H. T. Bush, president of the Standard Ideal Co., Port Hope, an employer of six hundred men, said: "I appear as a manufacturer in favor of reciprocity." He had thought the matter over, and concluded that if the manufacturers are entitled to protection and the government gives them reasonable protection, they in turn, to be fair should help to give the farmers what they believe will be in their best interest, for whatever is for the farmers' benefit is likewise for the manufacturers' interest. The manufacturers cannot succeed unless the farmers are doing well.
