On 279 Special Trains, C. G. Railways

Up to March 1st 757,400 Troops have travelled over Government Railways.

Thousands arrive each week at Halifax and are sent forward to Dispersal Areas.

Since the war began in 1914 up to March 1st, when S.S. Belgic disembarked her returned soldier passengers at Halifax 757,400 troops have been carried on special trains over the Canadian Government Railways.

The first train which carried troops over the Government Railways the year the war was declared was numbered one and all special troop trains to and from Halifax since that time have been numbered consecutively. The last train from the Belgic was on Saturday No 1279. Each train averages about twelve cars with an average of 50 men to a car, which figures up a total of 767,400 men carried. Of course in addition to this thousands of soldiers have journeyed by regular trains during the past four years.

The movement of troops back to Canada is now approaching its greatest activity. Last Sunday 5000 arrived at Halifax by the transports Lapland and Belgic and fifteen special trains were despatched westward inside of fourteen hours.

S. S. Maganie with soldiers and dependants arrived Wednesday and S. S. Adriatic due Sunday. The movement of returning men is to be kept up actively all summer.

The process of disembarkation at Halifax is being carried on without a hitch, and there is a fine system of co-operation between the Military and the Railway officials.

Look! Read! Realize.

We cater to the men's trade, and no other. If you were sick you wouldn't call to see a Tailor, or a Blacksmith, about the condition of your health. Of course not; you would call to see a Doctor.

If you wanted a Suit or an Overcoat you would go to see a Doctor, or a Shoemaker? Not at all! You would go to see a First Class Tailor.

WELL, there's where we shine! We study the business! We know what suits a young man we know what suits a middle-aged man, and we know what suits the old gentleman—both in goods and in style. It does not make any difference whether you want your clothes Ready-to-Wear, or Made-to-Order. We are equally in a position to suit you. We do not let a suit or overcoat leave our establishment until it suits and fits the man who is buying. Our prices are always right when you take the quality into consideration.

Do not forget that we are sole agents for the famous W. H. Leishman & Co., Wholesale Custom Tailors. We have an elegant stock of Overcoats to show you at the present time.

Overcoats, Made-to-Order-from... $30.00 to $48.00

Overcoats, Ready-to-Wear..... $15.00 to $36.00

Success Is a Habit

Our habits make us. We are creatures of habit. Whether we are a success or a failure is a question of how we do things without thinking. To Save is the only way to Success

Gloves

Old Inns in England Recall Catholic Days

Up and down England there still stand quaintly interesting relics of a phase of hospitality, picturesque common in the Catholic days of that country—pilgrims' inns, of which a few hoary examples or vestiges still remain, says the Pilot. The care which was then exercised for social well being under Catholic auspices is recalled by these ancient hostels, which have many interesting associations both in England and in Scotland.

The great bourne of religious pilgrimages in medieval Britain, the Shrine of St. Thomas a Becket at Canterbury, the relics of St. Dunstan at Glastonbury, and others elsewhere, attracted thousands of pilgrims, and were full of guest-houses.

In the pilgrimages to Canterbury, along the Roman road, to visit the Shrine of St. Thomas, the Abbots established hospices, which served an admirable purpose in lonely places where robbers and murderers menaced the traveller. One relic of such a place is found at the Scottish border on the ancient way between Jedburgh and Kelso Abbeys. There exists a place called "Maison Dieu" ("Maison Dieu," French for "God's House," which was a wayside resting place for weary pilgrims.

Between Brecon and Landover, Wales, the hamlet of Lanspydd tells of a refuge for wayfarers having once stood on the same site. Lanspydd means "Hospice Church." Signs of the inn have disappeared, but the Church still remains, wherein travellers gave thanks for their comfort and safety against the night and "wild men."

At St. Albans there still remains the George, one of the pilgrims' inns, possessing an oratory chapel, where long Mass was said for those lodged there. St. Albans contained the shrine of the protomartyr of Britain, the "New Inn" at Gloucester, built some 740 years ago, first constructed in the middle of the fifteenth century by John Twynning, a monk of St. Peter's Abbey, Gloucester, offered accommodations for pilgrims.

The New Inn still retains all its medieval quaintness. Colchester in Essex possessed many hospices, being a halting place in pilgrimages to Walsingham, and there also was the Benedictine Abbey of St. John. Pilgrims to the Shrine of Our Lady of Walsingham found food and rest there. Among the ancient inns there is the Angel.

Canterbury was full of such hospices. Chief among them was the inn that became known later on as the Chequers of the Hope, at the corner of Mercery lane, leading to the Cathedral. Today the appearance of this once noted hospice is modern and commonplace, but the lower part of the walls and the medieval crypt of the pilgrims' period still remain.

