The Aldermanic Contests.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

I notice that considerable talk is now being indulged in by the citizens of London and the press, regarding the actions of our present city fathers, and constant fault is being found with their mode of doing business. I consider that the blame does not rest with our aldermen but with those who placed them in office. It has been stated that it is a thankless office, but those who are in office are only too willing to hold on to it for reasons best known to themselves. Now if the public are not satisfied with these aldermen there is only one way out of the difficulty and I will make a suggestion which cannot fail to please every ratepayer in this city if they will honestly do their part to bring a new state of affairs about. It is this: We have recently started in our midsta ascetty of real estate owners who aim at a higher standard of municipal government. Now let this society choose from out of our first business men, those who are heavy ratepayers—men of irreproachable character, educated and intelligent men—say 30 of these men in whom the public have all confidence and who will pledge themselves to support them at the polls in January. Then call a public meeting and place these men before the ratepayers, who will choose sufficient names from out of the 30 proposed and so elect them to office for they car 1594. Some persons are stating that our posed and so elect them to office for they ear 1894. Some persons are stating that cur taxes are not increasing. How about the amount at present? The taxes, if not in-creasing will soon do so, because if deben-
