FROM DAY TO DAY.

Men pray to Thee in darkness, Lord of Light!
They call on Thee when phantoms of the night
Creep close to them and whisper in their ear.
"We are the ghosts of sin that come so near."

But Lord, I need Thee in the daylight, too,
When figures, never vague, but real
Come close to me and tempt me on my way;
O, Lord, I need Thee so from day to day.

—Charles Hanson.

MY FATHER'S HOUSE.

My Father's house has many rooms,
And each is fair;
And some are reached through gathered glooms,
But he keeps house, and makes it home,
Whichever way the children come.

Plenty and peace are everywhere
His house within;
The rooms are eloquent with prayer,
And dear hearts filled with love, are glad,
Forgetting that they once were sad.

Thy Father's house is surely thine,
Therefore why wait
His lights of love through darkness shine,
The hour grows late,
Push back the curtain of thy doubt,
And enter—none will cast thee out!

—Marianna Farningham.

AT THE THEATRE.

THE GIRL FROM CALCUTTA.

N at Saturday's Attraction at the Grand

The following are some of the comments on the performance of "The Girl from Calcutta," at St. Catharines and Hamilton, where the play was presented on Monday and Tuesday last.

Mrs. Wilson, of the Grand Opera House, St. Catharines: "Very pretty play, well costumed, scenery fine, people first-class."

Mrs. London, of the Grand Opera House, Hamilton: "The company is an excellent one, and the piece is beautifully staged. You can strongly recommend the company and production."

The Hamilton Herald: "The play is minus a villain, or anything that borders on deception or villainy, and the plot, thin as it is, rolls along smoothly and neatly. The play is handsomely staged and the costumes are all that could be wished for."

Miss Margaret Wilkes, who is being featured in the titular role, is a charming little lady with a small, musical voice and a manner quite bewitching. Her sympathetic manner and quiet effort easily won for her a warm spot in the hearts of her auditors.

Miss Henrietta Lee as Lady Flora, the other woman in the case, proved to be a capital actress, and was spot in the heart of the evening. The men are clever, though the leading man, Mr. Paxton, was seriously handicapped last evening by a distressing cold.

Charles P. Morrison, as the Duc de Chavannes, and T. B. Bridgeford, in the role of his headstrong son, gave capital performances, and their efforts were much appreciated.

Hamilton Spectator: "T. B. Bridgeford was breezy and hearty as Capt. George, and Charles P. Morrison did good work as Duc de Chavannes. There were three fine scenic settings, that of the second act, the top of Chambers being particularly attractive."

The Hamilton Post: "Miss Margaret Wilkes in the titular role gave a very bright bit of character work. She is one of those delightful dear little girls, artless and innocent as a new born babe, but lovable for that very fact. Unaccustomed to men of the world, her guileless ventures of opinion were as humorous as they were frank. Miss Henrietta Lee, as Lady Flora, shared the honors of the evening. Faultlessly groomed and wearing her costumes with grace and ease she helped materially to interest the audience."

ARBITRATORS' AWARD

In a Dispute Between Blenheim and Harwich School Sections.

The arbitrators appointed by the Blenheim and Harwich councils respectively, Messrs. Andrew Denholm, James Leslie and Inspector Colley met yesterday in Harwich hall to consider the evidence taken on the two preceding days upon the petition for separation of school lands from U. S. S. No. 5, Harwich and Blenheim. An award was made requiring that the lands referred to should be allowed to remain in the union on the following grounds:—

First, the petitions asked for what appeared to the arbitrators unreasonable, namely, to attach the lands south of Blenheim to a new section in which the school house would have to be north of the town.

Second, the position of certain of the lands referred to in the petitions has already been determined by a former arbitration a few months ago.

Third, there was no evidence to show that the requirements of section 11, subsec. 3 of the act could be met from the union lands north of the town only.

Fourth, the plan of new section proposed, embraced lands in union sections 23 and 4 Harwich and Raleigh, whereas no arbitrator was appointed by the Raleigh council.

These and other legal complexities rendered it impossible for the board of arbitrators to form the new section proposed. The costs of the arbitration were put upon Blenheim and Harwich equally both arbitrators being agreed.

H. D. Smith, Ridgeway, for petitioners; R. L. Gosnell, Blenheim, for the town.

A GOOD GUESSER.
Bride (formerly a widow)—Oh, Harry, what would I do if you should die?
Harry (doubtfully)—I don't know, dear, but I think I can guess.

TWO LOVERS.

