SHE WAS THE JAILOR'S FAIR DAUGHTER and he loved her dearly. But he was a stranger with a lowly job in a munition factory. She spurned him, so he sought solace in the flowing bowl, eventually landing in her father's jail-house. Here he pressed his love-suit as far as the bars would allow. Papa got wise and discharged him. The rest of the uproariously funny story is devoted to our hero's attempts to get back into jail. The climax is side-splitting and for seven reels everybody is kept excited and laughing. A pure wholesome comic offering. No cheap devices to raise a laugh but clever, intelligent story, artistic, strenuous and mile-a-minute action. Is a Fairbanks picture, that's sufficient.

the Boston boxer's jaw and Flynn sprawled on his face in the canvas of his own corner to be counted out. When Referee Jack O'Sullivan reached nine in his toll one of Flynn's seconds threw in a towel as a token of defeat, but the ring arbiter continued with his other second to the count of ten.

Fulton had decided advantages in height, reach and weight, and these handicaps proved too much for the veteran Flynn to overcome. In the first three rounds Fulton had a clear margin the best of it and landed with his left-hand jab when and where he willed. In fact, Fulton did practically all his work with this blow. Flynn essayed a few right-hand swings for the face, but he went through during the entire three rounds he did not land more than half a dozen clean blows. These went to Flynn's stomach and in the following month made a good showing with Billy Miske over the same route.

Williams May Meet McDonald

Hallfax Echo—Larry Williams of Bridgeport seems to be the next man in line for a bout with Roddie McDonald, as Larry's manager has been suggesting that there is nothing to the match but the fact that McDonald is not willing to take a trimming. This seems to be a little on the far-fetched side, as the Gleece Bay man has met just as good performers as the man from Connecticut.

Since, however, Zulu Kid is off the map for the time being, and Johnny Wilson is looking for big money only, there is a big chance that the fans will be able to see Williams do his little bit to make good.

As far as it can be seen Williams has been doing some pretty nifty work in 1916, and if he can keep up the pace of last year, will make a good card. In February of that year, the bridgeport battler went ten rounds with Bill Brennan. In October he had a six rounder with Jack Dillon and in the following month made a good showing with Billy Miske over the same route.

Patton Knocks Out Flynn

Fred Fulton, a Minnesota heavy-weight, required a little more than three rounds on last Thursday night to dispose of Porky Flynn, veteran Boston heavy-weight, in their bout, scheduled for ten rounds, at the Claremont S. C. Club, Brooklyn. Up to the time the finishing blow was landed the contest was decidedly uninteresting, with Fulton so far outdistancing his older rival that the affair was one-sided.

Shortly after the start of the fourth session Fulton latched Flynn against the ropes near the latter's corner, and, feinting an opening with a pawing left hand jab, he quickly shot his right to-

Moran Is Now Considered One Of The Greatest

New York, July 7.—Every once in a while some one wonders why Pat Moran isn't considered one of the greatest of baseball managers, thereby giving Pat more consideration for what he has done than any other man in baseball with the possible exception of the party who has become the game's greatest reprobator.

Pat, in fact, is the recipient of more favorable publicity than any other man in the two major leagues. No one ever criticizes or says anything bad about him. He always is referred to as a jolly Irishman, ready to talk and smile while he's doing it.

Moran's accomplishment this year in throwing his team into a hot race with the Giants for the leadership of the National League is worthy of more consideration, perhaps, than any stunt he has pulled since he supplanted Charley Dooin as leader of the Quaker men. He has done more with a team of has-beens and mis-fits than the New York Giants have accomplished with a high-salaried team of stars.

The Giants were expected by a majority of critics to have it all settled and laid away along about this date, but they haven't done it yet, and indications right now point to anything but a pleasant journey for Herzog et al for the rest of the season.

Pat Moran's infield, composed of ancient Fred Luderus, cast off Bert Nichol, rookie McCaffigan or competent Dave Bancroft, and cast-off Milton Stock is the main reason why when rated alongside Grover Alexander. These two things, backed the come-back of Grovy Gravath, the continued good baseball of Dode Paskert and George Whitted are whooping things up. The Philites would not be so good in a world series as the Giants, for the Giants counted a stronger factor.
