POOR DOCUMENT

I'm Just Done Out!

This is the cry of many women after they have drudged through the wash-day, using poor soap and injurious powders, and standing over the steaming tub from morn to night.

AND NO WONDER

they are done out! The old laborious way of washing is killing!

Now, let these women try that great labor saving way of washing by "SUNLIGHT" SOAP, and the terrors of washing will trouble them no more. A child can wash the "SUNLIGHT" way.

BEWARE of unscrupulous imitations. See that you get "SUNLIGHT" SOAP. Follow directions.

A MARRIAGE AT SEA.

BY W. CLARK RUSSELL,

Author of "The Wreck of the Grosvenor," Marooned," "An Ocean Tragedy," etc.

Continued.

"Yes, it is I, captain,——just stepped on deck for a smoke and a breath of this cool wind before turning in. Do you know ,when I view the great dark outline of your ship sweeping through this tremendous space of darkness, and then think of the crowds of people asleep in her heart, I can't but believe the post of commander of a big merchantman, like this vessel, foremost among the most responsible under the sun?"

"Sir ,you are right," replied the little man, in a voice that was almost oily with gratification. " Let us walk."

We started to measure the planks from the wheel to half-way the length of the poop.

"There is no doubt," said I," that you as master of this vessel, are as you have all along contended, empowered to marry me to Miss Bellassys." And then I gave him the substance of what Mr. Higginson had said to me below.

" I was sure that Higginson would see it after thinking a bit," said he. "Of course I am empowered to marry on board myship any couple that may apply to me.

Have you s poken to Miss Bellassys?"

" I have."

" And is she agreeable?"

" Perfectly agreeable."

" Good!" said he, with chuckle. "Now, when shall it be?"

" Oh, it is for you to say captain."

"Ten o'clock to-morrow morning do?"

"Very well indeed," I answered; " but it will be quite private, Captain Parsons: it is Miss Bellamys's wish."

I slept right through the night, and when I awoke Mr. Tooth was shaving himself; and the cabin was brilliant with sunshine whitened to a finer glory yet by the broad surface of milk-white froth that was rushing past the ship. The ship was heeling it as a yacht might; her yards were braced forward, and the snow at her forefoot soared and blew away in smoke to the sliding irresistible thrust of her sharp metal stem. The sea for leagues and leagues rolled blue, foaming, brilliant; wool-like clouds lovely with prismatic glitterings in their skirts as they sailed from the sun were speeding into the southeast; the whole life of the world seemed to be in that morning,—in the joyous sweep of the wind, in the frolicsome frothing of each long blue ridge of rolling sea, in the triumphant speeding of the ship sliding buoyant from one soft foam-freckled hollow to another.

I drew a deep breath, " Ha!" thought I, "if it were always like this, now, and New Zealand not so distant!"

I saw nothing of Grace till the cabin breakfast was ready. Most of the first-class passengers had by this time assembled, some of those who had been sea-sick yesterday issuing from their cabins; and I noticed a general stare of admiration as my darling stepped forth, followed by Mas. Barstow. Her long and comfortable night's rest had restored her bloom to her. How sweet she looked! how engaging the girlish dignity of her posture! how bright her timid eyes as she paused to send a glance round in search of me! I was instatly at her side.

"The ceremony is fixed for ten, I think? said Mrs. Barstow; and here Miss Moggadore arrived, as one who had a right to be of us, not to say with us.

" I am of the opinion," said she," that the ceremony ought to be public."

"I'd rather not," I answered. "In fact, we both had rather not."

" But so many witnesses!" said Miss Moggadore.

"Shall you be present?" inquired Mrs. Barstow.

"I hope to receive an invitation," answered Miss Moggadore.

"We shall count upon your being present," exclaimed Grace,sweetly; but the smile with which she spoke quickly faded; she looked grave and nervous, and I found some reproach in the eyes she lifted to my face.

" It seems so unreal,—almost impious, Herbert, as though we were acting a sham part in a terribly solemn act," she exclaimed, as we seated ourselves.

