

Commissioners "Pass the Buck" To Mayor

Three City Fathers Think His Worship Should Alone Deal With "Crawford Matter"

The majority of the members of the City Council seemed to be in favor of passing the buck to the Mayor in connection with the request to forbid the meeting proposed to be held and addressed by Lindsay Crawford, when the matter was brought up at yesterday's meeting of the committee. It was finally decided to postpone action until the legal opinion of the City Solicitor, as to the right of the city to forbid the meeting, could be secured and this will likely be given at the council meeting this afternoon.

The Commission's next resolution passed at the meeting held in Queen Square theatre on Sunday afternoon, calling on the City Council to forbid Lindsay Crawford the right to speak in this city on the ground that he was preaching sedition and disruption of the Empire.

Mayor Schofield said he was still of the same opinion expressed on Sunday, that until it had been absolutely proven that Mr. Crawford had said the things he was charged with saying, the council could not forbid the meeting. He was willing, if the council would vote the necessary money, to send a stenographer to the meeting and take the speech, then, if anything seditious was said they would have the proof and could take action.

Up To The Mayor. Commissioner Jones said he felt a matter of this kind called for exercise of the best judgement of the Mayor and was not one to be brought before the council at all.

His Worship said he did not feel that way about it. He thought each and every member of the council should bear his share of the responsibility.

Commissioner Thornton said he agreed with the Mayor and was quite willing to take his share of the responsibility for what ever action the council might take. It had been charged that this man had said certain things and he felt sure those making the charge could back it up and prove what they said. There was one line of action which might be taken if he made any seditious statements and he assured the members that it would be, and that was to stop the meeting right there.

Commissioner Frink suggested that the oath of office taken by the Mayor be read. This was done by the Common Clerk. The oath calls upon the Mayor to defend the Crown from all sedition and traitors, and Mayor Schofield said he was quite ready to carry out the oath.

Need Legal Opinion. Commissioner Frink said it seemed to him that the question to settle was the power of the city to forbid the meeting and for this they should have the opinion of the City Solicitor. He felt it a matter for the Mayor as Commissioner of Public Affairs. His Worship might fairly be termed the "master of the city" or the "bishop of the civic diocese" and action was up to him, according to his best judgement.

Commissioner Bullock agreed with Commissioners Jones and Frink that it was a matter for the Mayor to deal with.

Commissioner Frink moved that further consideration of the matter be laid over until the opinion of the City Solicitor on the legal rights of the city be secured and a special meeting of the council be called by the chair to receive the report.—Carried.

FRENCH ARE GETTING AFTER FOREIGNERS

Those Who Have No Legitimate Reason for Being in Country Will be Deported.

(Copyright, 1920, by Cross-Atlantic.) Paris, Nov. 29.—Information reaching the French Government, it is stated, points to an organized attempt on the part of Germans desirous of securing entry into France for the purpose of carrying on their activities in connection with the Alsatian-Lorraine. The French authorities say there has been a systematic manufacture of documentary evidence to provide for citizenship.

As a consequence, the French Government has decided to make a strict examination of all credentials of foreigners residing in France. The first will be made in Paris, where there will be a round up of all foreign residents.

It is understood that the French Government does not intend to make the inquiry troublesome for foreigners having a legitimate reason for staying in Paris, but these persons will be required to assist the authorities in dealing with foreigners of doubtful antecedents seeking refuge in the capital.

NOW EATS BACON FOR BREAKFAST

Moncton Man Now Enjoys Edibles He Didn't Dare Touch Before Taking Tanlac.

"Tanlac is the only thing that ever helped me and that's saying a good deal, for I spent hundreds of dollars trying to get rid of my troubles," was the emphatic declaration made recently by Bill Corcoran, of 740 Main St., Moncton, N. B.

"Seven years ago I had to leave my home because I got too weak to do the work, and from then on my health continued to go down. My appetite left me and I hardly ever ate a mouthful for breakfast. After meals I bloated up with gas so I couldn't walk for an hour. Honestly I was hardly ever free from that tight, bloated feeling. I dared not touch fats or anything rich, for I knew not well the misery it would cost me."

"Every home in my body seemed to ache with rheumatism and the pains in my arms, chest and back were almost unbearable. Many a night I didn't get a wink of sleep and some mornings I had such terrible headaches I could hardly get out of bed. I took medicine enough to stock a small sized drug store, but nothing gave me any permanent relief, and things were getting pretty gloomy for me."

"That was the shape I was in when I got Tanlac, but I had only taken a few doses before I got to feeling better. By the time I had finished the second bottle I was feeling fine, though I took two more to clinch the good work. Why, I can eat bacon for breakfast now, or just anything else I want and nothing ever hurts me. I never feel a touch of rheumatism and in fact all my aches and pains have left me, and I can work from sun up to sundown and feel fine all the time. I just can't say too much for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in St. John by Ross Drug Co., and F. W. Magro under the personal direction of a special Tanlac representative.—Adv.

AMERICAN INACTION IS NATURAL RESULT OF HER IGNORANCE

Knows Too Little of European Countries to Give Intelligent Assistance.

(Copyright, 1920, by Cross-Atlantic.) Berlin, Nov. 29.—The worries of single countries are secondary matters for America; she knows too little of Germany, France or Europe generally to grant individual help," says the "Frankfurter Zeitung" in a reply to a recent speech by Mr. Boyden, the American delegate to the Brussels Conference.

