They arrive in Toronto on June 15, when at a public meeting in the evening at which Her Excellency the Countess of Aberdeen will preside, greetings will be presented from all the countries represented in the International Council of Women. The next evening the mayor will hold a reception for them.

Sessions will be held in nine halls simultaneously, the sections being art, education, health and physical training, industrial matters, laws concerning women and children, literature, philanthropy, professions for women, and social work and reform.

A coroner's jury last evening found that the youth "came to his death from a gunshot wound" at the hands of the accused. This afternoon Magistrate Clement committed him for trial at the next assizes at Cornwall.

She said that her husband and other members of the family were in bed when about a quarter to nine, all being in the dark, there were sounds of stones striking against the roof of the house. Her husband picked up a shotgun that was in the house and, sticking the muzzle thru a pane of glass, fired one shot to strike away the men and boys, who were bothering the family. ## SILENT MAN OF MYSTERY LEADING FIGURE IN TURKEY

Gen. Scheffek Has Amazed Observers by His Skill in Recent Unpleasantness.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 19.—Mehmed Scheffek Pasha, commander of the Turkish constitutional forces, both land and sea, is the man most frequently in the thoughts of those observing or dealing with the confused politics of the day in Turkey. He is the one quiet figure upon whom rests the preservation of order, and the civil branches of the government look to him to impose their influence upon the empire and to deal promptly with persons or factions dangerous to the state.

The skill and celerity with which Gen. Scheffek brought the third army corps and part of the Constantinople army corps to Constantinople and occupied the capital has amazed the foreign military world. Besides those attached to the embassies, seven officers came from Germany and five British officers from Egypt to observe the development of the campaign. They have not ceased to discuss the details of the constitutional commander's arrangements.

General Scheffek has been something of a man of mystery, and his impression he has been taking trouble in recent days to remove. He has called in succession the minister in Constantinople and the Turkish subject holding high positions in the army and the relation of the army to the government, possibly with the idea of checking the spreading notion that he is a virtually dictator and that he and parliament are near to a rupture.

Speaking on this subject to-day, Gen. Scheffek said: "The army is merely an instrument. I am an officer in it, derive my authority from the constitution, and I am bound to establish order from the national point of view. The army is a finger of parliament only, and works under the will of the cabinet."

The general had an hour's talk with Hilmi Pasha, the grand vizier, yesterday, at the conclusion of which he said: "The grand vizier and I are in perfect accord."

Later in conversation he said: "We have obstacles to overcome in our progress towards free and stable institutions. We have hope that we will rise above them."

The disorders in Adana Province, Gen. Scheffek said, were in process of solution. The court-martial there could be trusted to make a thorough investigation and to mete out punishment for the guilty. The agitation in the fourth army corps at the present time has been a result of the cessation of the mutineers and deserters having been arrested. In conclusion, Gen. Scheffek said: "We desire very much to have the good will, sympathy and moral support of the Americans in the present movement towards better government."

Silent, But a Good Worker.

Gen. Scheffek's whole day, from 9 o'clock in the morning is alloted to military business. He is a tall, wide shouldered man, with a serious expression, and a keen eye. He is a man of extreme composure; only his eyes shine like those of an enthusiast.

"Some of the members of the committee," said Rauf Bey, one of three who represented the Young Turk committee in the navy, "before the advance on Constantinople doubted whether Gen. Scheffek was a man for the work ahead. He was so still, so tranquil, so silent, but what a man he is; what energy; what intellect, what disinterested motives, to him the cause is everything; he thinks nothing of himself."

FORMER TORONTOIAN WAS MAYOR OF SPOKANE.

SPOKANE, Wash., May 19.—C.