"There is no sham in it, my pet. Yonder sits Mr. Higginson, a lawyer, and that man has no doubt whatever that when we are united by the captain we shall be as much man and wife as any clergyman could make us."

"I consent but only to please you," said she, with something of restlessness in her manner; and I noticed that she ate but little.

" My darling, you know why I wish the marriage performed," I said, speaking softly in her ear, for there were many eyes upon us, and some ladies who had not before put in an appearance were seated almost opposite and constantly directed their gaze at us, whilst they would pass remarks in whispers when they bent their heads over their plates. "It can do no possible harm : it must be my cousin, not Captain Parsons, who makes you my wife. But then, Grace, it may be binding too, requiring nothing more than the sanctification of the union in the regular way; and it may—it will—create a difficulty for your aunt which should go very near to extinguishing her."

She sighed and appeared nervous and depressed, but I was too eager to have my way to choose to notice her manner. It would be a thing of the past in a very little while; we might hope, at all events, to be on our way home shortly, and I easily foresaw I should never forgive myself after leaving the Carthusian if I suffered Grace to influence me into refusing the captain's offer to marry us, odd as the whole business was, and irregular as it might prove, too, for all I could tell.

IX.

When breakfast was over, Mrs. Barstow took Grace to her cabin and there they remained. Miss Moggadore stepped up to me as I was about to go on deck, and said,—

"It is not yet too late, Mr. Barclay, and I really think it ought to be a public ceremony."

"Sooner than that, I would decline it altogether," said I, in no humor at that moment to be teased by the opinions of an acidulated spinster.

"I consider," she said, "that a wedding can never take place in too public a manner. It is proper that the whole world should know that a couple are truly man and wife."

"The whole world" said I, "in the sense of this ship, must know it, as far as I am concerned, without seeing it."

" Well," said she, with a simper which her mere streak of a lip was but little fitted to contrive, " I hope you will have all happiness in your wedded lives."

I bowed, without replying, and passed up the steps, not choosing to linger longer in the face of the people who hung about me with an air of carelessness, but with faces of curiosity.

Presently I looked at my watch: a quarter to ten. Mr Tooth strolled up to me.

" All alone, Mr. Barclay? 'Tis a fact, have you noticed, that when a man is about to get married people hold off from him? I can understand this of a corpse; but a live young man, you know,— and only because he's going to get marricd! By the way, as it is to be a private affair, I suppose there is no chance for me?"

" The captain is the host;" I answered. " He is to play the father. If he chooses to invite you, by all means be present." As I spoke, the captain came on deck, turning his head about in manifest search of me. He gravely beckoned with an air of ceremony, and Mr. Tooth and I went up to him. He looked at Mr Tooth, who immediately said,—

" Captain, a wedding at sea is good enough to remember,— something for a man to talk about. Can't I be present?" And he dropped his head on one side with an insinuating smile.

"No, sir," answered Captain Parsons, with true sea-grace, and putting his hand on my arm he carried me right aft. " The hour's at hand," said he. "Who's to be present, d'ye know? for if it's to be private we don't want a crowd."

" Mrs Barstow and Miss Moggadore: nobody else, I believe."

"Better have a couple of men as witnesses. What d'ye say to Mr. Higginson?"

" Anybody you please, captain."

$5 000 Prize Competition.

Third Half-yearly "Canadian Agriculturist" Word Competition. $5.000 to be given away! The third great Word Competition for the "Canadian Agriculturist and Home Magazine," Canada's great and popular Home and Farm Journal, is now open, The following magnificent prizes will be given free to persons sending in the greatest number of words made up out of the letters contained in the two words, "The Agriculturist."

