REVENGE FOR SHOOTING

Postmaster Morgan of New York Struck Down in Street by Insane Man Who Had Grievance.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Postmaster Edward M. Morgan of this city was shot down in the street as he was leaving his house in West 146th-street for the postoffice this morning, by Eric H. B. Mackey, a stenographer employed by a down-town law firm, who then shot and instantly killed him.

The only excuse known for the shooting was that Mackey had complained to the authorities at the postoffice in Washington that his mail had been tampered with and that someone turned out an electric light when he was reading by it in the corridor of the postoffice. Mackey had received a reply that there was no evidence of tampering with his mail and that the incident of the electric light was an accident. Mackey's employer, the firm of Hunt, Hill & Betts, declared they could account for the tragedy only on the theory that Mackey was insane. Besides a revolver it was found that Mackey carried a dagger and a slungshot. Mackey was an Englishman, 31 years old, who formerly was employed in Boston.

Little Daughter Saw Shooting.
The shooting took place in the presence of Miss Dorothy Morgan, the 14-year-old daughter of the postmaster, who was accompanying him to the subway station on her way to school. When Mr. Morgan and Mackey left their home and walked toward Broadway Mackey turned down the side street and met them. Mr. Morgan asked: "Are you Postmaster Morgan?" At Morgan's affirmative reply, Mackey drew his revolver and fired one shot into the postmaster's abdomen. The wounded man fell to the sidewalk, and Mackey fired another bullet crashing thru his head and another into his heart.

Mr. Morgan was carried into his own home, physicians were hastily summoned, and it was found that the bullet had merely passed thru the fleshy portion of the abdomen for eight inches, inflicting a superficial wound.

Had Called at House.
Mr. Morgan said that he was resting easily and there was no cause for alarm. He declared that he did not know Mackey and never saw him before the shooting. It was learned that Mackey had called at Morgan's home three times during the past ten days during his absence.

Mackey left a letter in his rooms in which he declared that his act was "the last protest of a poor man against the custom of never enforcing laws against prominent or wealthy people."

GAS EXPLOSION KILLS JANITOR

George Frost Burned to a Crisp in Attempt to Locate Leak in Main in Cellar of Home.

Crawling under the floor of his house in Deer Park yesterday afternoon in search of a leak in a gas pipe, George Frost, 66 years of age, and janitor of Upper Canada College for 38 years, lit a match and was instantly killed by the explosion which followed. His body was burned to a crisp.

His daughter, Mrs. Georgina Mann, who was in the house, crawled to the aid of her father. She found him dead and his body in flames, but could not get him out of the hole, tho she burned her hands in the attempt. Her half was also badly singed. The charred remains were not recovered till the firemen arrived.

The house is a large two-story square frame structure, standing on Baker-avenue. Mr. Frost built it himself in his spare time, and had only moved in last May with the daughter and a little adopted child, Rita Frost. The cellar had been excavated only where the furnace stood, while the gas pipe was beneath the front part of the house, where the floor was only a couple of feet above the ground.

FLOWER SHOW FORMALLY OPEN

Hon. J. M. Gibson, New Lieutenant-Governor, Makes First Appearance at Public Function.

Five years of the Flower, Fruit and Honey Show has not dimmed its beauty nor abated its vigor. The exquisite display in St. Lawrence Market last night was a revelation even to those who have been familiar with the splendid exhibitions of previous years.