The finest of these medieval hotels yet standing in Britain is that now called the George, at Glastonbury—Glastonbury of the Holy Thorn. What is now the George Hotel in Glastonbury was first built in the second half of the fifteenth century by Abbot John Selwood for the rest and succor of pilgrims. It is on record that the pilgrims who resorted to it were offered bed and lodging free for two days, as was the custom in those guest-houses. The medieval stone front and other external walls remain as the hospice was in those far-off years, but the interior is entirely changed.

To Resume Catholic Event

This year will see the resumption of Catholic demonstration in Wigan, England, which was a notable feature of Catholic life there in the days before the war, according to news from Liverpool. This is the great Whit-Monday demonstration, which has been a striking manifestation of the Catholic faith for many years.

Reorganization of Vatican Archives

As is well known, writes a Roman correspondent, Pius IV was responsible for the initiation of the Vatican Archives, while Paul V instituted the Secret Archives in 1611. In 1880 Leo XIII gave permission to scholars all over the world to make use of the Archives for their studies and researches. During recent years several new collections have gone to enrich this already wealthy storehouse of the Vatican.

1895 nine thousand volumes of documents belonging to the Papal chancery were deposited among the Archives; in 1897 the Borgese Archives were added; in 1905 those of the Congregation of Memorials and of His Holiness's Auditor, as well as the most ancient part of the documents of the Consistorial Congregation and of the Pope's mandates, while last year the documents of the Laurentina Congregation were added, and now, in these days, the extremely important collection of the so-called Napoleonic period.

Leo XIII and Pius X provided new premises for the Archives, added a consulting library, arranged for a safer and more convenient housing for the manuscripts, and for a better reading library. The present Pope, Benedict XV, is carrying out new and important improvements, especially among the Archives. At the left of the entrance to the Archives, which is in the road leading to the museum, a new hall is now being adapted for the school of paleography, which Leo XIII instituted with the motu proprio of May 1, 1884. The present entrance to the Archives and the library had been enlarged by throwing down a partition wall. During the improvements some grotesque paintings of the sixteenth century came to light in the ceilings, the Pope of that time, Sixtus V, having desired the entrance to the Vatican printing office to be decorated in that style. The printing office was founded by him. In fact, the entrance hall of the Archives gives access also to the court of the printing office, as it is called, the Vatican printing having been done there until recent times, until Pius X, indeed, had the new building erected near the great door that is called St. Anne's door.

The new hall for the school of paleography, which is immense and full of light, will shortly be open to scholars. The work has been carried out excellently and with a scientific knowledge of the requirements, under the direction of the Cardinal Prefect of the Archives, His Eminence Cardinal Gasquet, who has had the best of assistance from the staff of the Archives.

Respect for Authority Must Be Taught Home

In studying a child we sometimes wonder which is the best virtue to instill into his young mind. He is not able to grasp very much at a time; so by slow degrees we must make progress. Obedience is undoubtedly one of the first requisites. If you have an obedient child you can mold it just as you wish, observes the Echo.

Never tell a child twice what you wish him to do. By gentleness and firmness let him understand that your wish is law, that you in turn are responsible to God for everything that he may do. That no one in the world is free from obedience, and that it is absolutely necessary for children to obey, to have respect for authority in the home, the school, and in the world, to all those whom God has destined to rule. Gain the confidence of the child. Let him know that you have his interest at heart. If it is necessary to refuse some request that he may ask, do so by explaining that for certain reasons the request must be refused at that time, and that perhaps later on you may see your way clear to

When Your Liver Becomes Sluggish Your Bowels Become Constipated.

Constipation is, without a doubt, the commonest of all the ills that mankind is afflicted with, and one if neglected, will cause no end of trouble and sickness. The way to keep yourself in good health is to keep the liver active and working properly by the use of Milburn's Laxative Pills.

Mrs. L. Wainman, Orlita, Cal., writes:—"From a child I was always very badly constipated, and I can well remember, when quite young, my mother giving me some tea nearly every morning to keep me regular." "After taking Milburn's Laxative Pills for a while I am not troubled with constipation any more." "Milburn's Laxative Pills are 25c a box at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont."

NO WOMAN CAN BE STRONG AND WELL WITH WEAK KIDNEYS.

Women try to bear the daily burdens of the household, but the continual toiling, bending, never ending strain in the back, sooner or later, may end in some form of kidney trouble.

When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning that the kidneys are affected in some way, and on the first sign of any weakness Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken, so as to strengthen the kidneys and prevent some future trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills are put up in an "orange" box, your trade mark. "Maple Leaf" price 50c. at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.
