The whole question turned on whether the time of the session of parliament should be counted in the six months or not. There appears to be considerable difference of opinion on the part of judges as well as lawyers on this point. Our court was that of M. Ferry (six second), which succeeded M. Fallieres' administration, on February 22, 1883, and stood for twenty-six months. M. Ferry's other ministry, begun September 22, 1880, comes near on the list with fourteen months. M. for trial was made in good time, though the time of session should be counted in the six months, and nothing but the desy in the settlement of points incidentally raised has prolonged the time until the expiry of the six months. It is a maxim of law that the courts' delay should harm no one, but in this instance the result has proved otherwise, and the ill-gotten seats are held by the unscrupulous.

The St. John Sun and some other to rise are in ecatacies over the fact that Sir John A. Macdonald has been allowed to retain his Kingston seat even though his election was won by corrupt means. A sense of shame would force most men to a widely different feeling, but we presume that on the part of those who have been boisterous over the result one need not look for any show of the finer feelings.

The report that the Canada Pacific Railway Company had purchased the New Brunswick Railway, is, we are informed on reliable authority, not strictly correct. The position of affairs is about as follows: Some members of the Canada Pacific having a controlling interest in the New Brunswick, elected at their last annual meeting one of their number, Sir George Stephen, to the office of President over Mr. Thorne, of New York. The aim of the C. P. R., as understood, is not to compile a congratulatory address to constant of the control of the C.P.R., as understood, is not to secure control by purchase or otherwise of the New Brunswick complete, but to effect a transfer only of that portion of John L.
