On Being Late.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

They say time is money, and yet how many people who are thoroughly scrupulous about other people's money are equally unscrupulous about their own time! A single penny out of a pocketbook entrusted to them, and yet when a friend entrusts his time, pocketbook to such a one by making an appointment with him, the time thief thinks that making off with a large sum of time is a mere peccadillo to be wiped off the slate with an excuse or two.

The other day I was waiting for a friend in the doorway of one of the large stores in the city near which I live. A woman was standing near me who had evidently been waiting for someone a long time and was rather impatient. Finally a young girl came sauntering along as if she had all the time in the world. The older woman called her attention to the fact that it was long past the time at which she had promised to meet her, and the young girl answered, "Oh, what time is it? Am I very late?" I did not hear any more because they walked away, but what I did hear showed that the girl had not considered the keeping of her appointment important enough to even keep track of the time.

A young man told me a short time ago that the only fault he had to find with the young lady to whom he is engaged is that she is never on time. A while ago they were going to the opera and as usual she was late in getting to the meeting place. Consequently, they missed the first act. The young man was out of sorts and showed it. She resented his crossness and before the evening was over she was in tears and the pleasure of the opera spoiled for both of them. This is but one example of the sort of thing that is continually happening. Comic papers make a joke of this fault on the part of women, but it has caused this man so much trouble that he is really disturbed about it and considers it a serious defect in character.

My aunt told the other night of a recent experience of hers. She has a friend for whom she always has to wait from fifteen minutes to half an hour, and a short time ago she waited a whole hour, and then, as the friend did not show up she went home without the chance of explaining. Shortly afterwards the friend called her up on the telephone and asked her why she did not meet her. My aunt replied that she had waited an hour and that that was the last time she would ever make an appointment with her. The consequence is that a friendship of long standing has been practically broken up by this careless habit. Of course, there are many times when the breaking of an appointment cannot be helped, or when being late for an appointment is unavoidable, and I think people should always be given a chance to explain. But it seems to me that a regular habit of stealing other people's time in this way shows a lack of sense of honor and is utterly excusable.

For The Nervous Woman,

Or the woman who experiences hot flashes nothing is so good to soothe, quiet and calm the nervous system as a pure glyceric extract of native medicinal plants, and made without alcohol, which has been sold by druggists for the past forty years, and most favorably known as Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is an excellent appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

Mrs. McDonald.

"My disease was called retroversion," writes Mrs. LYDIA McDONALD, of Meoseta, Mich., Route 1. "I had nervous chills and numb spells all over me. Then I had inflammation and the doctor said I had a floating kidney. I doctored seven months with our family physician. He said I would have an operation. Then I stopped taking his medicine. After taking three bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicine I have not had any nervous chills or weak spells. I am better than for years."

My daughter is now taking the "Prescription" and Dr. Pierce's Glyceric Extract. These remedies have helped her ever so much in a short time. We have great faith in your medicines for female troubles."

Fashions and Fads.

White suits are trimmed with fur in dark colors.

Suits are made of velvet or velour de laine in shades of red.

For lovers of outdoor sports the knitted jacket is much worn.

The new motor bonnets are also of ratine and are fur trimmed.

Smart waists of white voile have groups of fine tucks alternating with rows of tiny rhinestone buttons.

New bracelets are of gold and platinum, worked to imitate a broad galon fastened with a gold buckle.

Magneta colored cloth, trimmed with black soutache braid, is one of the combinations in the new costumes.

Cameos in Wedgewood blue and shell pink are seen on hats and used for the fastenings of evening cloaks.

Many otherwise sombre tailored suits are brightened by a touch of Oriental embroidery on collars, cuffs and revers.

The latest word from Paris says that hats and toques are small. Some have close-fitting brims of fur and draped crowns.

Plain velvet, especially in light colors, is being used for many theatre gowns. Amber is one of the loveliest shades.

The favorite tissues of the moment for the new evening gowns are flowered mousselines, brocades and rich moire souple.

Some of the prettiest tailored skirts for the tailored suits are made of navy chambruse with revers and pipings of white satin.

Sapphire blue and virgins are two favorite shades for the odd velvet coats which women are wearing with black satin of a loop and button.

Some of the new clinging gowns are fashioned with a slight train, frequently made so as to fasten up by means of a loop and button.

Nothing is prettier for a young woman's evening gown than rose and white flowered mousseline and lace.

Little bows to finish one's collar resist of bright colored velvet cocks.

Combed at the ends and held in the middle by a medallion of real Irish.

Chinella, sable and squirrel are favorite furs for trimming dresses and nanties. Black satin and velvet dresses are trimmed with white fox.

