

WARM WEATHER AND SPRING MEDICINE

WARM WEATHER is Sure to Bring Out the Hidden Poisons, Germs and Seeds of Diseases that have accumulated in the Blood and system, caused by the eating of rich and heavy foods, during the long winter months. The Blood becomes thick and Sluggish, and Causes that Tired, Listless, Dull, All-Gone-No-Ambition- Don't-Care-To-Work Feeling. The Cleansing, Blood-Purifying Action of

Burdock Blood Bitters

Will Drive Out all the Poisonous and Decaying Matter from the System, and Put You into Shape to Withstand the Approaching Warm Weather.

TIRED AND WEARY

Mrs. Gideon J. Hamacher, New Dundee, Ont., writes: "I took your Burdock Blood Bitters for my stomach. I was very much bothered with it one spring, and was tired and weary all the time, and did not feel like working at all, but after taking the medicine I feel all right again."

USED FOR YEARS

Mr. Ambrose Logan, Smith Falls, Ont., writes: "We have used Burdock Blood Bitters in our family for years as a Spring Medicine, and find it cannot be beat. I can recommend it highly, and would advise any person not feeling well to use it."

FAMOUS PROPHET DIES

FOUNDER OF ZION CITY, JOHN A. DOWIE, PASSES AWAY.

Had a Wonderful Career—Might Have Been Canonized Some Years Ago—Was Victim of Conspiracy—Cult Was Founded Upon Mental Healing—Made Millions—Chicago Lawyer's Testimony to Him.

Death comes as a melancholy anticlimax to the career of John Alexander Dowie, the founder of Zion City, and one of the most widely known religious leaders of his day. Had he died gloriously at the crowning moment of his career, when he led his hosts to New York in 1902, he would have been canonized some years ago.

He had been canonized by his followers, and the movement that he represented would have been only stimulated by the event. Separated from his family, deserted by his lieutenants, and with only a handful of pitying believers about him, Dowie's death makes hardly a ripple. The old man was down before, and now he is out. With ten years more of life he might have won back his little kingdom, but he was an old man, and his vitality was hardly strong enough to resist his great reverses.

A Victim of Conspirators.
Dowieism died before Dowie, or rather it was assassinated by William Glenn Voliva and the others who conspired against the leader when he was recuperating from a paralytic stroke in Mexico in 1906.

Dowie was a big, strong man at his worst. Incurably narrow, he had the force of his vice, and to thousands his intolerance seemed convincing of his sincerity. At any rate, Dowie believed something, and was ready to suffer for his convictions. It is not necessary to sympathize with either his ideas or his methods to admire his force of character and his enthusiasm.

The Foundation of the Cult.
Dowieism was founded upon mental healing, but differed from the other cults of the same origin chiefly in the fury with which its tenets were expounded. Dispassionate investigators have credited Dowie with many cures, and there can be no doubt that he relieved much human suffering, unless it is to be assumed that some hundreds of people were his fellow-conspirators. It was his tenets, added to his impassioned exhortations, that first attracted to him a little group of believers; but to his persecutions must be attributed his great celebrity. In Chicago he was arrested a hundred times for violating city ordinances. He was pelted in the streets, and lampooned in the newspapers, with the inevitable result that his little sect grew. Eight years of this kind of treatment in Chicago were followed by the announcement of Zion City and its enterprises. It was learned that Dowie had lots of money, and a change came over the susceptible public mind. He established a new industry that of making lace, and was hailed enthusiastically as a public benefactor.

He Made Millions.

Other factories were started in the model city on the shores of Lake Michigan, and soon 5,000 people were settled there. There followed a period of prosperity, for Dowie himself admitted that he had made $5,000,000 out of the enterprises.

A Christian Man.

That the world is any the worse for his life and example we do not believe. A Chicago attorney thus pronounces his obituary: "Personally I entertained the highest regard for Dr. Dowie, and have no hesitation in saying, after several months of very intimate association, that I considered him the most sincere, the most devoted, and the most conscientious Christian man I have ever met. His greatest weakness was that he was liberal and generous to a fault."

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or over-busy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better. The cause of the wrong treatment, but probably worse, is a proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription directed to the cause would have cured the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known in half cure is equalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system, and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve tonic, "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

The Majority.
Some people work for glory, But many of them, though, Put in theiricks and turn the tricks For just plain dough.

A Substitute.
"I do not believe in corporal punishment."
"But what would you do with an incorrigible child?"
"You might send him to a painless dentist."

Had to Do It Himself.
"Why is the young lady wringing her hands?"
"The young man who promised to ring them for her didn't show up."

Sure Cure.
"What's good for a bad temper?"
"Marry a small but proficient woman."

DIVIDES THE WORLD.

The Line That Marks Where Day Begins and Ends.

IT TRAVERSES THE PACIFIC.

The Way This Important Boundary Came to Be Established—Spots Where Today, Tomorrow and Yesterday Are Still a Confused Jumble.

It is evident that the day must begin somewhere, though it is a confusing thing to undertake to determine just where, for one may go on and on around the world and never catch up with it. On the other hand, if we are not careful in reasoning we will reach the absurd conclusion that it is Monday noon and Tuesday noon at the same time in any given place.

A writer in the St. James' Gazette treats this peculiar phase of the subject in a very definite way. Seeing that as one moves westward the time gets earlier and earlier, so that when it is Monday noon in London it is some time on Monday morning in America, it follows that, if this principle were continued without limit halfway round the world, at the same moment that it was Monday noon in London it would be also twenty-four hours later—that is, Tuesday noon—in London. As this is reduction ad absurdum, we have to look for the limit, which does, in fact, exist, on the principle that as one moves westward the time gets earlier and as one moves eastward it gets later.

