FUEL COMMISSIONER CONFERS WITH MINERS

Hon. F. B. Carvell, Dominion Fuel Commissioner, and chairman of the Railway Board, was at Halifax this week, and held a conference with coal mine operators and representatives of the miners. The conference was in private, and no statement of its decision was given out. Endeavor was being made to insure coal supplies for eastern Canada, and there was no desire to unnecessarily hamper shipments abroad, and the embargo would not be retained a day longer than was possible, once the best interests of the people in the way of coal supply had been served.

sent to the Board of Hearing, but to the Civil Service Commission. "Now you see it, and now you don't. Not even the boldest of the officers of the Federation will have the temerity to suggest, surely, that the Civil Service Commission is a Whitley Council in embryo. We can only repeat that the Department of Labor has, we understand, a limited number available of pamphlets on the purposes and functions of Whitley Councils.

Brothers All.

A pleasing reminder of the way in which Labor is being regarded in hitherto class-divided England is furnished by Mr. J. Ramsay MacDonald in a recent issue of the Nation. Writing of the British Labor party conference which met during July in the somewhat fashionable watering-place of Scarborough, he describes it as the greatest conference ever held by the Labor party. There were something like 1,200 delegates present, including a large element of new people. "It was interesting," he says, "to hear the tones of the English public school and university following in debate the burr of the northern miner or the Doric of the Clyde worker. Modestly, in the middle of a row of working-class delegates, sat one of our titled folk bearing a name that was brought over by the Conqueror. There, massed in front of us, who were on the platform, was the proof positive that the Labor party is no longer a class affair, but has appealed with success to all classes." "The various teams," he continues, "pulled well together. Before the meeting, some of our newspapers brought out their annual stunt that Scarborough was to see devastating disintegration. Scarborough displayed energetic unity and evangelical harmony."

To be affiliated with trade union Labor need not, therefore, bring the blush of shame to any patriotic civil service clerk.

Dog or Hineset? The heart-breaking attempts that are being made in many departments of the Government to fit existing and necessary positions into a classification based on hypothesis remind us of the bewildered porter in Punch, who had to arrange the subtleties of nature according to the variable tariff schedule of his company. "Cats," he is noted as saying, "is dogs, and guinea pigs is dogs, but this 'ere tortoise is a hineset." Which are you?
