

He, from mercy, and from heaven—to be far from Christ is to be without God, and without hope in the world.

If we have Christ, we have all—without Christ we have nothing. You can be happy without money, without liberty, without friends, if Christ is yours!

Will Jesus Save Me. A short time ago on visiting an hospital, I saw a young man in the last stage of consumption, and I asked him if he was prepared for death.

On finding that I was an Episcopalian, he said to his mother, "Mother, you won't speak against the Church again, will you?" This arose from his deep feeling of having received the gospel in power and the Holy Ghost from one who was in connection with the Established Church.

Reader, have you ever entertained this solemn question, "Will Jesus save me?" Death, when it stares us in the face, makes salvation a personal matter.

God grant that every one of my dear unconverted readers may have the Holy Spirit to give him such a sight and sense of his sinful and miserable condition that he will cry out, in the agony of conscious wretchedness, "I am lost! I am lost!"

Did Mahomet believe in himself? However strange it may appear, the heavenly origin of his revelations, obtained though they were from such fallible and imperfect sources, appears to have been believed by Mahomet himself.

SATURDAY, JULY 24, 1869.

The subject of Missions is now engaging the attention of the church of Christ more than at any period of her history since the days of the Apostles. Through the exertions of British and American Christians, and a few of the most valiant on the continent of Europe, missions have been sent to all parts of the habitable globe.

Every individual amongst us who sincerely prays for the extension of the Redeemer's Kingdom, must rejoice at the missionary spirit which is increasing in these Lower Provinces. The Presbytery of Nova Scotia has already three missionaries laboring on the New Hebrides, and is about to send a fourth; the Free Church has one employed among the Greek population in Turkey, and the Synod in connection with the Established Church of Scotland together with the sister Synods of Canada and New Brunswick, are preparing to send a missionary to the Jews in Salonica.
