Greg Holst shows some punch, but the Devils were lacking 'scoring punch', as they tied Mt. A and were creamed by Moncton last weekend.

Holiday Classic Jan 5&6

The annual UNB Red Raider Holiday Classic comes to Fredericton on the weekend of Jan. 5 and 6.

The teams involved this year, including the Red Raiders; are Johnson State College of Johnson Vermont; Belknap College of Centre Harbour, New Hampshire; and Thomas College of Waterville, Maine.

The tournament opens at 7:00 pm. on Jan. 5th with a second game following at 9:00 pm. The final two games of the Classic will be held on Saturday Jan. 6. The losers will meet in the consolation game at 1:00 pm. The championship game will be played at 3:00 pm on Saturday with trophy presentations to follow.

The defending champions, the host Red Raiders, are determined to retain the championship they won by defeating UPEI in last year's final. The road could be rocky this year as Johnson State and Belknap are both colleges which recruit very heavily. An example of this is Belknap, which has no players from New Hampshire on its squad, only people from New York and New Jersey. Thomas has also shown its power by losing to high powered Husson College by only five points.

Dick Slipp, captain of the Red Raiders, a tournament all-star is determined to retain both his individual title and that of the team title.

The continuance of this tournament depends on the fan support. Since there is the added expense of bringing in outside teams, an admission price of one dollar to students is necessary. So come out and support the Raiders in their drive to a second successive title, it would be much appreciated.

Rugby teams wrap up season

On Wednesday, the UNB Rugby Club held its last official function of the year-the awards banquet at the Windsor Hotel. As always, the selection of awards was difficult, especially when you have as successful a year as the Ironmen had, with so many scorers, fine defensive players, and talented newcomers. The selection was made slightly easier when it was decided that a few of the older players and former recipients of awards were eligible but still there were a lot of hard decision. Selected for MVP was Hugh Dickison, a fine two-way player who can play almost anywhere in the backs. Best Forward went to Les Morrow, a devastating tackler and play-maker. Best New Player was won by Bill Sullivan by dint of his phenomenal scoring power and fine jumping. This year there were two special categories: Best Team Player and Best B Team Player.

David Baird won Best Team Player for best exemplifying the dedication and determination of this year's team, and Mike Kelly received Best B Team Player for his consistently inspiring play at scrum-half. After the awards, the coach had a special thanks for the A and B team captains, Rick Adams and Darryl Caines, and then moved on to more pressing matters - the Spring Tour. As most people have heard by now, the Ironmen hope to raise enough money to go to Bermuda, after successful tours in Boston 1970 and Montreal 1971. The team has already held a raffle and a pub but will be holding many more events in the coming year.
