

primitive lives and lacked the technical resources necessary to make the land yield in its richness. It remained for man to begin to improve the land, in the beginning of modern Canadian history, to tap the treasures hidden in the soil.
Forest and rock of Canada; to take up the tremendous challenge of the Canadian land; to overcome its vast geographic barriers; to open its distant opportunities and the challenge yet remains.

1914