AN ENVIABLE BIRTHRIGHT

One of the greatest boons that ever can come to a human being is to be born on a farm and reared in the country, says O. L. Sweet Marden in "Success Magazine." Self reliance and grit are oftenest country-bred. The country boy is constantly thrown upon his resources, forced to think for himself, and this calls out his ingenuity and inventiveness. He develops better all-round judgement and a more level head than the city boy. His muscles are harder, his flesh firmer, and his brain fibre partakes of the same superior quality.

The very granite hills, the mountains, the valleys, the brooks, the miracle of the growing crops are every moment registering their mighty potencies in his constitution, putting iron into his blood, and stamina into his character, all of which will help to make him a giant when he comes to compete with the city-bred youth.

A man was flogged in the Montreal jail a few days ago for the crime of thrashing his wife. He seems to have suffered under the punishment. It may do him kind good. Drastic medicines are at times needed to cure bad diseases.

THE DUTIES OF TEACHERS AND PARENTS

(From the Lawrence Sun.)

Teachers have too limited knowledge of the home life of the child; parents, too limited knowledge of the school life. Many parents feel that they are doing their whole duty towards their children and the school by occasionally visiting the school in which their child is a pupil. This is well, but it fails to accomplish the desired end, that of placing the teacher, the pupil and the parent in a harmonious relationship. It is much better for the parents to call upon the teacher for the express purpose of getting acquainted with her and to help the teacher to get acquainted with her child.

Next year, ladies, in New York State, who wear feathers will be fined. Fine feathers will make heavy fines. Still, though they are to be fined, lots of them will be found.

Toronto's school children are being taught to write legibly. The type writer has not entirely obviated the necessity of extension work in the same direction for the benefit of people's mature years.

CORONATION DRESS

The Names of the Seven Royal Train-Bearers

The Queen having decided that her train at her Coronation shall be borne by seven daughters of Earls, is now considering what their costumes shall be. According to precedent, they will all wear white, and will be dressed precisely alike. Her Majesty will present to each of her attendants a handsome souvenir of the occasion, and this will probably be the only ornament they will be permitted to wear. The pages who attend the King wear a quaint uniform of scarlet, white and gold, and carry old-fashioned three-cornered hats with plumes under their arms.

The following are the train-bearers:

Lady Eileen Butler, daughter of the Earl of Lanesborough.

Lady Mary Dawson, daughter of the Earl of Darnley.

Lady Mabel Ogilvy, daughter of the late Earl of Airli and the Countess of Argyll.

Lady Victoria Carrington, daughter of Earl Carrington.

Lady Jean Cochrane, daughter of the Earl of Dundonald.

Lady Eileen Knox, daughter of the Earl and Countess of Banfury.

Lady Adelaide Spencer, daughter of Earl Spencer.

It is probable that further appointments will be made, necessitated by the weight and length of her Majesty's train.

GLASGOW'S CELEBRATION

At the Glasgow Corporation meeting at which plans were made for celebrating the Coronation, the Lord Provost explained that it was proposed to carry out arrangements similar to what was followed at King Edward's Coronation. The idea was to give a dinner to about 20,000 poor in the various parts of the city, that the children and their teachers should receive a medal, and also that the children should have a day in the Exhibition instead of the Children's Day in the parks. It would be quite in keeping with the usual circumstances that the Corporation should possibly have a banquet, and that there should be a reception on some evening for a large number of citizens. It was not intended to go to a very large amount of extravagance, but they would require to celebrate the Coronation in keeping with the dignity of the city.

RECORD THEATRE PRICES

From information furnished by the directors of the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, the prices to be charged for the Coronation gala performance range from 100 guineas ($320) for grand tier boxes to 1 guinea (about $5.25) for a whole seat in the gallery.

On Thursday morning the remains of a young man said to be the son of George Thomas were found on the I. N. R. track about a mile distant from the station. It is conjectured that he had been walking on the track and run over by a train late on Wednesday night. Dr. Martin will hold an inquest on Friday and so far no light can be thrown on the accident.

Although there has been no official appointment of a successor to the late Dr. James Eell, at the Royal Victoria Hospital, it is well understood that Dr. A. E. Garrow, will be selected for the position of surgeon in chief.

Rev. Dr. B. C. Borden, who for many years was principal of Mount Allison Ladies College, Sackville, N. B., has been appointed president of the Mount Allison University in succession to Dr. David Allison, who resigned a year ago.

Three men dropped into the canal at Iroquois when a scaffold on which they were working collapsed. Elgin Servis was drowned, but the other two managed to get out.

The Commons bill requiring companies to pay their employees twice a month, was opposed in the Senate Railway Committee by the representatives of the railway companies.

At a meeting of the Board of Trade held on Monday evening Messrs. W. D. Duncan and George Glenie were elected members.

A committee was appointed to consider the advisability of a train to run between here and Causapscal afternoon and evening and to report.

The committee appointed to look into the question of the train service eastwards reported progress, the main question being left over till he meantime as it was proposed that the Limited would be put on earlier this year.

The chairman was authorized to ask two subscriptions for the original delegates chosen to Ottawa regarding Saguenay S. and an outlet to the river. The Board will meet the bills of the delegates.

There was a long discussion on the question of technical education for Campbellton which was left open until the plans of the school trustees were known.
