconds after she had finished one scene before audible applause came.

The story is that of a young girl in New York, falsely accused of being in league with a thief, sentenced to three years in jail, and paroled after a year and a half. She breaks her parole and goes west where she is married to a prominent railway man. Returning to New York she lives in dread of the law. She is discovered by the police and confesses to her husband, who has always held the doctrine that "once in jail you are damned," but he is led by his love for her to change his attitude and all ends well.

Richard Polette as "Burke," the crook who was responsible for getting the unsuspecting heroine into difficulties and later did his best to make her innocent plain, gave a splendid rendition of the part and made a hit with the audience.

As Harvey Lake, the intolerant husband who could see no good in or out of the law, Foster Williams added to the reputation which he has already made since coming here.

Clyde Franklin as the headquarters man, never letting up until he had captured his man, earned the hatred of the audience as he followed the unfortunate Margaret Case over the country.

"Jimmie" Swift had a part new to him and demonstrated that he could do something besides provide laughs for the audience when need arose and as the corporation lawyer and later staunch friend of Mrs. Lake, he acted his part convincingly.

Owen Coll in the part of "Atwood," the railway magnate, gave his usual good performance.

The other members of the cast had small parts which they filled most acceptably and all added to the enjoyment of the performance—Miss Trevor, as "Nelle"; Miss DeWese, as the boarding house mistress; Jack, as "Crowley"; Fred Marshall as the policeman; Philip Boland as the butler; Winifred Gilmore as the maid; and George Smith as the governor.

HEARTS OF OAK ON QUEEN SQ. SCREEN

Wm. Fox Screen Version of the Great Stage Play Enjoyed.

"Hearts of Oak" has been a big stage play and now it has been brought to the screen in all its melodramatic glory. The motion picture certainly does not suffer by comparison in fact the wider facilities offer bigger territory to present the various sequences of this unusual story.

Those who attended the initial local presentation of James A. Herne's celebrated melodrama of New England and the northlands at the Queen Square theatre last night showed their appreciation of the effect of the play by William Fox in reviving this noted play.

Parts of the play which were merely mentioned in the lines of the stage version have been made very important in the motion picture depiction, much to the benefit of the story. Particular has the visualization of the hardships of Terry Dunnevan, played by Hobart Bosworth, during his expedition into the Arctic been emphasized by Director John Ford.

The drama deals with a most unusual triangle, starting with the adoption of a young boy and girl by a beloved altruist. As the two grow to manhood and womanhood, they find themselves passionately in love with each other, but their guardian also has learned to love and the two find themselves in a dilemma as they realize they owe their very existence to their foster parent.

How this unique problem in the lives of these three honest, open-hearted people is solved provides a screen entertainment that ranks second to none.

In the case of Pauline Starke, Theodore Von Eltz, James Gordon, Francis Powers, Jennie Lee, Frances Teague and Francis Ford.

Students to Study Trees in the Parks

New York, Oct. 21.—(United Press)—Central Park and the New York botanical gardens will be used as laboratories by Columbia University extension students in reforestation and tree conservation, it is announced by Hugh Findlay, assistant professor of agriculture, who will direct the work beginning today.

A special investigation will be made of the importance of birds to the forest and home tree, and of the use of trees in industry.

New York must take the initiative in meeting a forestry situation dangerous to the national welfare, declared Prof. Findlay, who said that reforestation is quite as much the task of cities as of the rural regions.

"Of the 81,000,000 acres of denuded land in the United States," he continued, "only 1,448,241 acres have been planted to trees. The situation is alarming, and there is great need of making individuals and communities realize the necessity of reforesting these lands."

SAYS ORIENT HAS "TOO MUCH WEST"

Japanese Leader Thinks His Country Has Gone Too Far.

Tokyo, Oct. 21.—(United Press)—Mitsuru Toyama, known as Japan's "Robin Hood," and one of the most influential reactionary leaders in Japan, believes that the Empire's greatest mistake made since the Orient came into touch with occidental culture has been the "headlong manner in which Japan has adopted the material teachings of the west."

Toyama said in an interview that many thoughtful persons now are beginning to realize that it is "high time for her to introspect and retrospect and even to retrogress over certain events, and to readjust western ideas on the basis of the national spirit."

He deplored modern tendencies in Japan which he thinks are causing the nation's culture to be sacrificed on the altar of materialism. He believes, however, that "the spiritual will eventually prevail over the materialistic."

On an Asiatic Federation, Toyama said: "The white and colored races treat each other justly and humanely, there should be no necessity for such an organization in the eastern part of the world. However, since such is not the case, the formation of such an organization is a natural outcome of the present situation. The immigration act in America I believe has hastened the formation of such a co-operative organization."

DEANERY MEETING AND S.S. TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

The addresses of Rev. Dr. R. A. Hiltz, general secretary of the Religious Education Council of the Church of England in Canada, and of Rev. Canon C. W. Vernon, general secretary of the Social Service Council of the Church of England, Canada, which were delivered yesterday at the meeting of the St. John Deanery, and at the Deanery Sunday School Teachers' Association meetings, were a splendid inspiration to all who heard them.

