CAROLINE M. SEVERANCE.

One of the First Woman's Club Organizers In This Country. Mrs. Caroline M. Severance, who helped to organize one of the first woman's clubs in this country, is one of the oldest clubwomen, both in actual age and in club work, in the United States. A fact to which she often refers with pride in these days is that she was president of the first woman's club that was organized in Boston. Mrs. Severance was born in 1820 in New York state, where she lived until her marriage, after which she passed some years in Cleveland, O. Then for California.' Good For Growing Children. One of the things for every mother to remember is this: No child can be altogether healthy and happy who is not regularly and wholesomely fed. Women as Medical Students. To one who has taught in both men's and women's medical schools this statement that the standard of scholarship is not so high among the women as among the men is absurd. The average medical girl student is older and correspondingly more mature than the average male medical student. She is thoroughly in earnest, fully realizes the value of her opportunities and works other rheumatic remedy. With the girl, who is more conscientious, it is often a case of being able to "drive the willing horse to death," whereas the boy, if pushed, is apt to not necessarily the one who never gets slight his work and trust to luck to see discouraged, but the one who, when he him through at critical moments. > Being Worth Knowing. A girl eager, ambitious, restless for many things, once heard two sentences that changed much of her life. They were these: "Would you be known? Then be worth knowing." In a flash she saw how cheap an ambition hers had been and how selfish. Who was she to long for the friendship of high souls? What had she to give in return for the treasure of their lives? Would she as she was even understand their language? In humility and sorrow she prayed again, no longer that she might be known, but that in God's good time her own life might grow strong and beautiful, that she might prove worthy of all blessings that were given her. Then, since God in his wisdom teaches us to answer many of our own prayers, she began to study, to read and to think and to try to love greatly. So Jears passed.

Did she become known? Never as in her girlish dreams. But she found something far, far better. For she learned that to be known is nothing and to try to be worth knowing that one may be known is less than nothing, but to lift one's soul to highest living because one will not be satisfied with lesser things is a task whose joy deepes on into God's eternity.—Boston Trav-eler.

Women In Scandinavia, Scandinavia bears the distinction of being the only nation of the world in the navy of which the women enjoy the same privileges and share the same perils as the men. Whether the woman on board is the wife of the captain or of the commonest sailor, she is compelled by the government to do the work of a man before the mast, and the women are even compelled to stand guard at night. Women pilots are also a usual thing in the navy of both the Scandinavian and Danish governments. They sail far out to sea for the purpose of meeting the incoming ships and conduct them to port as safely as do male pilots. Old and experienced Scandinavian ship captains say that women make good pilots and are to be preferred to men in that they have more patience than men and are not so liable through drunkenness to dash a ship on Women as Insurance Risks. The majority of companies charge women higher premiums, the difference in this respect being illogical, while not a small number make no extra charge. The claim is made that the increased risk is actually justified by the function of maternity. Some companies, therefore, make no extra charge after the age of fifty. It is pertinently asked why some companies find female risks profitable at ordinary rates. We suspect the explanation of the whole problem will be found to lie in prejudice and custom and that great financial success will come to those companies which invite the ladies at ordinary rates. There is no reason in vital statistics for excluding or fining them .- American Medicine. Shrewd New England Women. In every factory where woolen or cotton fabrics are manufactured there is a great deal that is slightly damaged and which is sold at a tremendous reduction. Women who live near the mills in New England keep their eyes open for these pieces, for often they are just as good for their purposes as the perfect goods. A piece of cloth that sells ordinarily for $1 a yard may be had at the mill slightly damaged for 25 cents, and the thrifty Yankee housewife, by taking advan-

In the morning wash the arms again in hot water and soap and rinse in clear, tepid water. Dry thoroughly, dust over with a good powder and give a final rub with a soft chamois leather.

Beef Tea Gruel. Beef tea gruel forms a nice change from either beef tea or gruel for invalids. Rub a tablespoonful of coarse oatmeal into a small quantity of cold water. When quite smooth, pour over this a pint of nearly boiling beef tea, or, if preferred, mutton broth. Set all in a double saucepan and let it simmer gently for two hours. Then strain, season nicely and serve with a little chopped parsley dusted over the top.

When Pride Helps a Woman. Women devour many disappointments between breakfast and dinner time, keep back the tears, look a little pale about the lips, and in answer to inquiries say, "Oh, nothing." Pride helps us, and pride is not a bad thing when it only urges us to hide our own hurts and not to hurt others .- George Eliot.

Two Types of Girls. From the man's standpoint the jaunty, independent girl makes a jolly good comrade, but the average bachelor, it is said, would probably prefer the sweet and simple maiden for a wife .-Toronto Herald.

Charming Summer Resort

Two interesting little books of the illustrated folder type have been is-sued by the Grand Trunk Railway System, one being entitled "Songs of the Nipissing," and the other "The Eastern Coast of Lake Huron." The illustrations are very numerous, are of all sizes, and are scattered through the pages to elucidate the text and appear to the eye just as the story told in the letter press does to the mind. The prevailing note in these little works, upon which a profitable half hour may be spent by the reader, is the craving for change, and there can be no doubt that men and women who live in the stress and strain of to-day, and feel the throbs of advanced and advancing civilization, of require change-complete change for mind and body. The haunts described here minister to the intellectual as well as the physical health of jaded dwellers in cities. The physical exercises that can be obtained among the woods and waters create and pro-mote a perfectly sound bodily condition, while the multifarious life that is to be found, stimulates the intellectual faculties and prompt inquiry and investigation into nature's ways as they are revealed in her flora and fauna.
