The old Viennese Golden Spanferkel—Golden Sucking Pig—exists no more. The pleasant den, with its thick walls and latticed windows, its extraordinary pictures of long-dead Austrian warriors, and its ancient tile stove, will all be swept away in a few weeks' time.

Nothing makes so much noise as a rickety wagon with nothing in it, unless it is a man who insists on talking when he has nothing to say.

A Discourse by Rev. Dr. Corder.

The pulpit of the Church of the Messiah was occupied yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Corder. At the evening service he preached on the recent murders in Dublin. His text was from Prophets and Gospel, "I have heard a voice as of a woman in travail."

For years a feud has existed in Fort Wayne, Ind., between Rev. Dr. Stearns, and Drs. Swearinger and Myers. On Sunday, Stearns preached in the Methodist Church, and Swearinger and Myers occupied a front pew. When Stearns finished he approached Swearinger and exclaimed, "I want you to stop making faces at me!" Swearinger denied the accusation. The excitement in the congregation was intense, but the services were afterwards proceeded with. Yesterday, Swearinger swore out a warrant for Stearns' arrest, charging him with provoking an assault. When the preacher met his accuser in court he dealt him a stinging blow between the eyes. Swearinger fell, and as he arose the pastor hit him again twice. The preacher was then taken away. Swearinger took out another warrant.

It is said that when a Hindoo takes an oath he swears while holding the tail of a cow. In this country men sometimes take hold of cow's tails, but the swearing is done immediately after they let go.

Switzerland has 1,594 miles of railroad, representing over $200,000,000 of capital. These railroads do not pay well; some have paid no interest for years, even to debenture holders. Over 13,000 persons are employed. Accidents are few.

The magnificent lace worn at the Duke of Albany's wedding by the Princess Beatrice has a strange history. Her Royal Highness was, in girlish curiosity, a few years ago turning out an old cabinet in the Queen's apartments, and came on a parcel of extremely old laces.

ROUND THE WORLD.

The Evangelical Ministers' Association of Boston voted that it was "the duty of the republic to educate her future citizens in morals," and to this end a committee was appointed to produce a text book. This task was found difficult, and the committee sought to turn it over to the Secretary of the Massachusetts Board of Education, but he declined to undertake it. The association has now formed a new committee, including a Universalist, a Swedenborgian, a Roman Catholic, and a Hebrew, and a series of books are in preparation.

ROUND THE WORLD.

The purchase of the entire site of the Villa of Hadrian in Rome by the Italian Government some years ago has been followed by systematic excavations, which have converted what was a chaotic mass of ruins and shrubs into a vast area of walls and pavements, in which the ground plans of the original design may be distinctly traced. In the present system of excavation at Rome the whole of the earth is removed, instead of being turned over and over in quest of sculptures, as was the practice of archaeologists in the last century, when the great object of an excavation was to make it pay commercially by the sale of what was found.

ROUND THE WORLD.

Clifford Lloyd, the famous, had been over in London, and visiting the House of Commons. He has not, it seems, made a good impression on John Bright, who is said to have reported strongly against the return of B. M. to his post. A comical incident is stated to have occurred on his visit to the House. One of the members, rather fond of jokes, circulated a report in the House that Marwood, the national hangman, was in the lobby, and in a few seconds the place was crowded. It was only after Mr. Lloyd had been heartily stared at for five or ten minutes that he escaped to the Tea Room in Mr. Bright's company.

John Durgin, who calls himself Grand Master of the Orangemen of Massachusetts, states that the letter read at the Irish indignation meeting in Boston last Tuesday purporting to represent the feeling of the Orangemen in the struggle to free Ireland was wholly without the authority of the Grand Lodge. He says Orangemen are peaceful, law-abiding citizens of this country, and have no sympathy whatever with revolutionary tactics.

ROUND THE WORLD.

H. D. Miller states that he appeared at the Irish indignation meeting in Boston as the accredited representative of the Orange Order. He says there is no such thing as the Orange Order of Massachusetts, which Durgin claims to be the head of. The Orange Order is an Order of Great Britain and Ireland, and an Orange case is the same time, citizen and an Orangeman at the same time.
