

EIGHT

THE STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B. MONDAY, JULY 27, 1903.

A Customer's Reasonable Wish is This Store's Pleasure.

Dykeman's Linen Suits for the Warm Weather made in the very latest style and of the best quality of linen.

LINEN SHADE SUITS made with semi-fitting coat and pleated skirt, made from linen that will not fade when washed, and will always look as good as new, at two special prices, $4.50 and $6.75.

WHITE LINEN SUITS, made similarly to the linen shade suits and of a good quality of linen at $4.50.

WHITE LINEN SKIRTS at $1.00, $2.75, $3.33 and $4.50. These are all of the very newest of styles and of superior linen.

A Special Showing in Cloth Skirts

At $2.50 we are showing a skirt made of fine quality of habit cloth in navy blue and black, made with pleats and a four-inch fold around the bottom of skirt.

We have a large number of light weight skirts in the latest styles at prices ranging from $2.75 to $5.50.

ACCORDIAN PLEATED SKIRTS, from $5.50 to $5.50. These skirts have been steam pleated and therefore will not come out with wear.

F. A. DYKEMAN & Co.
59 CHARLOTTE ST.

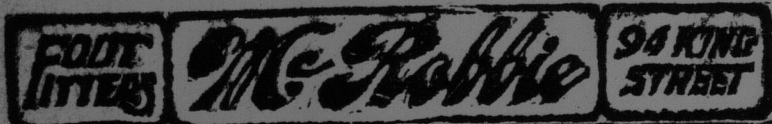

Look at the Classified Ads.

Best Three-fifty Shoes For Men

We have a large assortment of the newest styles in $3.50 shoes, now ready for the early fall trade.

We are showing some of these goods in our window. We want you to see them now, so that you will know where to buy when the time comes.

Our Three-fifty Shoes Are Winners

KODAK
Plate Tank Developers
—PRICES—
4x5.....$3.50
5x7.....4.50

E. G. NELSON & CO.,
Cor. King and Charlotte Sts.

WINDOW SCREENS, 25c, 25c, 25c, 25c.
COTTON SCREEN CLOTH, 7c yd.
WINDOW SCREEN CLOTH, 15c.
15c, 20c, 24c yd.
BRASS SHUTTER CURTAIN RODS, 5c.
Ea. 10c, 15c each.
STRAW HATS and CAPS, 10c, 15c, 25c.
SPECIAL BARGAINS IN LADIES' PLAIN COTTON HOSE, BLACK, 10c pair, TAN, 12c pair.
SPECIAL VALUE IN HAND BAGS 25c.
GLOVES, RIBBONS, LACES, ETC.

Arnold's Department Store,
Phone 1705. 83-85 Charlotte St.

We are Engaged
In the general jewelry business, and we have made a reputation for sterling honesty. We are receiving constantly new designs in Locketts, Brooches, Chains, etc., and our Watches, for both Ladies and Gentlemen, are well known to be accurate time-keepers. We also carry an enormous stock of Souvenir Goods at very moderate prices.

A. POYAS,
WATCHMAKER and JEWELLER,
Tel. 1897. 24 Mill St.

PATTERSON'S
DAYLIGHT STORE

McCALL PATTERNS 10 & 15c

WE BOOM OUR STORES, SO WILL YOU,
IF YOU
BUY
HERE

It's a Catching Boom.

A HOSIERY SALE
Tonight.

Boys' and Girls' heavy Rib Cotton Hose, 10c, 12c, 15c pair.

This is a great Hosiery Store.

Cor. Duke and Charlotte St.
Store Open Evenings.

THE WEATHER

Maritime—Light to moderate winds, mostly westerly. A few scattered showers, but mostly fine and warm today and on Tuesday.

LOCAL NEWS

Roy Foley has been reported by the police for furiously driving an automobile on Union street.

Wait until Wednesday, July 29th, at 9 a. m., when C. B. Pidgeon, corner Main and Bridge streets, North End, will open his "grand mid-summer clearance sale" to continue for 10 days only.

A special meeting of the L. A. A. O. E. will be held in St. Malachi's Hall this evening. A full attendance is requested. The provincial president will be present.

The wedding of Henry Phillips, of St. John, to Miss Annie Boulter, of Fredericton, took place on Saturday evening, July 25th, at the residence of Rev. A. B. Cohen, who performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips will reside in the city.

The regular monthly meeting of the county branch N. B. Temperance Federation, will be held at the W. C. T. U. rooms, Germain street, tonight at 8 o'clock. All members are asked to attend.

The local militiamen who were in Quebec arrived home Saturday evening about 6.30 o'clock. The men all speak highly of the trip. On Wednesday the 2nd Regt. were called on to form a royal squad of honor at the Citadel to consist of 100 rank and file with band of the regiment. Capt. Frost was in command of the squad with Lieutenants Morgan and McAllister. The guard received much praise.

Spontaneous combustion it is supposed caused a blaze last evening in a coal shed at the foot of Portland street owned by the Port Road Coal Company for which R. Max McCarty is agent. The fire was discovered under the weighing scales. The alarm was sent in to No. 2 chemical. There was a strong breeze at one time and the firemen were more than half an hour in subduing the flames.