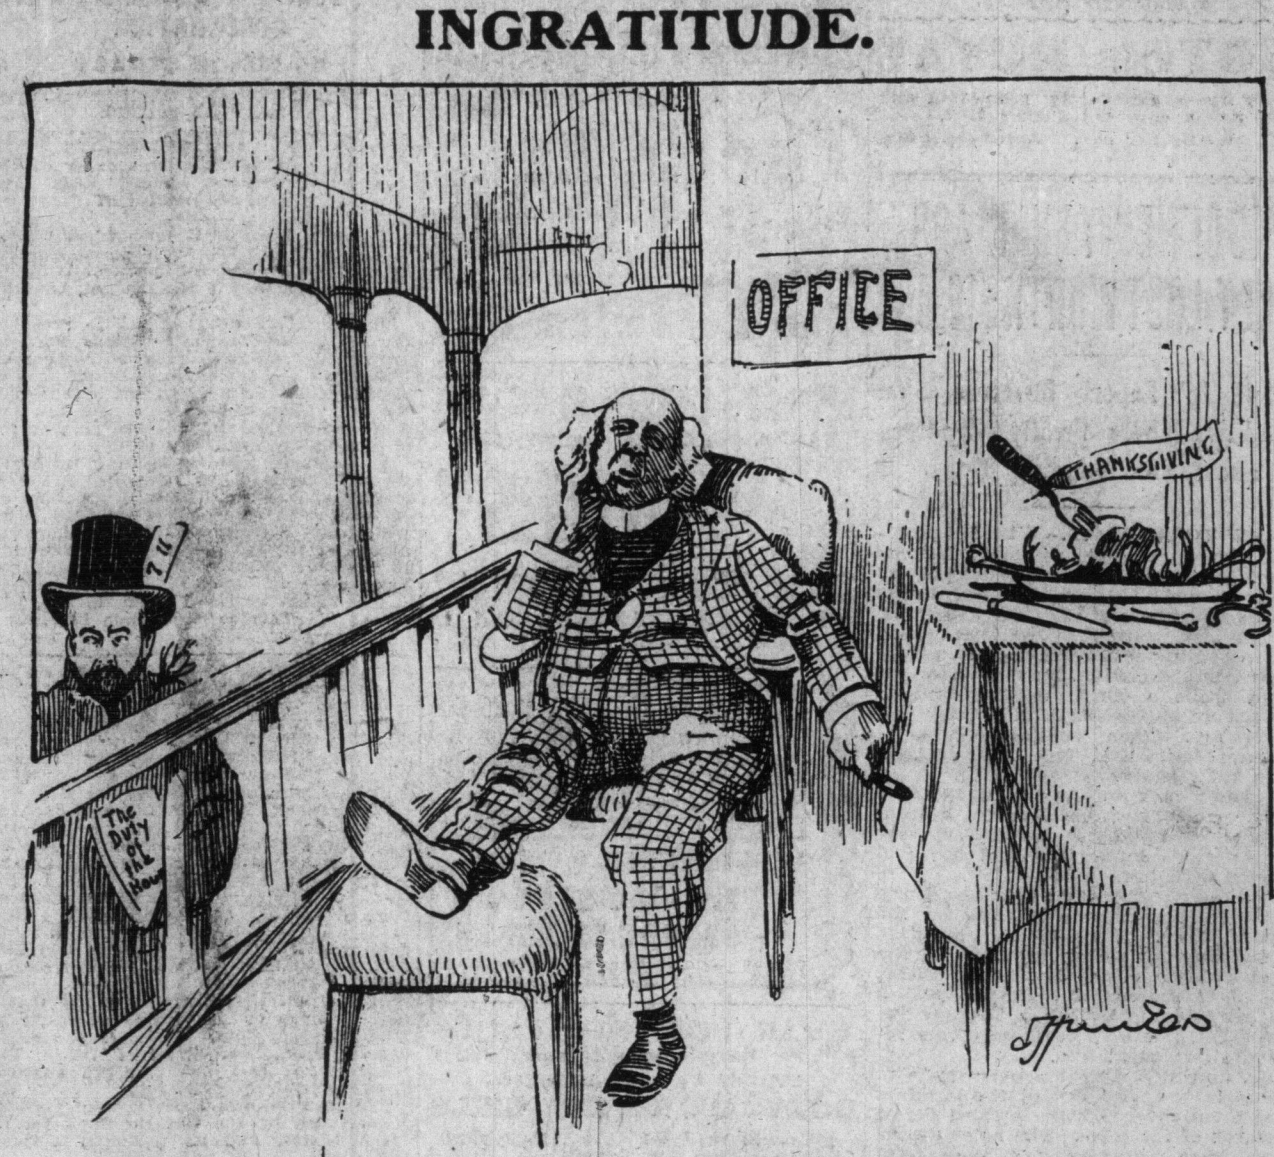

The arrangement and fitting up of the great wide space of the market hall was very charmingly designed, and the effect of separate booths and bowers of flowers and fruit was sufficiently like an admirable piece of landscape gardening to appear to add to the size of the hall, without creating an impression of confusion or overdone elaboration. The entrance, with its white pillars and corniced lights, invitingly prepares the way to the charms beyond, and the vistas of palms and ferns and mosses, of chrysanthemums and orchids, and the endless tables of fruits and vegetables, in their most brilliant and harmonious tints, with stacks of honey, furnish a rare and resistless enchantment.

NEW SILVER CITY IN ONTARIO'S NORTHLAND

Prospectors Crowd Hotels in Rush to Eldorado Up Montreal River—City That Rose in a Night.

ELK CITY, Montreal River, Nov. 9.—(Special Staff Correspondence.)—Far up the river the lights of Elk City twinkled like a setting of brilliants in the dark green foliage of the northern wilderness. Elk City was waiting, waiting patiently on Wednesday night for news of the United States elections, and for some glimpse of intelligence from the outside world.

As the little steamer nosed up to the dock in this newest silver city, The World man stepped ashore and was immediately surrounded by a crowd which fired questions of varied import at him.

"Who was elected in the United States?" asked a man who looked as if he might be a mining engineer. "Taft," replied The World representative. "Good," came from a dozen throats. "How did New York State go?"

The newspaper man could not answer this, for the wire service at Latchford had not enlightened us much. Elk City, therefore, had to wait another day to find out more about it, for the little silver city far up the Montreal River has no telegraphic or telephone communication with the world outside.

A trip up the Montreal River in November, when the ice is forming and a snow blizzard driving across the water is a rough but exhilarating experience. "It is amusing, too, and to illustrate I will tell about Bromley, a well-up in Gowangand, they call him 'Bill,' and some people call him 'Lucky Bill.' Bill sat beside me as we steamed up the second stretch west of the Pork Rapids Portage. I had been told that Bill had a roll that would choke a horse, and I wanted to hear him tell about it.

"Yes," he said, "I have some change now. Last season I made a strike out in James. I was walking along, prospecting closely the face of a hill. I kicked some moss off a stone and there it was shining native silver. I nearly had a fit."

"Well," said Bill, as he squirted a mouthful of tobacco juice thru the gangway, "I needed money, and had to sell. A New York man was nosing around the Grand View and we got together. He saw the strike, and, to make a long story short, paid $50,000 into the bank at Latchford to close the deal."

Again Bill was silent and I waited. "And what do you think," he said, "that fellow said? 'Bill, come over to the hotel and we will pull a cork.' He brought out a bottle of champagne from his grip and opened 'er up. I'd never tasted that stuff, and when I tasted it I spit it out. "I don't want that stuff," sez I; I want booze."

VICTORIEN SARDOU, French Dramatist, who died in Paris on Sunday.
