THE REVEREND POLITICIAN

The Reverend Dr. McDonald, at one time a preacher from the pulpit, later, Editor of the Toronto Globe, and now a camp follower of the worst gang of political brigands ever known in any nation on earth, is writing articles from the press gallery, Ottawa, to the Toronto Globe, for use in any political newspaper, vile enough to reprint them. A clerical politician, with a long black coat, a tall white collar, and the Bible under his arm, he leaves an Ottawa Prayer Meeting to immediately attend a caucus of the aforesaid politicians. This of itself, would have the appearance of a mixed intellect, to say nothing of the effect upon his Christian associates of the half hour prayer just closed.

This Reverend Doctor of Divinity, the Morning Chronicle says, is "a great Canadian, honored from end to end of Canada, in the United States and the Motherland." We remember to have heard of another cloven footed gentleman who enjoys wide popularity in all those countries named. The gownless Tom Paine, was not accused of hypocrisy and falsehood, neither did he abandon the pulpit for debased revels in falsification. Bishops, priests, ministers, and church leaders, prove their worth, not by wearing the insignia of ecclesiasticism, their outward mark of identification, but by exhibiting in their lives the beautiful gems of the human soul. Who ever heard of a pulpit hypocrite like this hysterical, wretched political maniac, ever leading anybody out of anything, and into anything unless it be a mass of exceedingly weak minded political students, who are gullible enough to trust his words because of the garb he wears.

Premier Borden, is this man MacDonald's latest text. He says "Mr. Borden in power, as in opposition, effects kid glove methods, but countenances the methods of a brigand." Nice talk for the Rev. Dr. J. A. MacDonald. I wonder what he effects in a prayer meeting just before the political caucus.

As a clergymen, he knows his words have a prestige the ordinary newspaper writer might not enjoy. It is a popular idea to say the least, that a clergyman should stand apart, from that kind of party politics that requires absolute, intentional lying. Mind you, this Rev. Doctor preaches sermons. He is called a good preacher, why not? He has had better opportunities than the average preacher, but as a matter of fact most people would prefer Tom Paine, if he were alive. He says "Mr. Borden's voice joined with those who planned to howl down Sir Wilfrid." He says the press gallery men report him Mr. Borden as shouting "sit down, sit down."

First, both these statements are absolutely without one word of truth. It is a plain, pure lie, to say that Mr. Borden cried "sit down, sit down."

Dr. MacDonald was in the gallery when the incident he refers to took place, and he knows that Sir Wilfrid was not howled down. This, of course, was a cruel attack upon Mr. Borden, and a man who lies thus leaves his self respect at the prayer meeting.

His political prominence had its birth in a wholesale defence of the proven, graft and political corruption of the Ross Government, and later, the Laurier Government. Fortunately, his influence is dead. He went to Washington, and prepared the whole program, by which W. S. Fielding, and William Patterson, sought, with the help of Taft, to make Canada "an adjunct of the United States," at least, so Mr. Taft says. His scheme floundered, and he, Fielding, Patterson and several others, went down, and are still there. Neither Sir Wilfrid nor any of his followers in the House, have claimed that he was "howled down" in parliament, neither will they claim it. But it remains for an empty headed, soulless, lying clergyman, to lead a band of camp followers in the falsification of the facts.

Of course The Morning Chronicle, in its baby faced fashion will still keep repeating falsehood after falsehood. No man living can find a single honest, truthful article, of a political nature, treating of Canadian federal, parliamentary doings, in any issue of the Chronicle; since the 5th, of December, 1912, we might add,—or for the past 2 years,—why is this; everyone knows our statement is true. Only a few hide-bound partisans pretend to read its political words. Newsboys complain that they can't sell that "thing." If the people of the Morning Chronicle, would drop its infamous articles by Reverend MacDonald, and start on a campaign of truth, Liberals might regain confidence in the old organ of their party. Alfred Henry Lewis, in his latest book, describes how a reflective and resourceful farmer lied a bear to death. The bear chased him into a tree "and then he hurled down untruth after untruth on him, until he was crushed dead." This occurred in the region of Arizona, but we have no faith that the president would, or will work on Canadian soil. It is however, one of the glorious privileges enjoyed exclusively in Canada by the Morning Chronicle and the Reverend MacDonald. We will watch the results.
