

sermon Preached at the N. S. Western Association.

BY REV. N. H. RICHARD.

But to do good and to communicate forget not that ye who have sacrificed God is well pleased.—Heb. 13-16.

In the previous verse we are exhorted to offer the sacrifice of praise even as the fruit of our lips. This is a reasonable service and acceptable to God.

III. Providence teaches it. What would be our condition without the bounties of God's providence? Some thoughtless beings say, "My own skill, diligence and strength have procured for me the blessings I enjoy."

IV. Grace teaches it. God has manifested his love towards us by giving in the first place the unspeakable gift of His only begotten Son, and if "He spared not His own Son, shall He not with Him also freely give us all things?"

Let us consider in the second place the benefit of liberality.

ways be permitted to see the fruit of your liberality. You may sow the seed and it may bear fruit like the morning wheat, after many years, when your head is beneath the sod.

Let us consider in the third place the extent of the obligation to give.

How long should we give? There are some who are ready to give their money to the poor, but who will not give their time.

Let us consider in the third place the benefit of liberality.

II. To the receiver. If you give bread to the hungry, or clothing to the naked, you may see the result and have the pleasing consciousness that that poor suffering creature has been benefited by your beneficence.

There is a person who has received his worldly goods, and who is permitted to see the fruit of your liberality.

A LETTER OF LAURA BRIDGMAN.

BY REV. J. H. EDWARDS.

In looking over an old note-book shortly after reading the news of Laura Bridgman's death, I came upon a letter written by her to a cousin many years ago.