1st Prize		$1000 in Gold
2nd	"	$500 in Gold
3rd	"	$1000 Grand Piano
4th	"	$500 Piano
5th	"	$300 Organ
6th	"	Ticket to England and return
7th	"	Lady's Gold Watch
8th	"	Gent's Gold Watch
9th	"	China Tea Set
10th	"	Hunting Case Silver Watch
11th	"	Boy's Silver Watch

25 prizes of $10 each. 50 prizes of $5 each. 100 prizes of $2 each. 200 prizes of $1 each. Making a total of 386 prizes, the value of which will aggregate $5000. This Grand Word-Making Competition is open to everybody, everywhere, subject to the following conditions: The words must be constructed from the two words, "The Agriculturist," and must be only such as may be found in Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, and in the body of the book, none of the supplement to be used. The words must be written in ink on one side of the paper only, and numbered in rotation, 1, 2, 3 and so on to the end of the list, for facilitating in deciding the winners. The list containing the largest number of words will be awarded first prize, and so in the order of merit. Each list as it is received at the office of the "Canadian Agriculturist" will be numbered, and if two or more tie on the largest list, the first received will be awarded the first prize, the next second and so on. Therefore the benefit of sending in early will readily be seen. Each list must be accompanied by $1 for six month's subscription to the "Canadian Agriculturist." One person can send in one or more lists, accompanying each list with $1, for which the paper will be sent to any address for six months. The best family paper in Canada. It is by no means a new paper, but has been established upwards of seven years, and each year grows in the estimation of the subscriber. It contains no trashy, high colored fiction, but has interesting stories of a higher class by the most popular authors of the day. It is eminently THE PAPER for the home circle, and at $2 a year is the cheapest and best paper in the market. This competition will commence now and remain open for three months. Remember, you are paying $1 for six month's subscripton to one of the best home papers in Canada, and at the same time run a good chance of winning a valuable prize. Everyone sending a list of not less than twenty words will receive a present.

AGENTS WANTED. The object of the publisher of the "Canadian Agriculturist" in giving away these large amounts in cash, is to extend the circulation of the paper, and a number of agents are required in every locality, to whom liberal pay will be offered. Send three cent stamp for full particulars and rules governing competition as well as clubbing rates, etc. Address. THE CANADIAN AGRICULTURIST, Peterborough, Ontario.

She Spelt it Raise.

"Isn't it shameful!" whispered Jennie. "The plate went back almost empty!"

Women are not slow to comprehend. They're quick. They're alive, and yet it was a man who discovered the one remedy for their peculiar ailments. The man was Dr. Pierce.

The discovery was his "Favorite Prescription"—the boon to delicate women. Why go round "with one foot in the grave" suffering in silence—misunderstood—when there's a remedy at hand that isn't an experiment, but which is sold under the guorantee that if you are disappointed in any way in it, you can get your money back by applying to the makers.

We can hardly imagine a woman not trying it. Possibly it may be true of one or two—but we doubt it. Women are ripe for it. They must have it. Think of a perscription and nine out of ten waiting for it. Carry the news to them!

The seat of sick headache is not in the brain. Regulate the stomach and you cure it. Dr. Pierce's Pellets are the Little Regulators.

The Belle.

"No," she answered when he asked whether she would go to evening service with him. "I am not a church belle."

Well Sarah, what have you been doing to make you look so young? Oh, nothing much, only been using Hall's Hair Renewer to restore the color of my hair.

The New Industry.

A bridegroom, in taking out a marriage license at the City Clerk's office yesterday, insisted that his occupation should be recorded as "United States pensioner," as his pension money supports him.

We are all free American citizens, enjoying our personal liberty; but most of us are in physical slavery, suffering from scrofula, salt rheum or some other form of impure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the great blood purifier which gives physical liberty.

The New Minister.

When a new minister comes to a town he is "called." When he leaves it he is often called, too, but just what he is called we decline to state.—Yonkers Statesman.

Ayer's Pills, being convenient, efficacious, and safe, are the best cathartic, whether on land or sea, in city or country. For constipation, sick headache, indigestion, and torpid liver, they never fail. Try a box of them: they are sugar-coated.

Golden Rod.

O golden rod! sweet golden rod!
Bride of the autumn sun;
Has he kissed thy blossoms this mellow morn
And tinged them one by one?

