FIVE DAYS MORE TO WIN THAT $700
Don't Delay in Solving The Advertiser Puzzle.

Five more days remain for solving The Advertiser's $2,500 puzzle. If you don't prepare a solution and submit it by the 16th you will have missed this golden opportunity to share in the awards—that will be made very soon. Solutions of the puzzle may be left at The Advertiser Contest Office March 15, day or evening, or may be mailed so as to bear that day's postmark. The letter will be accepted on receipt through the mails, if properly postmarked.
Solutions should be prepared carefully with the names and addresses of contestants stated plainly. It is unnecessary to accompany the solutions with a letter, unless contestants desire to give some directions about sending the paper that the solution blank does not provide for, or to make some special inquiry.
The chart and blank should be cut out neatly together. If those further the paper are used, and nothing further the chart. Extra charts with blanks attached may be obtained from the Contest Office of Advertiser's Contestants bringing their solutions to the Contest Office. The solution should have the exact amount they desire to pay. Although the time for solving this interesting puzzle is short, there is still ample time to win, solutions submitted from now on having the same standing as those already registered. It is money now as it was a week or two ago.
Those desiring to enter a solution different from one already submitted may do so, but the prize will be the same. The prize is the same for all solutions, whether the first, and those desiring to pay up to the limit with any solution already filed—if they did not pay the full amount when submitting it—may do so now.

WARN SPRACKLIN TO KEEP AWAY FROM TORONTO
Not Worrying About Letter From Determination League, Says Pastor.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
PARIS, Ont., March 13.—"I would go back tomorrow if it were necessary and under the same circumstances perhaps do the same thing," said J. O. L. Spracklin in the Methodist church here today in his campaign on behalf of the referendum.
"I only take my orders from God Almighty," he said, and went on to give a description of conditions as they had prevailed at the border.
"I had shut one road house out of $10 a month," he said, "if it was not for that I had to go through a tragedy and kill a man."
He told in vivid language of the threats that had been made against his life, and of the importation of gunpowder from New York.
"I have just received a letter from the Determination League in Toronto," he said, "warning me that if I speak in Toronto I will be shot. Well, I am not worrying in any way about threats of that kind."
OLD ENGLISH HUNTING SONG.
That rugged old English hunting song, "John Peel," as sung by De Gorge, Emile, constitutes one of the new Red Seal Records obtainable from The Old Firm Heinemann & Co., Limited, 242 Dundas Street, London.
The song is half English, half Scotch, and when the singer asks "Do you know John Peel?" he is asking if you knew a famous hunter, who lived and rode hard just about a century ago, through many a bitter dawn, over country that had killed many a skilled huntsman and many a great-hearted horse.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT REDUCES ON ONE POWER STANDARD FOR NAVY; ESTIMATES ARE REDUCED

Navy Estimates Show a Reduction of About Ten Million Pounds—Four Big New Battleships May Be Laid Down Shortly.

London, March 13.—The navy estimates for 1921-22, to be made public tomorrow, will show a reduction of some millions of pounds on the net estimate from the last fiscal year, which was $34,722,000, according to the forecast of the political correspondent of the London Times. He says that the reduction of possibly ten million pounds sterling, and understands that, following upon the findings of the sub-committee on imperial defence, the Government has decided in principle that the capital ship must continue to be the main unit of an effective fleet.
Outlining the present position, the correspondent says there are now 35 capital ships, of which eight are obsolescent, if not obsolete, and adds that it is regarded as uneconomical to man such ships with expensive, highly-trained personnel; consequently, these eight are expected to be scrapped.
Adhering to the policy of the "one power standard," enunciated by Mr. Winston Churchill, former first lord of the admiralty, last summer, the Government says the corresponding number of ships that the remaining 30 capital ships constitute for the present an adequate basis for the maintenance of one power standard.
"But at least four of these ships will presently need to be replaced," the forecast continues, "the construction of four vessels of their type will eventually be necessary."
After consultation with the Dominion governments next June, it adds, orders may be placed for the building of these four new vessels, "but it is possible that in the meantime a beginning may be made by laying down two."

