Russian Victory for First Day Liaoyang Battle a Death Clutch

Second Day of Bloodshed Sees Victory for Neither Side —Japs Develop Flanking Movement on Russian Right —Firing Line of Little Fel- lows Extends Seven Miles— Lack of News Significant— Total Losses Estimated at 10,000 on Each Side.

Fighting at Liaoyang continued all day yesterday apparently without decisive result. The Japanese again attacked General Kurapatkin's positions on three sides, and if Russian accounts are correct no impression was made on his line of defence. No definite account of yesterday's battle has, however, been received. The capture of 46 Japanese guns in Tuesday's action seems to have had a basis in fact. There are indications that the Japanese are again developing a flanking movement on the Russian right which, if successful, would compel the Russians to change their front in a direction parallel with their line of retreat. This might explain the curiously worded message that Kurapatkin had "effected an advance southward." It is evident, however, that the Russians are now making a much better stand and that the level country in which the armies are now operating suits them better than the hilly tract over which they have just passed. The firing line extended seven miles, and the 400,000 engaged, the desperateness of the assaults, and the length of the line, the losses in the two days' fighting cannot fall short of 10,000 on each side.

BEGAN AT DAWN.

Liaoyang, Aug. 31.—The second day's battle commenced at dawn. The Russians made repeated bayonet charges on the road directly south of Liaoyang, where the Japanese approached from Sanquishan and Tao, shelling the positions in the Russian lines until 4 in the afternoon, when the engagement, which was general throughout the south and southeast, narrowed to the main line. The Japanese advance on the southeast was by way of the Fang-wang-cheng road. Immediately in front of Chiao-fan-tai the Japanese subsequently attempted to occupy a round-top hill, which was literally shelled by Russian shells, making repeated attempts the entire day, where apparently it was impossible for anything to live. The cannonading continued from this point to the vicinity of Wang-pai-tai until evening with out apparent advantage to either side. Japanese dropped shells within two or three miles of the railroad station and in the thickness of the Russian lines, which is the most important eminence around Liaoyang, but the Japanese abandoned their advance there. There was cannon fire last night, and this is expected tonight. The casualties here include one Russian war correspondent and 25 Chinese women from Chiao-fan-tai. The distinguished missionary, Dr. G. G. Morrison, is caring for in the Chinese Red Cross refuge. The day's developments seem to show that the Russians are prepared for all emergencies. Rain began to fall in the afternoon, gradually transforming the plain into a wilderness, through which the wounded, in carts and walking, were being made their way to the hospitals. Considering the scale of the day's operations, the number of the wounded is apparently small, while the Japanese losses are believed to be great, especially where they were pinned on the southeast. Chinese graves with trees are being leveled about Liaoyang in order not to interfere with the east and west. Developments are expected west and northeast.

JAPS USE BALLOONS.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 1.—The Japanese are using balloons to locate the Russian guns and trenches. One of the Russian correspondents, who has been sent up a balloon shortly after daylight to the southeast, estimates that the Japanese are said to be using mortars to drop shells in the Russian positions. The balloons are said to be used by the howitzers, which were reported in action earlier in the week.

RUSSIANS CLAIM VICTORY.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—Some interesting details of yesterday's battle are furnished by Russian correspondents, from which it appears that two regiments of Japanese at daybreak attempted to capture the batteries of the sixth artillery brigade, located on the extreme left flank of the Russian army. The attack was only afeared. The confusion and the roaring of the guns shook the windows of Liaoyang, but the artillery was six to eight miles away. Memoranda Danchenko, the famous Russian war correspondent, describing the battle, says: "The enemy, drunk with the former successes, attacked, they were like madmen. When they were herded back, fresh troops were either sent to have an inexhaustible supply, were sent forward." M. Danchenko says the combatants had about 600 guns on each side and adds: "It was my first victory. Japanese were beaten back everywhere, many of their batteries were destroyed and in some cases his infantry was put to flight." The 300 Japanese, captured at the battle of Liaoyang yesterday, passed their Mukden on a train. Another train is expected today. Further despatches from Liaoyang contain the report of the capture of 46 Japanese guns, which were brought up by the railway. The Russian general, Kurapatkin's train was standing.