The Deanery meeting was held in St. John's church with Rural Dean, Rev. W. H. Sampson presiding. Dr. Hiltz spoke of Sunday school work and Canon Vernon of Social Service endeavors. There was a general discussion on both subjects, and the Deanery passed a resolution advocating the appointment of an Anglican chaplain for visiting various institutions in the city. A plan for an interchange of pulpits between city and rural clergy was considered. The members of the Deanery were the guests at the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. A. Holmes at luncheon and hearty thanks were extended to the host and hostess.

The meeting of the Sunday School Teachers' Association was held in the Church of England Institute in the evening with H. Usher Miller, president, in the chair, and a very large attendance of members—every Sunday school in the city being represented. Canon Vernon in his address told how the work of religious education for the children might be linked up with social service activities, and Dr. Hiltz dealt with general Sunday school work. He stressed the importance of teaching the child and showed how great was the value of the Sunday school to the church.

REFUSE APPEAL FOR LATER TRIAL

Chicago, Oct. 20.—An appeal for further continuation of the trial of Russell Scott, charged with the murder of Joseph Maurer, drug clerk, last winter, was denied today by Judge Lynch, and the trial set for Wednesday morning.

COURTAIN PLAYS IN NEW YORK

The following from the New York Times of last Sunday will be read with interest by St. John people who attended the excellent organ recital given in the German street Baptist church here a few days ago:—

"Charles M. Corbin began a fourth year of organ recitals at Wanamaker's yesterday with a programme enriched orchestrally by the All-Artists' Ensemble led by Edgar Carver. There was an audience that overflowed hall and gallery. Mozart's 'Figaro' overture, parts of Grieg's 'Peer Gynt,' Dvorak's Largo from the 'New World,' and Jannefelt's 'Præcludium' were the chief works, to which Corbin added solos from Bach, Schumann, Franck and Widor. Frederick Wiederman of Prague will play Nov. 10, and the following week Marcel Dupre."

Curling Iron Kills Hair; Silmerine Improves It

Many a woman loses the silky, fluffy and brilliant appearance of her hair through habitual use of the curling iron. Certainly it can do the hair no good to dry up its natural oil, strip the life out of it, making it harsh, brittle and dull. And there's no excuse for that, now that it is known what can be accomplished by the simple silmerine method. Liquid silmerine really preserves the life, lustre and beauty of the hair. The curling iron is perfectly natural looking and most captivating, and it will last the longest time. If you've never tried it, by all means procure a few ounces of liquid silmerine from your druggist and apply a little with brush just before doing up your hair. It is neither sticky nor greasy, but quite pleasant to use.

CROOK PICTURE IS UNIQUE FEATURE

James Kirkwood and Lila Lee Star in "Inner-Sight."

"Love's Whirlpool," the screen version of Martha Lord's novel, "The Inner Sight," which opened last night at the Unique theatre, is an interesting story, well acted. It deals with the reformation of two crooks, and the awakening of a selfish man through the force of spiritualism. The sinister mystery of the underworld and the occult mystery of clairvoyant seances furnish thrills aplenty.

James Kirkwood gives a splendid interpretation of Jim Reagan, master crook, who is redeemed through the power of great love. Lila Lee's portrayal of Molly, Jim's sweetheart, is an admirable one. This is the first time Miss Lee has had a chance to portray a "woman" part. It is a new Lila Lee we see in "Molly," but she is just as charming as a woman of pole as she was as an effervescent girl. Midge Bellamy has the other prominent feminine role and does some excellent work as Nadine Milton. The entire supporting cast is good. It includes Robert Agnew, Edward Martindale, Mathew Betz, Margaret Livingstone, Clarence Geldert and Joe Mills. Among the other scenes are: A shipwreck, Larry's escape from prison, seances and a police raid. The photography is excellent, especially in the shipwreck and "spirit" scenes.

WILL FILM O'REILLY'S LIFE.

Motion Picture Company Is Organized to Produce Story of Irish Poet.

As a lesson in patriotism to Americans of Irish descent New Bedford citizens have organized a motion picture company, known as Criterion Pictures, Inc., and will produce a film depicting the life of John Boyle O'Reilly, the Irish poet. Plans for the production of the picture were discussed at a dinner given at the Copley Plaza, Boston, to Captain Henry C. Hathaway, one of the few surviving masters of New Bedford whaling ships. Captain Hathaway is eighty-three years old. He was first mate on the ship Castle when he was twenty-six. He first met John Boyle O'Reilly when his ship stopped at a port on the north-west coast of Australia in 1869 and was the chief figure in the rescue of the poet from the penal settlement to which he had been condemned.

Six years later, O'Reilly and Captain Hathaway fitted out the ship Catalpa and sent it under the guise of a fishing vessel to aid the escape of other Irishmen who were settled in Australia. It is about the latter vessel that the film story is to be written. The scenario is by Miss V. E. Sullivan of New York city. Mary Boyle O'Reilly, the poet's daughter, will collaborate in the production which is to be directed by Stanley J. Rowell.

The company which is to film the picture is capitalized for $200,000. Work on some of the scenes will begin within two weeks.

Minister Leaves For Washington.

Ottawa, Oct. 20.—Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, has left for Washington, where the exchange of ratifications in connection with the treaty between Canada and the United States for the protection of the Pacific halibut fisheries will take place tomorrow.
