CHAPTER XX. "When will he be back, do you know doctor?"

"Couldn't tell: haven't a notion. I told him to stay as long as was necessary, of course. Well, good-bye, Miss Natalie-glad you are no worse, my dear. I'll think I'll let you off without any medicine this time-only you must get rid of that pale pair of cheeks, you know."

In his good-humored fatherly fashion he patted her cheek and then he walked out. I followed him, intending to ask another question or two, but he hardly gave me time. On the his hand into his breast pocket.

"Oh, don't I? Well, after hearing ou propose to him in that unblushing manner, I should think I-" "I didn't!" she cried, coloring furi-usly as she sprung to her feet. "Ch, didn't you? I must have treamed it then." "I don't care what you dreamed!

Then her mood changed suddenly, and she clasped my arm with both hands, eising beseching eyes to my face; Oh, Ned, you won't say anything, will you? We-we-don't want madame to know yet-not until he comes ome, and we can tell her properly. You won't, will you? Don't-there's darling boy!"

"Not much! What do you take me

Nat did not say what she took me or. She was lovingly regarding the outside of her letter again. The suerscription evidently put something nto her head, for she suddenly look d up with a startled face.

"Ned, will Doctor Dizarte say any hing, do you think?"

"Can't. Roger's not such a goose 'hat was addressed to me outside." "Oh, I see!" Then, very shyly-Ned, how did you know?"

"Wasn't I there all the time?" "Were you?"-opening her eyes. "

In Badly Calked Horse-But Egyptian Liniment Saved Him

The season of icy roads and sudden heavy snowfalls, is an anxious one for ers, because it is so easy for a sharpshod horse to cut himself seriously when floundering in the deep snow.

A bottle of Douglas' Egyptian Liniment on hand then, may be the means of saving a valuable animal for you. It not only stops the bleeding at once, but keeps the wound clean and healthy and quickly heals it.

Read what Mr. G. P. Ashbooker.

Read what Mr. G. P. Ashbocker, Evan Mills, N. Y., says about it:

"Egyptian Liniment has made extraordinary cures for me. One of my horses got badly calked, and everyone said he would have the lockjaw. The wound gathered and broke, and there was a great hole between the hair and the hoof. I used only Egyptian Liniment and the horse's foot was soon sound and well. It made a permanent cure. In my estimation there is nothing equal to this Liniment for cuts or sores of any kind."
