THE BANK ROBBERY

It is the Only Topic of Conversation in Banking Circles, and is a Puzzle to Police, Bank Officials and Every-body Else—All the Theorizers are Nonplussed—Bank Men Decline to Talk—What Greer Thinks.

The big bank robbery in Winnipeg was the one topic of conversation in banking circles in the city yesterday. Like part of the swag got by the Napanee bank robbers, the notes taken are what are called "reserve fund," being kept in the treasury department, and not handled by the teller at all.

An order has been issued from the head office of the Missouri Bank to all its branches to take the numbers of the bills in their possession. By this means a list of the missing notes can be got. But it will take time, and very likely the whole swag will be circulated before the missing numbers are ascertained.

A Capable Manager. Mr. T. B. Phepoe, manager of the robbed bank, was manager of the Toronto Junction branch a few years ago. He is spoken of in the highest terms, and his transfer to Winnipeg was a tribute to his abilities.

No notification of the robbery has as yet been received by the local managers, but as members of the Bankers' Association they are bound to do all in their power to trace the missing notes, and the $25,000 in clearing house certificates will doubtless be torn up, as they are large notes and never used except in business relations among banks. For a man to present a note of $100 or $10,000 would be to arouse instant suspicion. Of the $37,000 there is little hope of recovery.

ALL IS MYSTERY. Bank Officials, Police and Every-body Else at Sea—No Explainable Theory.

Winnipeg, Oct. 6.—Interesting developments in the Missouri Bank robbery were expected this morning by the hundreds of citizens who have been startled by the magnitude of the affair and lost in the mystery that surrounds it. These have not been forthcoming, however, and the public remains as much in the dark as before.

The public are not the only persons mystified, but the bank officials and the police working on the case are entirely at sea. No theory seems capable of explaining as to how anyone could have gained admission to the well-guarded treasury, let alone carry off its entire contents. An effort is being made to get the numbers of all the notes of the Missouri Bank that are in circulation, in the hope of ascertaining the sums of stolen bills, as such information will be of great assistance in tracing them.

The money was in the treasury on Wednesday, Sept. 28. At least, when the treasury was opened that afternoon the clerks saw that the money was intact as to its bulk, although they did not count it. Tuesday afternoon last the treasury was opened for the purpose of making a deposit, and the compartment was found to be empty.

Five Combinations. To open the compartment five combinations had to be known, and a key possessed. Moreover, two men were in the bank at night, for the express purpose of guarding the money. The lock combination and the vault itself presented no signs of having been forced in any manner, and whoever committed the robbery must have known the combinations.

Chief Constable McEneaney was immediately notified. Each member of the bank staff was carefully questioned, and each firmly protested that he knew absolutely nothing of the crime. It seems almost impossible that the bank employees could have been concerned in the robbery, for there were five combinations to be mastered, and none of the employees knew more than one combination.

Inside Door Double Locked. Besides the five combination locks, one key lock has to be opened to enter the treasury. The final door opening into the compartment has two combination locks. The men are required to open this door. One of the combinations is supposed to be known only to the bank manager, and the other to the accountant, or, in the absence of either, to some one appointed by the manager.

Since Sept. 12 two clerks have slept in the bank every night. It is said that this is in consequence of a warning received by Manager Phepoe from a well-known private detective, that an attempt would be made to rob the bank. The man mentioned by the detectives was at that time in jail, and it would be impossible for him to be concerned in the present robbery.

Manager T. B. Phepoe left on a shooting trip on Tuesday, but was recalled and came back to Winnipeg Wednesday night. Mr. E. McBeth, accountant, was sitting manager in his absence.

Mr. McBeth Seen. When Mr. McBeth was seen yesterday morning at the bank he would answer no questions. Being asked whether there had been any plumbers at work in the building he said that one well-known plumber had been there fixing the sanitary apparatus, but that he (Mr. McBeth) saw him come in, saw him while he was working, and saw him depart, the whole time he was there being only a few minutes.

Further enquiries elicited nothing. Mr. McBeth referring the interviewer to the general manager. Mr. Nelson, the teller, courteously but firmly refused to make any statement or answer any questions.

No Arrests Made. No arrests have yet been made in connection with the robbery and the mystery is yet unsolved. When Manager Phepoe returned Wednesday night a meeting of all persons connected with the bank was held upon his arrival, but investigation revealed nothing. Inspector Corning and the detectives are at work. The money taken would nearly fill a bushel basket.

WINNIPEG

Ontario Detective Believes Someone Inside the Bank Must Know About It.

The Crown is still busy hunting retroual evidence in the Napanee bank robbery case. Detective Greer returned yesterday from Napanee, where he has been busily engaged since the examination in August, to arrange a little shooting party by way of recreation.