FORMER KAISER CLAIMS THAT HE WAS A GENUINE DOVE OF PEACE
Tried For Thirty Years To Avert Wars, He Says, in Book He Has Written—Foiled by Perfidious Machinations of Great Britain, France and Russia.

THE HAGUE, March 13.—In the book he has written for private distribution, in an effort to show that Great Britain was responsible for the war, former Emperor William of Germany through out speaks always of himself in the third person. He points William II. as a man who tried for 20 years to maintain peace in Europe, but says he was foiled by the "perfidious machinations" of Great Britain, France and Russia.
As long ago as 1905, the former kaiser says, he tried to found a league of nations. Although no full copy of the book is yet available, and both the former emperor's entourage and the Dutch and German Governments are worried because of the publication of brief extracts from it, sufficient of the contents of the volume have leaked out to indicate the general trend of the entire work. The leak was principally due to the Berlin correspondent of the Rotterdam Maasbode.
Tells of Visit.
The correspondent says the book begins with notes as far back as 1884 (William succeeded his father as king and emperor in 1888). "In some places," says the correspondent, "the document is very interesting, especially notes of August 18, 1891, where he treats of the visit of William to Czar Alexander III. at Narvik, when the czar said he hated the French Republic and wanted to restore a monarchy in France. But already, says the kaiser, a Russian-French military agreement had been negotiated saying that in the event of mobilization of any member of the triple alliance (Germany, France and Russia), a mobilization of French and Russian forces would be ordered immediately, and these armies thrown into action at once."
Under date of April 15, 1898, the former emperor writes: "A British proposal for an alliance of Germany against Russia is declined."

In order not to endanger the world's peace.
At the same time Delcasse (then minister of foreign affairs), proposed to the German ambassador in Paris a German-French agreement in order to prevent the Portuguese colonies falling into British influence. This proposal was not answered.
The former emperor also claims that he drafted a project for a league of nations under date of March 24, 1905.
He began to begin a league of nations, made by the former kaiser to the czar and to Witte (then Russian foreign minister), to put a league of nations consisting of the Triple Alliance and the French-Russian Alliance, with the understanding also that other groups of separate countries may become members of the league. The proposal was accepted by the czar and Witte. There was no question as to the presidential mission to Germany in February, 1911, when the kaiser, then British high chancellor, the book says: "German efforts to conclude neutrality with Great Britain failed in consequence of the absurd demand for a cessation of development of the German fleet through the curtailment of the building of new ships."
Regarding the mission to Germany in February, 1911, when the kaiser, then British high chancellor, the book says: "German efforts to conclude neutrality with Great Britain failed in consequence of the absurd demand for a cessation of development of the German fleet through the curtailment of the building of new ships."
The former emperor in the book deals with the mobilization of 1914. He says this began in early April of that year with "the mobilization of the British banks in order to get large stocks of gold. Then the kaiser continues: 'June: Beginning of preparations for mobilization in England.'"
"June 15: Russia. Troops called to arms in April and May under the pretence that they were to serve in manoeuvres are being kept under arms for an outbreak of war."
"July 2: All the Belgian reserve officers have been called to arms."
Regarding the refusal of the suggestion by Russia to submit the Serbian incident to The Hague court of arbitration, the former emperor says: "The proposal of the czar was not approved. Russia wanted in this way to gain time to prepare for war."
On August 4, Sir Edward Grey (then British foreign secretary), demands of Germany that Germany halt her offensive march of troops in Belgium or otherwise Great Britain will protect Belgium. This was the British declaration of war."

CORNWALL-DEVON REUNION PLEASURES
Five Hundred Natives of England Enjoy Program At Y. M. C. A.

