MONEY TROUBLE NOT YET

Two New York Banks to Withstand the Strain

CLOSE THEIR DOORS

Both Institutions Expected to Pay Their Depositors Full

New York, Jan. 29.—Institutions of New York national and the other will not open their doors tomorrow. The New York national bank, capitalized at $10,000,000, was taken in charge by the state comptroller early in the evening. Mechanics and Traders' Institution, capitalized at $1,000,000, announced shortly before the decision of the directors tomorrow.

Both banks announce to pay all depositors. A state New Amsterdam national bank has liabilities of $4,482, $2,065,273 are due depositors. Bank officers assert, they will every depositor be paid. The stockholders will be paid in full.

Both institutions had been in the hands of the state since the reorganization of the Mechanics and Traders' bank has two branches in New York and ten in other parts of the state. The Mechanics and Traders' bank has two branches in New York and ten in other parts of the state.

When the committee informed the clearing house had no further assistance, although the clearing house holds some six million dollars of collateral of the bank which we owe the $1,500,000, and whereas the bank was absolutely solvent resources in the possession of the bank to continue without aid, and whereas, it is in the interest of the depositors to avoid a liquidation of the bank, the directors have decided to suspend the bank until the earliest possible date.