When seen last night by The World he stated that there were no new developments in the case. He still clings to his old theory that the safe was cracked by an inside man.

"Pare tells a straight story and a true one, which I have proven by investigation. The only trouble is will a jury believe him and place enough confidence in his evidence to convict?"

"Has Ponton as many friends as ever?" "Just as many. The strong feeling against the American detectives causes a revulsion of sentiment in Ponton's favor."

How do the prisoners stand their imprisonment? "Mackie frets about his ball a great deal, but otherwise they seem to be all right. All are in good health. I saw Ponton yesterday. He seems in good health and spirits. He will not talk about this case, but leaves everything to Porter."

What do you think of this Winnipeg affair? "Well, I don't know enough about it to form a positive theory, but I should judge from what I have read that it is a parallel of the Napanee business. (The bank was robbed in broad daylight by some one in the bank. It may have been taken in parts at different times between the 20th and the discovery. Again a sneak thief might have entered and secured the money when the vault doors were all unlocked. Of course this would depend upon the position of the vault. At any rate if the money was taken when the vault was locked it was by, or by the aid of, some one in the bank for no stranger could work the combination without having knowledge of the numbers on which they turn. These bank robberies are funny things, but the perpetrator is generally caught."

SHE HAD BEEN MARRIED TWICE. But the Judge Was Lenient and She Only Got Three Weeks.

Cornwall, Ont., Oct. 6.—(Special.)—A case of bigamy was tried here today before Judge Pringle. The accused was Mary, the wife of Patrick Laughlin, who was married to John Trickey on June 9, 1897, at St. Andrew's, Lancaster, by the Rev. C. E. Gordon Smith. She represented herself as a widow.

She was married to Laughlin in Cornwall in 1874. It appeared that Laughlin left his wife (the accused) some seven years ago, and the prisoner declared that she believed him to be dead, not having heard directly from him since that time, but evidence was adduced showing that letters addressed to her, in care of a third party, were returned to her since that time, and that she had returned last autumn he found his wife another man's bride.

The judge took a lenient view of her case, and, finding her guilty, imposed a sentence of three weeks in jail.

Geologist Tyrrell Gives a Good Report of the Klondike Region. Vancouver, Oct. 6.—(Special.)—J. B. Tyrrell, Dominion Geologist, sent in by the Canadian Government to report on the Klondike country, arrived by the Manneville today. He says the report to the Government will be that the country is very rich in gold, and that it is a matter of time before the output next year will be double that of this. There is no more gold, as is popularly supposed. Ages ago the country was full of quartz ledges. Gold has filtered out of the rocks and been concentrated in the creeks and valleys. And now there is no gold left in the rocks.

DR. R. T. CORBETT KILLED

Struck on the Head by an Engine at Duck Harbor.

Stepped Out of the Front of an East-bound Train in Way of an Approaching Westbound Freight—Married Only a Few Months Ago.

Port Hope, Ont., Oct. 6.—Dr. R. T. Corbett and Mr. Hector Read went to Duck Harbor this afternoon in a buggy on a hunting expedition. From what has been learned it appears that the doctor had stepped out of the south side of the embankment, while an east-bound freight train passed. After the train had gone he stepped on the track, not noticing a freight train coming from the east. The engine struck him on the head, when he gained the track, killing him instantly. The train was only a few months since the doctor was married to Miss Maud Mackie.

Winnipeg, Oct. 6.—On the Canadian Pacific at Indian Head, on Monday afternoon, members of the bridge gang at work at the bridge were unable to flag an approaching west-bound freight in time to stop the train before reaching the bridge. The bridge being on a grade, the trainmen were unable to check the speed. The engine and several cars left the track, the tender being forced over the engine, while the rear end was telescoped into a car loaded with flour from Winnipeg. One man was killed in the wreck. The name of the victim is McKnight, and he was employed as a wiper in the company's yards at Brownville.

Further Details Regarding the Runaway of the Queen's Horses at Balmoral—Members of the Royal Party Smiled as They Drove Home After the Adventure—Grenadier Guards Return From Egypt—Cable News.

New York, Oct. 6.—The Journal prints the following special despatch from Balmoral, giving a full account of the runaway accident, which might have terminated fatally the career of England's beloved Sovereign: Balmoral, Scotland, Oct. 5.—Great Britain and her dependencies very nearly lost a monarch on Monday, when a pair of fringed and carriage horses tore along the high way near this place, completely beyond the driver's control, with the Royal barouche rocking from side to side at their heels.

In the back seat were the aged Queen and her favorite daughter, the Dowager Empress of Germany. Facing them was Princess Adolphe of Schaumburg-Lippe. All three Royal women behaved with great composure. When the horses first bolted Queen Victoria uttered a few words which probably did not hear, as he was bent forward in a vain attempt to secure a better grip of the reins.