Did the crickets sing at thy chr'stening,
When, in his warm embrace,
He gave thee love from his fount above,
And beauty, and cheer, and grace?

He brightens the asters, but soon they fade;
He reddens the sumach tree;
And the clematis loses its sunny bloom,
But he's true as truth to thee.

Scattered on mountain top or plain,
Unseen by human eye,
He turns thy fringe to burnished gold,
By love's sweet alchemy.

And then, when the chill November comes,
And the flowers their work have done,
Thou are still unchanged, dear golden rod,
Bride of the Autumn sun.

The great Dr. Boerhaave left three directions for preserving the health—keep the feet warm, the head cool, the bowels open. Had he practised in our day, he might have added: and purify the blood with Ayer's Sarsparilla; for he certainly would consider it the best.

Legally Dead.

AUGUSTA, Me,, Oct. 15.—The will of Micah W. Norton, the convicted murderer, sentenced to State prison for life, was filed in the Probate Court of Somerset county to-day. He wills to his four sons a farm in Moscow containing 165 acres, two farms in Concord, a farm in New Vineyard, with timber lots and pasture adjoining; to his son, Albert E. Norton, he gives a farm in Solon, and to his son, Carleton W Norton, a note of $200 and interest; to his son, Sumner E. Norton, he gives the remainder of his property, providing that the son will provide for his support when requested to. He desires his five sons to share equally in the estate of his late wife, Eliza. His son Sumner is appointed executor. Norton leaves an estate of $20,000 and makes his will, as when he goes to prison he is legally dead.

HE RETURNS FROM THE CAMPING GROUNDS.

His Condition Causes Alarm!

A well known young man in Toronto left in August last, to take a vacation; and with some others went North to camp, where sport was plentiful. He returned to Toronto when camp was broken up in September; but arrived in such a condition as to cause alarm to his relatives and friends.

He was confined to his home for a few days before he felt necessity of a physician. The family doctor was summoned, and at almost a glance took in the patient's condition and ailment, saying, "Mr. H——you must not attempt to do any office work for two months to come." He prescribed for him and left.

This was unwelcome and dreadful intelligence for Mr. H——who felt the manager of his company might find it necessary to put some one in his place. The manager was duly notified of Mr. H——'s illness, and kindly granted him further leave of absence, which was greatly appreciated by him.

On the evening of the same day on which the physician had been called in, a very dear friend, Mr. F——called to see Mr H——hearing he was ill. Mr. F——was greatly surprised to find his friend so weak, nervous and down spirited; and after hearing what the Doctor had said, and having ascertained what he prescribed, spoke as follows:

"Mr. H—— let me kindly say that you made the first error when you left for the North to camp. You were not at that time sufficiently robust and strong for such work as camp life involves. Before you left I noted with alarm your appearance and condition; but, now to the point my dear fellow; will you allow me as one who takes a great interest in your health and welfare to offer a sugestion, which if acted on, will surely restore you to strength, vigor and new life, long before these nauseous drugs and pills can do so? The remedy I would suggest is Paine's Celery Compound; I have had occasion to test it myself, and know of others who have used it and the result thus far, is ample to prove that it is what you now require. I am quite certain that your good mother and sisters will not object, even in the face of your doctor's learned opinion."

"You are weak, broken down, sleepless and irritable, you say; as well as very nervous; this makes your condition serious, but not worse than I was before I used this great remedy. You may go on for weeks under the care of a physician taking his pills and drugs, yet you are never sure of having the root of the trouble radicated. Paine's Celery Compound is the only remedy that can meet your case, and as for efficient results, I am willing to pledge my life if necessary."

Mr. H——with good sense used Paine's Celery Compound, and in less than ten days was able to walk out for exercise; and in two weeks was strong enough to resume his office work. His rapid and thorough cure was a marvel, not only to his friends, but to his family physician as well, who was led to see (against his will) the great medical value of Paine's Celery Compound.

Paine's Celery Compound is now recommended by Mr. H—— to any of his friends or relatives who may be ill. He always reminds them of his own sickness and quick restoration to health.