There was a large attendance of railway employees at a meeting held in Forester's Hall, Charlotte street, yesterday afternoon, when they were addressed by General President Neil and J. W. Clarke, international vice president of the Brotherhood of the Intercolonial system. During his remarks Mr. Neil said that schedule of wages would be presented to the intercolonial management.

At an early hour this morning, after a long and tedious illness, Edna Augusta only daughter of Captain Geo. Edward Day passed peacefully to rest, aged 55 years. Service will be held this evening at 7 o'clock at the home of her brother, Allan H. Day, 88 Kennedy St., and the remains will be taken tomorrow by steamer Victoria to Hamilton where interment will be made.

A very pleasant and profitable entertainment was held at Acadia Saturday evening on the verandah of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. E. Burnham's summer home, in aid of the free kindergarten, by the children of Mrs. Burnham and friends. After a delicious and sumptuous dinner the children offered candy and ice cream for sale and realized seven dollars.

The Boston '08 Club of the Knights of Pythias will meet tomorrow evening in their hall on Germain street at eight o'clock. This is the last meeting before leaving for Boston on Saturday night and the members are expected to be present to finish up the business of the club. The Artillery Band, which will accompany the prisoners, expects to have a strength of thirty-four members for the trip.

The Local Union of C. E., consisting of fifteen societies of the different churches in this city, are planning a big outing for the evening of August 11. The plan is to go up river by the steamer May Queen. After a three hours' sail in the moonlight, during which music will be rendered, the steamer will return to the city. Refreshments will be served on the trip. Tickets are now in the hands of a member of each society, and are on sale at Watson's Drug Store, King St.

John J. Powers has made arrangements for Mike (Twin) Sullivan and Dan Littlejohn to appear here in a six round boxing contest. The fight will take place in about two weeks' time, and the local sports will be given a good chance to see some clever boxing. Sullivan has just finished a tour of Nova Scotia and Cape Breton, boxing Tom Foley. Mr. Powers is completing arrangements for the exhibition.

Herbert Mayo, 18 years of age; Charles Allen and Edward Mulcahey, two younger prisoners, were successful in making their escape from the Boys' Industrial Home on Saturday. Mayo hailed from Chatham, and when he left the institution he stole the guard's new clothes and a pair of boots. He is still at large. Allen and Mulcahey were met on Brussels street last night by Policeman Ward, who locked them up in Russell's street lockup. Supt. McDonald called for the boys later in the night and took them back to the Home.

S. S. ORURO ARRIVES FROM BERMUDA

The West India steamer Oruro arrived at nine o'clock this morning from Bermuda direct after an uneventful trip, and docked at the Pettibone wharf, where a large number of first and second class passengers.

The first class passengers are as follows: From St. John: Mrs. E. P. Rodriguez; Miss L. Rodriguez; From Bermuda: Mr. and Mrs. W. T. James; Master J. L. Martin; Mrs. M. Bradley; Miss Bradley; Lieut. W. A. Emerson; R. A. M. C.; Mrs. Emerson; Miss A. A. Smith; Capt. S. S. Baker; Miss A. S. Walcott; Miss T. Cooper.

ANOTHER STREET WALKER GOES IN FOR TWO MONTHS

Sheffield Street Case in Which an Ancient Farmer Came Out Second Best.

The police court bench contained a half dozen prisoners this morning, and when acting magistrate Henderson took his seat there was a fair crowd of spectators outside the rail to hear the fate of the unfortunates on the prisoners bench. Many of these spectators are regular attendants who seem to have no other way of putting in the mornings than by loafing in court.

Three drunks were dealt with in the usual manner. Eva Morrell, a Sheffield street resident, pleaded guilty to being the keeper of a bawdy house and was fined $50 or six months in jail. She went to jail. Patrick Fitzpatrick, a grey headed old man, was in the company of Eva when arrested, so pleaded guilty of being an inmate of her house. He said he had been to the horse races Saturday. He then came to town and was awaiting a friend at Eva Morrell's house. He did not remember giving her money. The woman claimed that she did not steal any money from Fitzpatrick but that he gave her ten dollars and she did not propose to give the money back to him. The old man was given a reprimand for his foolish action in visiting the house, and was fined $25 or two months jail, besides losing the ten dollars he gave the woman. Fitzpatrick claims that he did not know where his horse and wagon have gone. He drove into the city.

Louise Corra, a 19-year-old girl, was charged with vagrancy, having been arrested on King Square Saturday night between ten and eleven o'clock. She said she was sitting on a bench with a young man, whose name she could not remember, when the policeman caught her by the arm and arrested her.

The officer was Night Detective Marshall, who gave evidence that the young woman has been street walking for some time. When placed under arrest she did not give a satisfactory account of herself. Her male companion broke away from the officer and got clear. Complaints were made about the young woman.

The magistrate said that there was too much street walking and a decent girl would not be sitting in the King Square at such an hour and he felt she did not know. She was fined $3 or two months in jail.

DOHERTY, FOR THEFT, LET GO WITH REPRIMAND

He Did Not Intend to Steal the Horse and Wagon—Other Prisoners Will Wait for the Jury.

In the equity court chambers this morning before Judge Forbes, Alfred B. Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doherty, who was sent up for trial on the charge of stealing a horse and wagon, was tried under the Speedy Trial Act. The prisoner pleaded guilty and J. A. Barry, who appeared for him, stated to the court that in view of the fact that Doherty was drunk when the crime was committed and had driven to Sheffield street where he met Doh