WOMEN WHO WEAR WELL.

It is astonishing how great a change the following quotationsfew years of married life will make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshoess, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage.

Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant drains which are often consequent on marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness. As six months. surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in renewed comliness. Half a million women and more have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Little minds are tamed and subdued by misfortune ; but great minds rise above it.

the Planet, says-With anxiety concerning the strike and the monetary outlook removed, the list of stimulating features ends It is true that general business continues active and large in volume, with no prospect of immediate diminu-tion. But a striking feature of business to-day in nearly all lines is declining profits. As already shown in these advices net profits for both industrials and railroads are beginning to shrink owing to increased cost of raw materials and labor. The same is true in many other lines of business whose securities are not dealt in on the stock exchange. Should this tendency continue it means a curtailment in the purchasing powers of the wealthy classes, which in turn will reduce the consumption of many comnodities, especially luxuries. Perhaps this tendency is only temporary, and such it is hoped will be the case, but there are only too many suggestions strengthening the impression that partial reaction from the high tide of prosperity is now upon us. Not the least indication has been the unfavorable turn in our foreign trade during the past year. High prices here have stimulated imports and checked exports; the results being to greatly diminish the favorable balance of trade which existed two years ago, and render possible the talk of gold exports, which now tends to make Wall street hesitate not so much from from the actual as from the moral effect of our being compelled to ship gold when the banks are endeavoring to strengthen their resources. Exports of wheat, corn and cotton are all impeded at present by the fact that American holders demand prices that European buyers will not pay, even extraordinary low outward freights are not sufficient to move these products from our seaboard with desired freedom. Other evidences of a reactionary tendency could be cited, but enough have been presented to warrant a conservative attitude towards the future until some sort of readjustment has taken place
