A dance was held by the members of the Aero Tennis Club in St. Patrick's Hall on Thursday evening. The affair was in the nature of a farewell to six of its members: Messrs. Payne, T. A. Brien, L. Hurst, L. A. O'Brien, F. R. Ward, and R. B. LeDrew of the Western Union Cable Company staff, who leave here this week. Dancing started at 10 p.m., and during the evening ice cream and supper were served by the members of the Ladies Committee. Following supper, Mr. A. E. Parsons, chairman of the Committee, made a brief speech, touching on the loss to the Club of those members, and wished them success at their future stations. Mr. F. R. "Affair of Honor."

SLOP PAIL CAUSE OF DUEL CHALLENGE.

LONDON, Eng.—An unexpected slop-pail is rather an exceptional ground for an "affair of Honor," but Dr. Stein, lecturer on Byzantine Art at the University of Vienna, apparently thinks it is sufficient ground for a duel. The Vienna correspondent of the London Times tells the story of Dr. Stein's challenging his landlord, Dr. Werth, a bank manager in Vienna, to mortal combat as the result of a trivial grievance the university professor thought he had against Dr. Werth. Stein was a lodger in Werth's house. He complained of laziness and carelessness on the part of the housekeeper. Her services were bad, he said, and she never emptied the slops. "No gentleman can question that you are responsible for the omissions of your servant," Stein wrote to Werth. "I therefore expect you to take the necessary steps at once. If not, I shall regard it as a deliberate provocation." The landlord replied briefly to the effect that he had not time then to attend to the matter, but would do so later. Thirty hours later he was waited on by two men, who told him that were Dr. Stein's seconds, and informed him that their principal considered himself insulted and demanded satisfaction on the field of honor. As Dr. Werth refused to regard the behavior of his servant sufficient ground for a duel, the two seconds drew up a statement in which they declared that, as Dr. Werth refused satisfaction, the affair was settled on one side only. This meant, according to the duelling code in Austria, that Dr. Werth might be thrashed by his opponent, or was at least incapable of giving satisfaction. Dr. Stein gave expression to his feelings by glaring at the landlord and his wife whenever he met them in the passage. As the household was somewhat upset by the whole matter, Dr. Werth took the fairly natural course of giving his lodger "notice". In Vienna, however, the rights of the tenant are safeguarded by the law, and a landlord cannot eject his tenant without right and proper grounds. The case has been brought into court, and is being tried in proper form, to the general amusement of everybody.

G. O. M. of British Journalism.

CELEBRATED 86th BIRTHDAY.

LONDON, Eng.—Sir John Merry Le Sage, Managing Editor of the Daily Telegraph, is the "Grand Old Man" of British Journalism. He was born at Clifton on April 28, 1837, and on his 86th birthday he was fairly deluged with congratulations, not only from his numerous friends of the Press but in every walk of life. A similar flow of congratulatory messages came to him in 1918, the year he received his knighthood. Beginning his newspaper career with a short provincial experience, Sir John was engaged by the late Lord Buryham when the Daily Telegraph was but eight years old, and under his old chief, and subsequently under the present Lord Buryham, he has ever since played an important part in building up the prosperity of his paper. He was a great organizer of news, and his courage and coolness were equal to any emergency. Le Sage served as a special correspondent in France, Germany, Italy, Russia, Egypt, the United States, and in Canada. He was war correspondent with the German Army in the Franco-Prussian War of 1870. He was in Paris during the whole of the Commune. He was with Lord Wolseley's force in Egypt in 1882. He was acting editor of the Daily Telegraph for many years. Many were Le Sage's journalistic exploits. These included the sending of his paper off the first news of Lord Palmerston's death, and the first news of the entry of the Germans into Paris. It was Le Sage, who, in 1878, first communicated to Lord Derby, then Foreign Secretary, the fact that Lord Beaconsfield had ordered the fleet to the Dardanelles, on which Lord Derby resigned. It was a conversation of Le Sage with the famous explorer Stanley that led to the Stanley expedition across Africa. "Very English in his reserved, rather caustic temperament, with his close-cropped, military looking head, and white moustache, Sir John Merry Le Sage seems the personification of common sense and shrewd judgement," the London Times says. "He has given his long life with unsurpassed devotion to the service of a great newspaper; the welfare of which, as his friends know, is both his dearest wish and his best reward."

