GOOD FOR RIDGETOWN.

Barrister Ryeccart, of Ridgetown, was in the city yesterday. He says that business is brisk in Ridgetown just now. There is no boom, but the town is just making a healthy advance. There isn't an empty house to be had in the place and 15 or 20 new houses are required at once. The railroad extension, Coates' saw mill, and Leitch's basket factory are responsible in good part for the prosperity. Ridgetown is also attracting trade from the country around. The town now has a number of splendid stores including Northway & Co., Steele's & Craig, and they do a large business. The Ridgetown merchants are doing a larger business now than they ever did. The Coates' sawmill has timber enough to last them for five years. Everything is used from the saw dust to the bark, and nothing is wasted.
