A SMART LOOSE COAT.

played to make this coat. There are other materials which will answer the purpose just as well, however, chinilla cloth being also smart.

The coat is loose and fastens in single breasted effect, having a yoke back and one-piece sleeves. Either a turn-down or military collar may finish the neck.

Two and one-half yards of 54-inch material at $2 a yard will make an exact duplicate of models that sell for $15 and $20 in the shops.

First fold the goods; then lay along the lengthwise fold and mark "O" perforations in stay and in back at under-arm edge together and tack. Small "o" perforation in belt indicates upper front edge; adjust on front and stitch collar and cut are laid along a lengthwise thread. Following these directions will insure good lines for the model.

Now adjust the underfacing to position, underneath front. This may be contrasting material if desired. First, bringing "T" perforations to corresponding double "oo" perforations and tack.

Sew yoke to back as notched. Arrange stay underneath back, bringing corresponding small and large "O" perforations in stay and in back at under-arm edge together and tack. Small "o" perforation in belt indicates upper front edge; adjust on front and stitch collar and cut are laid along a lengthwise thread. Following these directions will insure good lines for the model.

Close back seam of collar indicated by small "o" perforation; sew to neck edge as notched. Roll collar and front as desired.

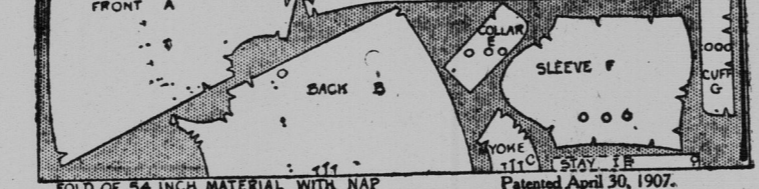

Close sleeve seam as notched. Close cut seam as notched to small "o" perforation; sew to sleeve as notched. Sew sleeve in armhole as notched. Close under-arm seam easing in extra fullness.

Unless a belt in suede is substituted use the same material, as this makes an effective finish.

USUALLY GOOD SHOW AT IMPERIAL

Canadian Northwest Story Leading Feature

Rae Eleanor Ball Continues to Please. Also Mr. Huskin's Songs—A Splendid Essay

One of those virile Canadian northwest stories—with accompaniments of boundless snow-country and sledge dogs—is being shown at Imperial Theatre for the week-opening, concluding today.

It is an adaptation of the well known fiction Isobel, by James Oliver Curwood, and is known in the film version as In Defence of the Law.

Noted American stars play the leading roles and the picture, which is in three parts, is truly a remarkable one, not only in literary worth, dramatic quality and settings, but conveys a vivid conception of the rigors of life in the upper stretches of our fair dominion.

It is a distinct change from the line of features shown at the Imperial of late and was much enjoyed yesterday. The other pictures included Francis X. Bushman and Beverley Bayne in The Countess, a sumptuous Nihilist-Journalistic drama; war pictures in the Heart-Selig Weekly and a couple of Lubin comedies.

As usual the big Keith house was crowded with an appreciative people. Doubtless many of these were especially attracted by Rae Eleanor Ball's exquisite violin playing. The opening programme of her farewell week was marked by the fair musician with the following numbers: Zephyrs (Hubay), Scotch medley and the ever-popular Humoresk by Dvorak. Mr. Huskin's song, Come Sing to Me, with his usual fine finish and was also forced to respond to the demand for more.

The orchestra purveyed a mixed programme and some highly appropriate incidental music for the pictures. On the whole the Imperial's bill was a choice one, well mixed and strictly high-class.

Tomorrow the local pictures of the Knights of Pythias during their decoration day parade and ceremonies in Fernside.

GEM THEATRE OPENS WEEK WITH BIG PROGRAMME

Lucille Love's Adventures Grow Even More Interesting—Stirring Military Drama of the Philippines Another Feature

The tenth instalment in the great serial story of "Lucille Love, Girl of Mystery," shown at the Gem Theatre yesterday, gave much pleasure to the many patrons who have been following this series since its opening. A further element of mystery entered the story, yesterday in the tenth chapter when an unknown veiled lady came to the aid of Lucille in a trying predicament. This chapter, in two reels, will be repeated today and is one of the most fascinating yet seen in the portrayal of the career of the famous girl of mystery.

The Gem orchestra had a pleasing programme of novelty numbers while two other pictures also gave pleasure. A Lubin production entitled "A Traitor to His Country," a stirring military drama of the Philippines and a notorious insurance, and a screamingly funny comedy "Willie Walrus and the Baby," in which an amateur detective sets out to learn the identity of an infant in the metropolis of New York which, as would be expected, he finds no small task.

STERLING ARRAY OF FEATURES AT UNIQUE; MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY.

"Always a good show" is the slogan of the Unique theatre and the excellent array of features shown there yesterday forcibly demonstrates the fact that the management is doing its best to live up to its reputation at all times and invariably succeeds.

The Wiles of a Woman, which is the eighth chapter of the Million Dollar Mystery, adds considerable food for thought to the many who are following this wonderful serial photo story. The thrilling adventure of Norton the newspaper reporter, and incidentally the hero of the drama, after he has plunged through a street in a flying automobile, is a beautiful tenor voice of wonderful range which he uses to excellent advantage in a French rendition of The Palms and the pretty Irish number, Eileen Asthore. Miss May's offering of some of the more popular songs set off with step dances executed in a manner both skillful and pleasing, caught the fancy of the audiences and well deserved applause was bestowed upon this clever artist. In the picture programme the first two reels of Shorty Escapes Matrimony proved decidedly interesting. The balance of this production will be shown the latter part of the week.

The Weekly News with several military views of special interest adds much to the splendid bill of fare.

PROGRAMME OF MERIT AT THE LYRIC THEATRE.

Now that the exhibition of 1914 is a thing of the past the people of St. John are once again drifting back to normal conditions with the result that the Lyric theatre was unable to handle the crowds that sought admission last night. The bill provided surely merited capacity houses.

Bordeaux and May, a very pleasing combination of Irish and French, offered a most delightful pot pourri of songs and dances. Mons. Boudreau has a beautiful tenor voice of wonderful range which he uses to excellent advantage in a French rendition of The Palms and the pretty Irish number, Eileen Asthore. Miss May's offering of some of the more popular songs set off with step dances executed in a manner both skillful and pleasing, caught the fancy of the audiences and well deserved applause was bestowed upon this clever artist. The Result.
"I'm" said the temperance man, "strongly object to the custom of christening ships with champagne."
"I don't," replied the other man.
"I think there's a temperance lesson in it!"
"How can that be?"
"Well, immediately after the first bottle of wine the ship takes to water, and sticks to it ever after."