RUSSIANS LOSE 3000.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—Lieut. General Sakharoff, telegraphing to the general staff, concludes yesterday's 18 hours of fighting around Liaoyang, estimates that the Russian casualties throughout the day were 3000. The Russian general staff last night when many positions occupied by the Japanese were retaken and again held by the Russians. The report from Lieut. Gen. Sakharoff is as follows: "From 5 o'clock this morning until 9 o'clock the Japanese forces attacked our front position near Liaoyang, and on the left bank of the Tsai-tse River. Both

FIRST NEWS FROM TOKIO. Tokio, Sept. 1, 11 a.m.—The battle of Liaoyang is progressing without appreciable result. Official Japanese despatches sent out late yesterday say that neither contestant has realized any visible result. The Japs are confident of victory.

Noisy, Happy Children O'ershadowed the Press

Youngsters Supreme in Their Possession of Grounds, The Knights of Quill Were Seen and Heard at Luncheon.

SCOTLAND'S DAY.
8 a.m.—Gates open.
10 a.m.—Athletic and piping contest.
11 a.m.—Band of Black Watch, in front of grand stand.
1 p.m.—Directors' luncheon.
2 p.m.—Highland dress and dancing competition.
2 p.m.—Prof. L. H. Hutt on "Orchard Management." Dairy Building.
3 p.m.—Afternoon performance.
7 p.m.—Evening performance.
The children and the press shared the honors of the second day of the great fair, and once more the weather gave a glorious setting to the occasion. Byron Walker's ingenious direction of the fair idea from the great medieval fairs of Europe and the identity of its objects and methods with those of the immense gatherings of Russia, Germany and France suggested that Toronto had already accomplished the establishment of a fair that, annually repeated, will carry in historic memory the fame of these days into centuries unreckoned.

What the children did the press could never entirely record, but at least they enjoyed themselves, and with an abandonment that older people might envy, but sanily would prevent any attempt to rival. "What are you giving away?" was the universal query, and the loads of articles that were collected by industrious infants will litter the homes and kindle the fires of thousands during the approaching frosts. Each year the excitement of this kind becomes more systematic, and an intelligence service appears to be in force to judge of the crowds that swarm wherever advertising novelties are to be had. The Globe bureau in the Press Building has been busy with the children's requests for Dundas and buttons, and their popularity exceeded the supply. The manufacturers' building provided the richest harvest of souvenirs, and was thronged all day with the young ones. The independence of these young Canadians is astonishing to grown-ups from the "old country." Children who can navigate the intricate mazes of crowds gain an alertness and independence almost preternatural to those who come from a land where grown-ups require an escort when they go outside their own doors. The children here have no indication of what to what they may, or no hesitation about action. "What are you giving away?" is direct and characteristic.

THE FEMININE FANCY.

In the women's building, the children exhibit in cooking and sewing attracted much attention. One child of 10, Sadie Green of Balmy Beach, has a record in darning which deserves special mention. The dressed dolls, the fine sewing, the preserves, the cakes, the embroidery and knitting are like the work of professionals. Yet one end of this case is filled with the work of girls under 10. The fancy work is very effective, and the quilts in log cabin work, the crazy patchwork and the Japanese work are marvels of skill and patience. Some fine Afghans in unique patterns are also to be seen in this case.

THE ARTS BUILDING WAS THROGGED ALL DAY, AND THE THREE GREAT PICTURES BY MAX. PILOTY AND CONSTANT WERE SURROUNDED BY A CROWD FROM THE OPENING UNTIL THE CLOSE. THE KING'S ALSO RECEIVED MUCH NOTICE.

A HANDY MAN.

A very remarkable man at the show in Murphy, who was bilkzard in 1888, and has no legs or arms. With the hooks attached to his chest and back, he can button and unbutton his garments and perform all ordinary personal services for himself with indescribable dexterity. He has a standing offer of $25 for anyone in the audience who will take off his clothes and put them on again quicker than Murphy.

THE RELIEF OF LUCKNOW AND THE FREIGHTS GIVEN WITH A SMOOTHNESS AND DASH WHICH THREW PREVIOUS NIGHT'S PERFORMANCES ALMOST INTO THE SHADE, THE BRILLIANCE OF THE SHOW RENDERS THE PHRASE IMPOSSIBLE. THE WHOLE DISPLAY IS THE MOST SOLIDLY SATISFACTORY ONE THAT THE EXHIBITION HAS EVER PRESENTED.

