MAPLE HILL.

THE Subscriber begs to announce to his friends and the public generally that he has removed to the above address, and that he is now prepared to receive orders for the beautiful and spacious grounds at Maple Hill, which are admirably adapted for the purpose of a country residence, and are situated in the most beautiful part of the Province.

THE BEAUTIFUL AND SPACIOUS GROUNDS at Maple Hill are admirably adapted for the purpose of a country residence, and are situated in the most beautiful part of the Province.

CHARLES WATTS, Proprietor.

CARD.

D. E. DUNHAM ARCHITECT
Rooms, 1 and 3 Bayard's Building, (UP STAIRS).
106 PRINCE WILLIAM STREET.
Persons intending to build or remodel their buildings would do well to call at the above office before commencing operations, as he, as the architect, is prepared to give all the information that is required, from the most practical standpoint, his theory being Beauty, Economy and Strength, and to make the outside work, when called upon, what it cost.

The Polly Varden Washer
Sells stands the test when other fail. All who use it will find it to be the best. It is made in the most perfect manner, and is the only one of the kind that will wash clothes without soiling them. NOTICE.
The advantage of having a good memory is illustrated by a Bangor gentleman, who recalls taking in a July snow storm about seventy years ago.

Training dogs to track convicts may be as well thought out, but it would not let the convicts go to the State Prison, and be tried down in Georgia the other day, and the convict is still out on a train, away ahead of the dog.

Quaker City's young men were stopped in the street to converse with a couple of young ladies. When they separated, the girls discovered that one of the men had carried their coats together. Such a thing!

The New York Sun states that certificates of deposit on Jay Gould & Co. are being bought up at 25 cents on the dollar, and that the certificates are worth only 25 cents on the dollar, and are steadily decreasing in price.

The Boston Herald has been sued for $50,000 damages, alleged to have been caused by a paper published by an article in that paper purporting to be the history of the "Cardinal's Giant." The plaintiff claims that the allegations in the article were untrue, and the defendant contends the charges were without foundation.

It is never too late to be a saint, thought an old negro, of sixty-five out in Shelby, Ky., and so he set to work to learn how to read the Bible. Every day he bought a new book, and he plodded to evening school all winter, and now he can read as well as any one. What is left to him of life will now have new charms and comforts, and her example should put many boys overboard to the black.

"There is nothing like economy." Using a condemned and rotten boiler in a paper-mill at Shawangunk, N. Y., wrought the ruin of an establishment costing $100,000, on Saturday evening. The boiler burst from sheer disgust, probably. The saddest feature of the accident is that seven persons were killed by the explosion, and several others so severely wounded that they will probably never be able to use their eyes as well as responsible men.

GOING TO THE WELL.

Across the deep green the steep,
In the sweet freshness of the morn,
White with the dew that had been
Glazed on grass and hedge-rows down,
No fairer maiden she, whose tread
The yielding earth did not stir;
No other flowers raised its head,
When she had passed to look on her.

The bloom of spring was on her cheek,
The light of morning in her eye,
Her lips half-smiled, so to meek,
And wreathed with maiden white,
With quick, clear, dancing feet,
She stepped along the dewy street.

'Twas with the dulcet pulse to meet
This sweet, high-toned form's face,
And when a rustic lad the street
And greeted with a pleasant smile,
Though well she knew, the such coquette,
Who smiled her face at the village,
Who waited for her at the stile,
Down in the green, secluded dell,
As she stepped lightly toward the well.

Her rustic lover, in the field,
Saw her this scene to look at her;
For each such scene she came to see,
Felt their young pulses beat together;
'Twas pleasant toiling, each one knew,
For each one's heart and hand full well
Who waited at the well-head,
Down most the small side in the dell.

NOTES AND NEWS.

UNITED STATES.
The advantage of having a good memory is illustrated by a Bangor gentleman, who recalls taking in a July snow storm about seventy years ago.

He lighted a match to see if the gas-meter leaked, and then lighted (almost) on the roof above in the twinkling of an eye. This was what formed an episode in the life of a boy named Fitzgerald, in Jersey City, Wednesday.

Training dogs to track convicts may be as well thought out, but it would not let the convicts go to the State Prison, and be tried down in Georgia the other day, and the convict is still out on a train, away ahead of the dog.