"Mr. Boyden," it says, "touched a point which is characteristic of the American way of thinking, and which has always been wrongly interpreted by us. Like a man who is surprised by conditions which to him appear inconceivable, he speaks of European disagreement. He asked, why is there such rivalry, such strife, and such a lack of unity in Europe while America has given an example of the cohesion of a continent?"

"The question is indeed worthy studying, and for the financial problems now under discussion in Brussels it is of momentous practical importance. In Germany, in France, and wherever credits for reconstruction are needed, eyes are concentrated on an American 'big brother.' But in the United States our troubles, the distress of France and other states are not viewed with our anxiety and passion."

Only See Continents. "America can only think in continents, and her leading financiers might, perhaps, help if a plan for the reconstruction of Europe were submitted. Otherwise, not. America thinks of Europe as a unit. But the problem is: does not America, while thinking in continents, forget that the whole world is one inseparable unit? Both in America and in England (whose delegates, proud of the strength regained through her own exertions, maintained a skeptical attitude) it should not be forgotten that, however important continents may be the "oneness" of the whole world is more important still.

"In defiance of all political and geographical boundary lines, there is an economic universal tie, and no country, be it ever so wealthy and well provided, can afford to isolate itself. "If the European continent is submerged in chaos, the whole world will have to bear its share of pauperization and disintegration. Recuperation of Europe means a growth of wealth for everyone. It appears to us the chief task of the Brussels Conference to gain recognition for this point of view."

FAMOUS TREASURES OF ART WILL COME UNDER THE HAMMER

Stowe House, Buckinghamshire, Contents to be Auctioned off Next Spring.

By HUGH DRYDEN. (Copyright, 1920, by Cross-Atlantic.) London, Nov. 29.—One of the biggest and most famous houses in England—Stowe House, Buckinghamshire—is to yield up its treasures to sacrifice on the auctioneer's rostrum. Next spring the collection of pictures and statuary will be sold; the sale is expected to last several weeks.

The frontage of the mansion is 914 feet long, three times the length of St. Peter's (the Duke of Marlborough's great mansion). Its gardens cover 600 acres, and were among the most beautiful in Europe.

In August, 1847, the balliws were in Stowe House. The Duke of Buckingham and Chandos was hopelessly insolvent; he owed nearly $9,000,000. In 1848 came the famous sale, at which the contents of this huge mansion, books, pictures and plate, were dispersed. Stowe House was for many years leased to the late Comte de Paris, who died there in 1874. When the last Duke of Buckingham died in 1890 the dukedom became extinct, and the Stowe estate passed to the Duke's daughter, who succeeded to his barony of Kinloss. It was her son, the Master of Wiltshire, who recently started society by announcing his betrothal to the village blacksmith's daughter.

SLEEVES ARE OF MANY DESIGNS

While Some Picturesque Styles Are Followed Short Sleeves Prevail.

Very splendid sleeves of material different from the frock, often of metal brocade or richly embroidered are shown on some models from exclusive shops. They add greatly to the charm and style of a frock and are generally long, some coming over the knuckles. They are not tight as a rule, some are puffed at the elbow, some at the shoulder, the design for them being taken from old portraits and prints.

But while those who can afford to have many frocks include some with these odd sleeves, the economical stick to the short sleeve, even for winter. To meet the need for warmth over the bare arm mougetaire gloves are featured.

The latest offerings rather emphasize mocha and suede in brown and in gray shades suitable for completing the street dress or the early fall suit. Then there are the lace kid gloves in black and white, the former considered very smart for former occasions, and the white as a dress

Russian Effect In Headdress

Very Popular for Brides—Must be Worn Low on Forehead.

(By London Daily Mail and Cross-Atlantic Newspaper Service.) London, Nov. 27.—The Russian head-dress, shaped like a coronet with a point in front, is more popular than ever with women for evening wear. A wire frame serves as foundation, covered with gold or silver tulle, this probably will have gold or silver leaves fluted and closely sewn on to it. Jade tissue with jade velvet leaves can prove very becoming. Light padded fruits in bright colorings may also be effectively employed.

Brides have lately shown an increased preference for wearing their hair, dress, having orange blossoms with hennin, and sometimes myrtle arranged round it. It must be worn low on the forehead or the effect is completely spoiled.

PREPARING FOR A BIG CANADIAN NIGHT IN LONDON

Canadian Assn. Will Entertain Imperial Press Delegates at "Canuck" Dinner.

(Copyright, 1920, by Cross-Atlantic.) London, Nov. 29.—Canadians in London are preparing for a big Canadian night here with settings and scenic effects and decorations reminiscent of "back home." The Canadian Association here, of which the Duke of Connaught is president, will entertain Lord Burnham and sixty delegates to the Imperial Press Conference, who recently returned from Canada, to a sumptuous banquet on Dec. 9. Only distinctly Canadian native dishes will be served.

"We will cable to Canada for a big variety of native delicacies," declared F. C. Wade, agent-general for British Columbia, who is assisting Colonel Grant Morison, M. P., and a committee of Canadians in organization of the event.

"We will have Malpasque oysters from the Maritime Provinces, Sockeye salmon from British Columbia, and venison, maple sugar and other products from other provinces. I understand they have already been shipped."
