Discovered Man Who Sent Money to Miss Millman.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—Early to-day Sheriff Gaston received word from Postmaster Prettyman at Ann Arbor, revealing the name of a young man in Detroit who sent money in a letter to Miss Maybelle Millman, whose dismembered body was found in Evorse Creek. The arrest of the man suspected of the crime is expected to-day. His name was connected with the case last night, following the apprehension of Dr. Geo. A. # HE MURDERED HIS MOTHER.

Intended to Kill Father, Too, But Took Own Life Instead.

Dramatic and Astounding Letters Left by Him.

Was Ten Years a Robber and Then Committed Suicide.

Pottsville, Pa., Sept. 9.—A confession written by George Simon, jun., who committed suicide in the presence of his sweetheart here last week after the discovery that his mother had been murdered, was found to-day. Besides clearing up the crime, it shows that the young man intended killing his father.

Young Simon, in the confession, says that he killed his mother in order to conceal the fact that he had been systematically robbing her and his father since he was 10 years old until they, unknown to themselves, had not a cent in the world. He further confesses that he intended to kill his father while he slept and then conceal his crime by setting the house afire.

The most striking and remarkable parts of the confessions, written on Aug. 30 on the train between Birdsboro and Pottsville, just before the suicide—so shortly after George had been to visit his sweetheart and somewhat relented in his more sweepingly tragic purposes—are as follows:

Years ago, when I was about 10 years old, I commenced to take money dishonestly from my dear departed mother's purse. At first it was only pennies, but they led to nickels, dimes and dollars, until at about the age of 13 I forged several cheques on my dear old father. At heart I am a good child, but an evil spirit, which I could not resist, seemed to take possession of me, and so I kept on taking more and more money from my parents.

During my senior year in the Pottsville High School I drew on forged cheques the entire savings of my dear parents, from the Miners' National Bank, all but about $150, which was used to make improvements in the home which I treated so badly. All the money (about $750) I spent wilfully and for my own pleasure. It cannot be called pleasure entirely, for the good which was in me would at times crop out, and I suffered dreadfully, but then again the evil spirit would assert itself.

RAISED MONEY ON A BOND.

I next took a Schuylkill county bond from its keeping place at home and borrowed from the Schuylkill Trust Company $800, $400 on two occasions. Again I forged my father's name to do this, and, having squandered all, I borrowed $100 from the Pottsville Building & Loan Association. I even kept from month to month the dues which my parents supposed I paid in for them, and also the money which Samuel Eisenbach, of Delnao, sent with my father to be paid in the same fund.

Do not think, dear friends, that I had a good time with this money. It cost me more mental anguish than anyone can imagine; but I was forced on by an unconquerable desire for more. I made my friends believe that I got my money from my uncle, Frank J. Simon, who never gave one cent for my personal use.

At last, having plunged so deep into crime that I could not get out, I hoped to kill my parents, and, soaking the bed on which they lay, I wished to set fire to everything and escape, making it appear as though the fire was accidental. On last Tuesday morning I shot and killed my dear sainted mother, and confined her body in the parlor, and locked and barred the doors of that room. I then went to Audenried to visit Mr. and Mrs. John Turnbach.

Before going on this trip I left notes to my father to make him believe that mother and I had gone to Mahanoy City, and that mother would stay there several days. I kept house for father, hoping to slay him in his sleep, but here the good in me again cropped out, and I thank God for it.

I am going now to see my dear innocent sweetheart, whom it will ruin when this becomes known. Before the setting of the sun this day I hope to be with my dear mother. May God forgive me for my sins and take me to Him.

TO HIS BEREAVED FATHER.

To my Father,—Dear Dad, forgive your poor, wayward, wicked son, and may you never suffer poverty in your old age, although God knows that it is not my fault that you do not. You will find mother's body in the little bedroom covered with a sheet, and disinfectants.

I leave, dear father, a girl, my sweetheart, Viola Hartranft. Take her and love her, make her your daughter, if not in deed, in thought. She is one of the sweetest, purest and best girls God created. I am afraid, when she finds out all this, it will kill her. God care for and protect you both. And now good-bye, dear father. Forgive me, as I hope to be forgiven by God.

PLEADS WITH SWEETHEART.

To Viola, my sweetheart—There is much I would like to say to you, dear, but little time to do it in. It is because of my love for you, and the good, which has been sleeping in me, that I take my miserable life so that I may do no more evil against God, you and others. Forgive me my sins and do not be angry with me, but think kindly of me when I am gone. I came to Birdsboro to see you for the last time in this life. May we again meet some day with our Maker and be happy there.