A feature of the prettiest American underclothes is net casings through which the ribbons are run. Imitation Irish lace is also much seen.

Smally boys are wearing charming little polo coats, almost identical with their elders. Mannish coats of gray and blue chinchilla are always good.

Theatre and dinner gowns of velvet are almost invariably fashioned with transparent corsages. The sleeves are invariably formed kimono fashion.

Some of the most stunning stoles are worked in narrow strips of fur laid on a soft velvet or satin foundation with an effect like wide-ribbed fur corduroy.

Beautiful dressing cases, address books and small matters of this kind are now to be had in a fine leatherlike pigskin, in beautiful tones of turquoise and old blue.

Buttons of striped porcelain are used on many of the tailored suits.

The new neck ruffles of feathers, fur or lace are studded with roses.

Many smart women are wearing scarfs of lace of heavy ecru lace and black velvet.

Pretty skating caps are of black velvet with white cloth or velvet facings.

For the young girl of 14 or 16, the Russian blouse suit is most becoming.

The new Russian tunic is having a great success for dinner and evening wear.

Bolero coats of plain velvet in odd colors are still holding their place in fashion's favour.

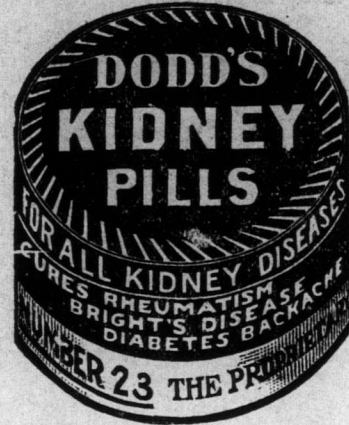

The characteristic of mantles this season is that few of them reach the hem of the skirt.

Very chic collarettes and muffs are made by combining tulle, lace, velvet and ribbon.

Entire crowns formed of small ostrich tips are being used on some of the smartest models.

For motor coats, the thickest of ratine and camel's hair cloths are the newest materials used.

Whole dresses are made of broad tail, so fine and lustrous that it looks almost like watered velvet.

Dainty and chic walking dresses are made of fine navy blue serge or of brown and black striped tweed.

One of the most attractive new costumes is of sapphire blue velvet trimmed with chinchilla or fox fur.

The vogue of black and white does not abate; indeed, it is one of the greatest successes of the autumn season.

Chic women hold persistently to the small toque, which has gained so rapidly in the fashion world this season.

Bags of the coming season are to be much smaller and rectangular in shape. The cordeller is not in fashion now.

Combinations triumph in evening gowns. One side of the bodice will be cream tulle and the other of raspberry velvet.

On Second Thought.

By JAY E. HOUSE.

The men are homely, but they often show good taste. When a Chinaman sees his wife for divorce no white man is named as co-respondent.

Advice to young husbands: Do not hang around the house too much. A woman soon begins to hate a man who is always under her feet.

If the punishment is to be made to fit the crime the man who invented the hammock should be sentenced to sleep in it.

What has become of the old fashioned man who wore a watch chain made from the hair of his deceased wife?

There are few exceptions to the rule that no wise dog stays in town on the fourth of July.

In making up your list of martyrs to duty do not overlook the woman who bends over the red hot stove three times every day.

The fact that many men fail is not due to the fact that they put all their eggs in one basket as it is to the misfortune which gives the average man but one egg.

Eph Wiley says that, while he has not seen the play called "The Indian's Revenge," he assumes that the Indian takes it out on a bottle.

A smart man is one who realizes that he is too old for the women to pay much attention to him.

Psoriasis

All Over Body

Doctors Said Incurable, But Now There is No Sign of Disease, Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. N. Massey.

Psoriasis is one of the most dreaded of itching skin diseases. It is a sort of chronic eczema. The itching it causes is almost beyond human endurance, and doctors are accustomed to give it up as incurable.

But here is a case that was given up and pronounced incurable. The result proves that Dr. Chase's Ointment almost works miracles in curing the worst form of itching skin disease imaginable.

Mrs. Nettie Massey, Concession, Ont., writes:—For five years I suffered with what three doctors called psoriasis. They could not help me, and one of them told me if anyone offered to guarantee a cure for $50.00 to keep my money, as I could not be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this ointment enough."

The soothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment is truly wonderful. Eczema, salt rheum, barber's itch, ringworm and scores of such torturing ailments are relieved at once and as certainly cured if the Ointment is used persistently. Mothers find Dr. Chase's Ointment invaluable in preventing and curing the skin troubles of babies, such as chafing, irritations of the skin and baby eczema.

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box. All dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