Whose baby is loveliest?
Mother says:—
All around the world—north, south, east, west—
Hers alone!
For whether it be a Chinese tot,
With eyes astart and a shaven crown,
Or a dear little girl of the land of the free
Or a toddling prince in London town
Or the one rare treasure a Sudan slave
Hugs to her heart, all we and brown,
Emile, in its mother's gentle pride
Is faster than all the world beside.

Whose mother is loved the best?
Baby's own.
She whose cheeks was first caromed—
She alone.
For whether she be an Eskimo
Or colored mammy or stately queen
Or a wandering organ grinder's wife,
Jingling and beating her tambourine,
In every land where children are
The baby eyes from their deep, serene
Gaze, rapture bound, love's tender grace
Is the mother's loveliest, love's face.

BUYING A SAW.

The Variety on Hand Puzled the Man Who Wanted to Purchase.

When the man with the red mustache started down stairs, his wife ran to the door and called him back.

"Don't do that," she said, "I want you to go into a hardware store today and get a saw. Don't forget it, please. We need one badly."

Being an accommodating person, the man with the red mustache said he'd get it. He chose the luncheon hour as the most opportune time for making his simple purchase. He was in a good humor, and he smiled blandly when he went bustling into the store and said, "I want a saw, please."

The clerk who had come forward to wait on him had a merry twinkle in his eye, and the twinkle overflowed at the question and spread all over his face in dimples.

"What kind of a saw?" he asked. The prospective purchaser began to perceive what an intricate business the buying of a saw really is.

"Why," said he, "I don't know. Just a saw. Any kind will do, I suppose."

The clerk sighed. "If you only knew what you want to use it for, perhaps I could advise you," he suggested.

"Well, I want to use it for?" echoed the man with the red mustache. "Why, I want to saw, of course—at least my folks do."

"Saw what?" asked the clerk. "I don't know," admitted the nonplussed shopper.

The clerk brightened up again and led the way to the rear of the store. "I will show you a few different varieties of saws we have on hand," he said. "Observe and an explanation of their uses and prices may assist you in making a decision. Here's a metal saw. It is the hardest saw there is. It is made of highly tempered steel and will saw iron, copper, lead and all manner of metals. It is small in size and sells for $2 to $2.50, according to the style of the handle, which comes in beech wood and oak.

The latter being more expensive. Is that the kind of saw you want?"

The man with the red mustache was sorely perplexed. "No," said he, "I don't think so. We have no metals at our house to work on that I know of."

"Perhaps you would like a meat saw?" suggested the clerk. "Steel in these is of hardly so high a grade, and I could let you have a good one of $1. But you're not a butcher, are you?"

The man who wanted a saw shook his head mournfully, and the clerk continued: "There is a regular kitchen saw, for general utility purposes, which will cost you only 50 cents. How does that strike you? No? Then here's the cabinet maker's saw. I can give you a very good one for $3. Then I have here used plumb-saws, the fine, delicate saws used by all manner of cabinet makers and the ordinary carpenter. Which cost you anywhere from 50 cents to $4. In that back room we have still other varieties—the two man ten foot saws, buzzsaws and circular saws. If you want to pay a big price, you'd better take one of the latter. I'll give you a good one for $50. Would you like to see them?"

The man with the red mustache looked about him wonderingly.

"No, thank you," he said. "I never dreamed that there were so many different kinds of saws. I guess I won't take any till I find out just what kind I want."

The clerk bowed affably. "I regret being unable to make a sale," he said, "but I really think that the wisest plan."

With What the Law Allowed.
The court of swain and his sweetheart had come in from the mountain fastnesses to be married at the minister's house in an Adirondack town. The ceremony was over, but the bridegroom hesitated. There was another important function to be performed. "What do I pay you for this?" he asked.

"The law allows me $1.50," said the minister, willing to swell his wife's pin money for as little as that.

Fond Wife—You can't prove that two and two make five.
Loving Husband—Easily. You say it only takes you two minutes to do your hair, don't you?

Fond Wife—Yes.
Loving Husband—And two minutes to dress?
Fond Wife—Yes.
Loving Husband—Well, that's five hours, isn't it?—Exchange.

Effective Method.
"She attracts a good deal of attention."
"No wonder; she's so outre."
"In what way?"
"Well, for one thing, she tries not to attract attention."

Too Bold.
The Critic—The color effects of your society portraits are unreal.
The Artist—Well, you see, I can't paint people in their true colors.