Pedestrians who saw the runaway barouche, with the well-known scarlet livery on the box, sweep along the road, observed that Her Majesty and her daughter sat upright, looking to the front, as calmly as though they were jogging through a park. Row. Mother and daughter had clasped hands—that was all.

All at once the horses swerved aside into the woods, imminent as the peril of a wreck had been on the road, it was doubly imminent now. Would-be rescuers in the wake of the carriage expected every instant to see it dashed against a tree, but by a marvellous piece of good fortune the horses sped between two great oak trees, whose distance apart was nearly the width of the barouche, that the vehicle was jammed there immovably, and the traces broke.

Queen Victoria and her guests were severely shaken, but that was the extent of the harm they suffered, and it did not prevent them from smiling at their adventure as they drove home in a pony carriage amid the cheers of the villagers.

KANG TELLS HIS STORY. Urges the British Government to Take Prompt Action to Save the Emperor.

London, Oct. 7.—The Hong Kong correspondent of The Times telegraphs the substance of a long interview he has had with Kang Yu Wol, the Chinese Reformer, in which the latter recounted his story of the arrest. Kang Yu Wol said that on June 16 he had a two hour's audience with the Emperor, who, anxious about the Russian encroachments, was ready to listen to any plan to secure the integrity of the empire. The Times' correspondent continues: "Kang advised replacing the conservative ministers by young, progressives and the employment of Englishmen and Americans to effect suggested reforms. He advised the Emperor to study the progress of Japan and Western methods. The Emperor admitted the cogency of his arguments, but expressed his regret at being unable to remove high officials, because of the Emperor's position as a monarch."

Illegal Son May Be Emperor. "Kang" then urged His Majesty to strengthen his friendships with foreign powers and particularly to seek an alliance with England. The Emperor said he realized that foreign countries were no longer insignificant states and observed that it was a pity that his ministers had not averted the impending trouble. "Kang" said that a sham emperor, and that the Emperor's illegitimate son, Chun-Ming will probably be made Emperor.

In the morning of Sept. 18, Kang received the letters from the Emperor, dated respectively Sept. 16 and Sept. 17. The first represented the difficulties of his position, the Emperor Dowager's anger and his fears that he would be unable to protect his throne and commanded Kang to consult with his colleagues as to how to save the Emperor.

Could Not Describe His Sorrow. In the second letter His Majesty said: "I have commanded you to superintend the establishment of an official organ. It is strongly against my wish. I have great sorrow, which I cannot describe with ink and pen. You must proceed immediately outside to devise means to save me without a moment's delay."

The letter concluded with an expression of gratitude for Kang's faithfulness, warning him to take care of himself, and an expression of hope that matters would mend ere long. Kang promptly visited the American missionary, the Rev. Timothy Richard, whom he asked to call upon the British and American Legations, Sir Claude Macdonald (British Minister) was at Pol-Tai-So, and the American Minister (Mr. Conger) was at Si-Shaw. Ominous rumors were in circulation that day, and Kang G. He was astonished that England protected him, and he urges the British Government to take prompt action to save the Emperor."

DOWAGER IN COMMAND. The Restoration of Retrograde Regency is Complete.

London, Oct. 7.—The Pekin correspondent of The Times, telegraphing on Tuesday, says: The restoration of the regency is complete. The Empress Dowager receives the Cabinet daily, seated beside the Emperor openly and not, as formerly, behind a screen. The Government is more retrograde and reactionary. Yung Lu, one of his trusted friends, succeeds the late Princess Kung as the chief manchu, while the viceroy of the Province of Chi Le is a manchu. Nevertheless, despite assertions to the contrary, the balance of power between the Chinese and Manchus in high office is unaltered in the Central Government, though there is a small proportional increase of manchus in principal posts.

The Tsung Li Yamen contains no member cognisant of foreign affairs. Its chief working member is Hsu-Yung-Ji, the negotiator of the Gerard convention of 1895, who was subsequently removed from the Tsung-Li-Yamen at the instance of Sir Nicholas O'Connor (then British Minister in China) for breach of faith, but who was re-appointed last month. He says his chief colleague will be Hsu Ching Cheng, former minister to Russia, and now director of the trans-Manchurian Railway, who long received Russian financial assistance.

The Russians welcome the change as increasing their influence. The immediate exciting cause of the change was the impending edict, ordering officials to abolish the queue and to adopt foreign dress. A search of the house of Kang Yu Wol, the reformer, resulted in the discovery of papers proving that he was carrying on a correspondence with the leaders of the anti-Dynastic movement in Southern China.