THE WARSHIP MODELS HAVE ARRIVED AT THE EXHIBITION, AND THEY ARE UNDOUBTEDLY THE MOST BEAUTIFUL EXHIBITS ON THE GROUNDS. THEY HAVE BEEN PLACED UNDER THE GRAND STAND, A LITTLE TO THE WEST OF WHERE THE JUBILEE PRESENT WAS. THEY CONSIST OF A MODEL OF THE FIRST CLASS ARMORED CRUISER, H. M. S. HOQUE, THE BARBETTE BATTLESHIP, MIKASA, BUILT BY THE ARMSTRONG-WHITWORTH CO. FOR THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT, AND THE TORPEDO BOAT DESTROYER, SWEDENBORG AND SPIFFER, BUILT BY THE ARMSTRONG-WHITWORTH CO. IN 1896 FOR THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT. THE SPEED OF THE LATTER IS 27 KNOTS AN HOUR. THE MODELS OF THE BATTLESHIPS ARE 10 INCHES LONG.

TELEGRAPHERS NOW FEAR DELAY IN ARBITRATION

Mr. Shepley Unable to Act and Request Will be Made for a Successor.

Another cause of irritation has arisen in the matter of the dispute between the Grand Trunk Railway and the telegraphers' union. George F. Shepley, K.C., the nominee of the company on the arbitration board appointed by the minister of labor to settle the trouble going on between the G.T.R. and the Intercolonial Railway, representing the latter company. He has notified the minister that he will be unable to take up the telegraphers' matter either this week or next, and much dissatisfaction exists among the men on this account. Their concern will send a request to Sir William Mulock to-day that he nominate a successor to Mr. Shepley unless the company does so within the three days allowed from the appointment of the board, which expires to-day. The men point out that Mr. Justice Teague will be unable to act in the matter, as he will be engaged in his judicial duties, and fear that the matter will be allowed to drag for an interminable period. If a new arbitrator is appointed, the whole matter can be adjusted before the close of the vacation.

SMALL FIRE IN GRAND STAND BUT POLICE STOPPED PANIC

Bucket of Water Extinguished Blaze, Yet Some Men Were Stampeded.

The favor of Providence and the foresight of the police averted what might have been a dreadful catastrophe at the fair yesterday afternoon. During the variety performance information was brought to Inspector Hall that a smoldering fire had been found on the upper part of the grand stand. The inspector at once ordered two buckets of water to the spot and cautioned silence. The fire alarm was also turned in. A bucket of water extinguished the fire, but before this was done, some men raised a cry, and at once a number of men began jumping over the seats, uttering regardless of the children in their way, and acting like panic-stricken lunatics rather than grown-up and sensible people.

ARCHBISHOP IN MONTREAL

Met by Archbishop Board and Other Prominent Citizens.

Montreal, Aug. 31.—(Special.)—The Archbishop of Montreal reached here this evening from Quebec, accompanied by J. P. Morgan, the commander of the garrison at the fortress, Colonel Wilson, a Toronto boy, and Mrs. Wilson, and were shown all over the fort and its outwork. While in the citadel his grace sent the following heliograph message to the artillery camp at the island of Orleans, nine miles distant: "The Archbishop of Montreal sends greetings to the artillery camp." In a very few minutes the following reply was received: "The camp commander and officers, Royal Canadian Artillery, thank the Archbishop of Montreal for his message and sincerely trust his greetings. (Signed) Camp Commandant."

MAY ISSUE A STATEMENT.

Major Denison's Retirement Gossiped and Facts May Come Out.

An Ottawa despatch yesterday announced that Major George T. Denison, G.C.B., is permitted to resign his commission and is given the honorary rank of major on retirement. The order is of course consequent upon the recent clash between the G. G. B. G. and the Toronto Light Horse over accommodation in the Armouries. Just to what extent the peremptory order of the War Office to the Guards to vacate their quarters is responsible for the major's request for retirement is not clear. It is believed that the major is in the habit of being with his wife without a day with a few days.

GIVEN LEAVE TO APPEAL.

London, Sept. 1.—In the action where the White Pass and Yukon Railway for the return of excess fees paid on baggage, Judge Smith decided that the local companies are not merely agents for the defendant company, nor have the defendants any responsibility for their contracts. He non-suited the plaintiff, and allowed the defendants costs, but gave plaintiff leave to appeal.

The Recent Free Church Decision a Stormy Topic—Regarded as Preposterous.

Rev. Dr. Milligan of Old St. Andrew's returned to the city last evening after a "three months' absence, and will occupy his pulpit on Sunday. Dr. Milligan's absence was due to the fact that he had been invited to attend the general assembly at Halifax in June, and he had been in Liverpool, and was present at the world's Presbyterian gathering there until July 10, after which he proceeded to the Highlands of Scotland. "I never had a better holiday, and I have had a lot of good ones," he told The World last night.
