HANDSOME WINDOW

There are two supreme attractions in | Unique Piece of Workmanship-R. Lewis, of This City, the Maker and Col. F. B. Leys, M. P. P., the Buyer,

> A masterly piece of workmanship in the shape of a hall window, was on exhibition this morning in the window of R. Lewis' stained glass store on Richmond street, and attracted the attention of every pedestrian. The wincommissioned by Col. F. B. Leys to execute the same for his residence in South London. It was designed by Mr. Walter E. Morgan, from the painting entitled "Echo," by E. Brisson, who has a continental reputation in Europe. It represents a lady standing, with her of the voice of one whom she loves. The window is built on a picturesque base, and has an ornamental top, all of opalescent glass. The production is considered by all who have seen it to be the best ever turned out in this part of the country, and the makers of it are to be congratulated on the excellency of the workmanship.

The White Palace. A model tea store has been opened up at 2061/2 Dundas street by Mr. A. W. Rowland, an enterprising and energetic business man, and will be known as the "White Palace." The term is in no measure misapplied. The artistic arrangement of goods is at once a striking feature. The window contains fine samples of the beautiful goods to be found inside this establishment. There are two departments, one for bonbons and the other for teas. This latter is a cosy and homelike large parlor, curtained off, where cups of the celebrated Ceylon teas are served to the ladies. Among the leading lines are the Silver Blend Ceylon, Pure Ceylon, and Melagama, a blend of Ceylon and Himalayan teas. There are also Assams and Indians in great variety. The celebrated Arabian Sunset contains a beautiful silver tea service, ly. which stands out prominently among the silver blends. From the standcompared with 3,232,103,820 visited by thousands. > Deputation Coming From Conneaut-Several Interesting Matters Dealt With by the Fair Board.

This was Farmers' Day at the Western Fair. Old Probs was again kind, and the day was an ideal one for the yeomen's annual fete, which the sturdy tillers of the soil look forward to with delightful anticipation. Farmers' Day usually captures the crowd, and today was no exception to the rule. Under able conveyance was brought into play to carry the people to the grounds.

The railway traffic was nearly dou-cinity sent about 2,000 representatives, while St. Thomas contributed 600 more. A Grand Trunk official said that all records were easily broken today.

The street railway company kept a big procession of cars on the Dundas street line all day. Before the rush had well set in they had 63 cars and many trailers at work between Richmond street and the fair grounds.

Later all available cars, including even the antediluvian horse affairs, were added to the number. Chairman Taylor, of the main building, was satisfied this afternon that the attendance today was larger than on the corresponding day last year by several thousands. The grounds were thronged long before noon, the crush at the ticket offices beginning about 10 o'clock, and continuing on into the afternoon almost without intermission.

COMING FROM CONNEAUT, OHIO. The fame of the Western Fair is far reaching. Our American cousins of Conneaut, Ohio, on the south shores of every department, the use of only the Lake Erie, are interested in the big choicest materials, and the employment exhibition, and Mr. C. For 50 years they have been supplying the farmers of this country with high-grade farm implements, and their many patrons who visit the Western Fair appear to take great pleasure in congratulating the firm's representatives upon the event. Everything that goes to the building of a high grade carriage is shown in James Cowan & Co.'s splendid exhibit in the transportation building. The display embodies all that is newest and most beautiful in carriage and cutter bodies and carriage tops. The unexcelled quality of the raw material used, as shown in the hubs, spokes, ribs and wheels, is apparent at a glance, and the closest inspection reveals not the slightest flaw. All the latest and most improved gearings are shown. The ironwork and the goods for trimming show an endless variety of styles, including all the best and most serviceable goods. An interesting and important feature of the exhibit is that all the bent wood goods are manufactured by Cowan & Co. at their own factory. The uniform superiority of

FRENCH MISTAKE

British Opinion of the Fashoda Occupation.

In regard to the report that the French forces under Major Marchand have taken possession of Fashoda, on the Nile, Alfred Arnold, a member of the British Parliament, who is in Chicago, says: "I do not believe France will risk the chance of a shot in the Channel for Fashoda. I do not look for any trouble over this matter, because I do not believe France has any intention of claiming sovereignty over it. The commission which sat in Paris early in the year decided that the entire valley of the Nile was to be subject to English rule. If the report is true, it probably will be found that the French military commander was in ignorance of the findings of the commission, and that as soon as he under-

His election causes great rejoicing among the Liberals, and is especially noteworthy because the Unionists in the district supported him, that party's local chairman writing a letter declaring that as the home rule scheme, which caused the Unionists to join with the Conservatives, is now dead and buried dissenters should return to the original party lines. The election is considered by many as an entering wedge between the Liberal-Unionists and the Conservatives, which alliance has kept the latter in power practically since Gladstone's retirement.