Typical in every respect of nights spent in Greater London, was the Cornwall-Devonshire Old London reunion Saturday night. Over 500 natives of these two counties and the great city attended the affair in the Y. M. C. A. building, and all voiced their opinions as to being in the city. The best reunion evenings that have been held. A decided feature of the evening was the showing of all the new points of interest in the European metropolis, for the first time in the city. Little could they realize how quickly it had grown and how much it had changed since they could be carried out successfully. Pictures pertaining to this was of a very educational nature. The scenic parts of the counties were shown and it was quite evident that the English spectators wished to be back in their native land. Little Miss Irene Paddock delighted the audience with a popular English dance. She showed exceptionally fine ability as a dancer. The song rendered by Miss B. Salmood received hearty applause. It might be said that no reunion night can pass satisfactorily without W. J. Way and his concertina. He has appeared on the program of every one so far, and each time he shows evidence of winning the hearts of the people to a greater extent. The humorous songs of J. Morely met with hearty approval. The song "The Cornishman" by James Payne, James McLaughlin, Violet Gillmore and Arthur Greenslade contributed the remainder of the program of songs, dances and tones.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Beal is survived by three sons, Carl G. Beal of Toronto; H. B. and Arthur Beal of this city; two daughters, Miss Marion Beal in Baltimore and Miss Adeline Beal at home, and one sister, Miss Rhoda Shuff of London. The late Dr. Norman Beal was son.

Ex-President of Provincial U. F. W. O. Scores Immodesty of Dress.

ST. MARYS, March 12.—The local branch of the U. F. W. O. held a pleasant social evening in the town hall in the form of a reception for new members and their wives. Mrs. Vanstone, the president, occupied the chair. The principal speaker of the evening was Mrs. Brody of Newmarket, ex-president of the Provincial Union of the U. F. W. O. She stated that at the present time the blame for conditions throughout the country is placed on the shoulders of the men, but they were not to blame; it was the farm women of Canada who were falling down in their work. "Do not blame the young girls of Canada for going about 'dressed,' which today practically means undressed, she said. I have seen grey-haired women attending social functions in the city of Toronto dressed far more vulgarly than young girls. We see our daughters go about with their low-necked dresses, pink persimmon, and worst of all, dresses up to their necks. Here the speaker made a slight pause, which provoked laughter.

Men Are Busy.
Men are looking after the commercial side of national building, so now it is up to the women to look after the social and educational side. Our children should be educated to higher ideals in our schools. At least 83 per cent of our boys and girls never pass a public school, then let us have them educated right there in the proper manner, so that when they go out into the world they will feel they have learned something which will be a blessing to them in after years; let us impress upon them the responsibility that will be theirs. We can reach all the people through our public schools; then let us make it interesting.

BOILS SO BAD HAD TO GIVE UP WORK

From the days of Job, up to the present time, boils have been one of the afflictions of the human race. All the poulticing and lancing you may do will not prevent them from breaking out again.
Boils are simply caused by the bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.
Burdock Blood Bitters, which has been on the market for over forty years, is well known as the greatest blood medicine procurable.
It purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul matter from the system, and when this is done the boils vanish, and you should never be troubled again.
Mr. James Fahey, Newport Island, Que., writes: "I was troubled with boils on my back and neck, so bad that I was obliged to give up work. I tried several remedies but got no relief. Finally I went to a doctor, and he treated me for several weeks, and all without benefit. As last a friend told me of Burdock Blood Bitters, so I decided to give it a trial. I got three bottles, but before I had taken two the boils were all gone. It is eight months now, and I have had no return of the old trouble, and have never felt so well."

long and attractive. Educational legislation cannot come before public opinion makes it necessary; then let us as farm women of Ontario win that public opinion in the interest of the young people of our country.
Praises Drury.

Here the speaker made reference to Premier Drury, saying that there had been more human legislation enacted since Drury took the reins than ever before, simply because he was a farmer and his wife was a good sensible woman. He consulted his wife on practically every question, she said, and this has made him the wise, half-brother among the women of Toronto.
Mrs. Brody's last appeal to the women of this community was to set a high standard for the growing girl and boy.