Tennis Championships.

FIVE AMERICANS PLAY AT WIMBLEDON.

Five Americans, two women and three men, will compete in the series of British Grass Court Championships which began at Wimbledon, England, yesterday. These do not form an official team, but are competing as individuals. This year, the United States Lawn Tennis Association is concentrating its resources upon a team to defend the Davis Cup, emblematic of the world's team championship. With the exception of Wm. T. Tilden, world's champion, the American quintet now playing at Wimbledon, is the same as last year. The players are Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, Miss Edith Sigourney and Dean Mather, C. C. Caner and H. A. Gore. It is hoped that Suzanne Lenglen, holder of the world's championship in women's singles, will meet Mrs. Mallory during the tournament. She has already beaten the American, but last year, in the States, after being beaten 6-2 in the first set, the French girl collapsed. Last year the Wimbledon championships resulted as follows:
 Men's Singles—Wm. T. Tilden, 2nd.
 Women's Singles—Miss Lenglen.
 Men's Doubles—R. Lycett & M. Woodman.
 Women's Doubles—Miss Lenglen & Miss E. Ryan.

Dried Fish.

These should be days of good cheer in Lunenburg, for no place that we know of is enjoying a greater measure of prosperity than Lunenburg at the present time. In our last issue we said that the second spring trip of the "bank" fleet would probably account for 50,000 quintals of codfish. As a matter of fact we find that it has considerably exceeded that amount, the total being 75,000. This added to the quantity secured on the early spring trip, brings the total to 120,000 qts., a new record for the industry, and equal to about twice the quantity of the average for the last ten years. The fleet are now off to the banks for the long summer trip, and should they be as fortunate as the two previous trips, Lunenburg will have still further cause for rejoicing.
 The chief interest for the moment in the dried fish trade, centres on what the price of the catch just landed is likely to be. The trade are talking $6.50 to $7.00 per quintal, but the fishermen have so far not opened their mouths, though we suspect that $8.00 more closely approximates their idea of value. The trade say that they have lost money on the early spring catch, that the price paid was too high and that they do not wish to repeat their experience. However, as there has been no definite declaration as to the price made by either of the parties interested, we suspect we can afford to let the question stand over for future consideration. The present holdings of fish at Lunenburg are quite large, but on the other hand there is no doubt that foreign markets are fairly able to assimilate them. Porto Rico at the moment is a little draggy owing to excessive receipts, and Cuba, too, is buying lightly as she always does at this season of the year. But the West India situation, speaking broadly, is good. There is no such flood of consignments from Newfoundland reaching there as was the case during the last two or three years, Newfoundland's surplus of old fish was apparently disposed of in Europe, as she is not now invading our West India markets with the violence of previous seasons.
 The news from Europe about dried fish is not bad reading to-day. Markets over there are cleaning up quite well, and it is thought they will be able to absorb such supplies as may be offered from this side of the water during the fall and winter months. The news from Southern Brazil is also good; in fact it can be said that in all dried fish markets the outlook is quite encouraging at the present time.

A test of the new way to beautify teeth

This offer is now made almost the world over. It is published in many languages. Millions of people of many races have thus found a way to fight film on teeth.

All careful people owe themselves this test—all who want teeth whiter, safer, cleaner.

That dingy film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. Feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Your tooth brush used in old ways leaves much of it intact.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Teeth not clean

Film-coated teeth are unclean. That is why so many teeth brushed daily discolor and decay. Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing, and film is the cause of most of them.

Dental science, therefore, has sought ways to fight the film. Two ways have now been found.

Able authorities have proved their efficiency. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in a modern tooth paste—Pepsodent. And millions of people now enjoy its benefits.

Acts in 5 ways

Pepsodent does more than combat film. It also fights starch deposits on teeth and acids.

It multiplies the salivary flow. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling and may otherwise form acids. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

Each use brings five effects which modern authorities regard as essential. It is bringing a new dental era.

One week tells

One week will show you what this new method means. It will change all your ideas on tooth cleaning.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Judge then what is best for you and yours by what you see and feel. Cut out the coupon now.