Before the circumnavigation of the globe there was no difficulty. When on a Monday the sun stood over London it was Monday noon in London. As the sun moved (to use the popular phrase) westward and stood a little later over Dublin it became Monday noon in Dublin, and so on until it reached the western limit of the known world.

When the sun passed over that limit, that was the end of noon for that Monday, and nobody knew what the sun was doing until he reappeared on the eastern limit of the known world, bringing with him Tuesday morning.

It is evident, therefore, that while the sun was in the unknown abyss between west and east he dropped the attribute of making the time at all places directly under his rays Monday noon and took to himself the attribute of making it Tuesday noon.

As the confines of the world were pushed farther eastward and westward, respectively, the unknown abyss where this change of attribute had to be made got narrower and narrower until, when the globe was circumnavigated, the place of change became simply a line.

The line exists and is the place where the days begin. As the sun crosses this remarkable spot the time jumps twenty-four hours onward—from noon one day to noon on the next day. The situation of the line has been located quite fortuitously—namely, by the circumstance whether any given place was first reached by civilized man journeying from the east or from the west.

The discoverer brought with him the almanac from whence he came, and if he came from the west the time in the new country would be later, and if he came from the east it would be earlier than the time in the country he came from.

America was reached by civilized man voyaging westward and China by man traveling eastward, and the result is that the line that marks where the days begin lies between these two.

the Pacific ocean and, instead of being a straight line, zigzags about, dividing islands which happened to be discovered from the east from those which happened to be discovered from the west.

There must still be many islands in that ocean where it is not yet decided to which side of the line they belong and where, if one were put down, one would not know whether it were today, tomorrow or yesterday.

There must also be many islands there which, never having been permanently occupied by civilized people, change their day from time to time, so that a ship calling there coming from China might arrive on Tuesday, while another ship calling at the same time from America would arrive on Monday. There must be people living so near this line that by going a few miles they can leave today and get into tomorrow, or, by going back, can find yesterday.

WINDSOR SALT.

By Any Other Name.
"That was quite a mistake you made last week."
"Oh, I don't know."
"Why, I understood that you gave a quite different order from what you were instructed to give."
"Sh-sh! It netted me a thousand dollars."
"Oh, I see! Not so much of a mistake as it seems."

Really Necessary.
"Some men get such an exaggerated opinion of their own importance that they think the business couldn't run without them."
"Still, there is one of that sort occasionally."
"The boss?"
"No; the office boy."

Good Place to Visit.
"Do you like living in the country?"
"Oh, yes, very much indeed, but not for myself."
"For whom, then?"
"For my relatives."

CRAZE FOR MAHOGANY.

Latest Designs of the Furniture Makers in This Wood. Mahogany has come back into its own again as a furniture wood, and its popularity was never greater than at the present time. Old mahogany is particularly desirable, but when it is not possible to get antique mahogany furniture copies of old styles make very acceptable substitutes. For the collector, of course, nothing suits but the genuinely old productions. A prominent physician of artistic taste whose hobby is collecting antique furniture is particularly proud of the fact that in his bedroom, furnished entirely in mahogany, not a piece but is 100 years old, one or two even reaching back nearly to the two hundredth year. Some are heirlooms, the rest acquired after careful search.

This "feeling" for antique furniture is not so general as the liking for mahogany, for which dealers have reason to be thankful, and so the modern reproductions find a ready sale. A novelty is the cocktail tray, with its gay decoration and inscription. A combination piece of furniture is the cellaret, with a tiny steel safe filling a niche in the center.

In contrast to these specimens of mahogany furniture is the magazine stand of weathered oak.

Breaks Smallpox Quarantine.
Windsor, April 26.—Crown Attorney Rodd has been notified by Edward Price, health officer for Maldenstone Township, that several people near Elmstead, who were quarantined for smallpox, have refused to comply with the regulations and are mingling with their neighbors.

He has been instructed by the crown attorney to use his authority, by which he may have the offenders locked up and guarded by constables.

Alleged Highwayman In Jail.
Peterboro, April 26.—William McGee was arrested yesterday on a charge of attempting to hold up his Majesty's mail Wednesday morning. James Reid, the mailcarrier, was returning from the station with the mid-night mail, when he was stopped and ordered to hand over the mail bags. Reid, however, hit the man twice on the head with an empty mail bag and was allowed to go on.

Crown Counsel Withdraws.
Winnipeg, April 26.—Owing to a disagreement with the coroner, R. A. Bonner, crown counsel in the grain exchange conspiracy cases, has withdrawn, and it was yesterday necessary to adjourn the hearing until May 5.

Judge Phippen said Bonner was subject to discipline by the Law Society.

Story of a Famous Hymn.

A popular hymn is Theodulph's "All Glory, Laud and Honor," belonging to the thirteenth century, and said to have been written by the poet while in an Angers prison.

The author of "Hymns and Their Makers" quotes a legend in relation to its use on Palm Sunday, 821, to the effect that when Louis the Pious, King of France, was 38, Angers, he took part in the usual procession of laity and clergy, and as the procession passed the place where St. Theodulph, the Bishop of Orleans, had long been incarcerated, he was seen standing at the open window of his cell, and there, amid the silence of the people, he sang his hymn, to the delight of the King, who at once ordered him to be set at liberty and restored to his see. In some minor details this legend is referred to by other writers as well.

The original is too long to be sung in modern services, as it has no fewer than 78 lines. The verses usually found in our hymnals are but a fragment of the original hymn, which, with more or less abbreviation, has been used as a processional for many centuries.—The Quiver.

The root of all evil seems to thrive in most any soil.
