> The British Flag a More Common Sight in This Harbor Than the Stars and Stripes.

Arrival of Lumber Shipments From Down East Increasing-The Fish Trade is Remarkably Quiet - General News.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Boston, May 2.—General business here is still very dull, and little or no mprovement is looked for until after the election campaign is ended. The eather trade, the woollen, rubber and other manufacturing industries are in very unsatisfactory state. The rubber trust has kept most of the rubber factories in New England closed for three months, and as yet no date has been set for their re-opening. A large percentage of the unfortunate opera-tives are Canadians, and in some localities, notably Rhode Island, the distress is very great. These facts are ot written from motives which impel the blue-ruinist to decry the land in which he lives, but are given for the benefit of those Canadians who

The British flag is a more common sight in Boston harbor than the stars and stripes. Yesterday there were eight ocean steamships in port, of which seven were British. Of five full rigged ships four displayed the Union Jack. Out of 17 barks, six were British, and of five brigs three carried the British flag. There were 62 British schooners out of a total of 194.

Capt. Edwin McLeod, commercial corresponding agent of Canada at Demerara, a native of New Brunswick, was in the city this week. He says that British Guiana is a rich country, and that the present dispute offers a chance to transfer a large portion of the trade with the United States to Canada. The country imports over 13,000 barrels of flour each nonth, much of which is American. Other imports are beef, pork, fish, split peas, potatoes, etc. Trade Canada was, at the present time, Mr. McLeod says, greatly on the increase.

The lumber trade is holding very steady, but the improvement is not yet as rapid as dealers and shippers would like to see. The arrivals of shipas the season advances, and by reason of a large stock of last year's lumto mill owners are not as plentiful as they should be. The old lumber, howmarket will not be hampered from this cause much longer. Prices, it is said, are affected somewhat just now by the knowledge that some of this lumber of last season was held over by mill owners and shippers.
