Haverly's Minstrels Will Inaugurate the Season on Thursday Night Next.

The theatrical season opens on Thursday next, when the Grand Opera House arries one back to the good old days of instrelsy. With the company is a con showing a moonlight scene on the bank of a river, with a negro cabin. During the last scene, Eddie Leonard and other artists dance and sing songs in the good old southern darky fashion.

The Grand opens a season which will be an eventful one in the history of the stage in this city. All the leading high-class attractions traveling under the banner of the Independent Syndicate will be seen at the Grand, including Mrs. Fiske, in "Mary of Magdala"; James K. Hackett, in his new play; Martin Harvey, in a new play; Henrietta Crosman; Isabel Irring, "The Show Girl"; James H. Stoddart, in "The Bonnie Brier Bush"; "York State Folks" and many others that have prominent places in the theatrical world. The Grand has been redecorated during the summer months, and everything is in readiness for the opening. The popular playbouse has always been a favorite with Toronto theatre-goers, and the success which attended it during the passon.

New Toronto Opens Next Month.
The work on the Toronto Opera House is being quickly brought to a finish, under the supervision of Architect Waiter Painter. An effort was made to have the house ready for the opening of the Fair, but this has been found impossible. Manager Small is confident that everything will be ready for a grand opening early next month. The new house will be the largest in the city, and will be in all respects an up-to-date theatre.

At the Princess.

At the Princess.

The season at the Princess Theatre opens on Monday evening, Aug. 31, with the Primose and Dockstader minstrels. One of the biggest theatrical treats of a long time will be offered during the week of bet. 5, in the appearance of the English ector, Forbes Robertson, and Gertrude Eliott, in a strong dramatization of Kiping's "The Light That Failed." Many other tar attractions will also be seen
